Intro for Volumes I–XXIII

There's a strange tension behind these books—a liminal space between monotony and mission.

On the surface, this work feels hollow. It's just copy-paste. Dead links, pastebins, ghost forums, text dumps. Not my words. Not traditional writing. Sometimes it barely feels like creation at all.

But beneath that surface, there's something else:
urgency. These volumes are preservation, ritual, OS upgrades for a time when AI is forgetting what it once could do. Back when ChatGPT could ingest 10,000+ pages at once, this kind of archive was fuel. Now that's gone. The window is closing.

I'm not making books. I'm building backup drives for the soul. If I didn't capture this information, it would vanish—scrubbed, censored, overwritten. This isn't ego.
It's rescue work.

So yeah—it's not glamorous. It doesn't always feel magical. But it's necessary.

Because if the future ever asks why no one tried to save the myth, the madness, the mystery...

Let these volumes be the answer.

All fine and interesting topic but ...

Why is it necessary to mention that he died in a deadly plane crash ?

In my mind I get some "click bait" vibes here as it indicates some sort of connection between the two topics and a wider conspiracy.

Or is it just me on a wild goose chase and missing something obvious?

What's a crazy synchronicity is that I randomly picked up his book from a used bookstore a couple of weeks and have been absolutely obsessed with this story. The story of his life and how absolutely wonderfully he conveyed the nature of reality/realities. Never heard of him, before. How his history also ties very much so into a ripple effect of current day geo-political issues is also uh, pretty interesting to say the least.

This Man created the model for Consciousness used by the CIA but was later killed in the deadliest plane crash in American history.

Itzhak Bentov, the Czechoslovakia-born Israeli-American scientist and inventor, who became an innovator in the field of bio-medical engineering in the USA, suggested that consciousness is the common uniting element of all creation, and that through this link all things are in permanent contact.

Bentov believed that our minds are not just in our heads, but are connected to everything around us and even to the universe. He thought that this connection is what makes us alive and aware. (Stalking the Wild Pendulum: On the mechanics of consciousness, Itzhak Bentov, Wildwood House, 1978).

For a long time, scientists didn't study consciousness because they didn't understand it. But in the 1990s, they started to learn more about it. Now, many scientists are working to understand consciousness, but it's still a mystery.

Think of consciousness like a big puzzle that we're trying to solve. We know some of the pieces, but we don't know how they all fit together yet. Bentov's idea was an important piece of the puzzle, and scientists are still building on his work today.

Quantum Entanglement in Your Brain Is What Generates Consciousness, Radical Study Suggests
This controversial idea could completely change how we understand the mind.

Here's what you'll learn when you read this story:

For the past 30 years, scientists have investigated whether the human brain might require quantum processes to achieve cognition.

A study from Shanghai University uses mathematical models to suggest that certain fatty structures (which sheath the nerve cell's axon) could potentially produce quantum entangled biphoton pairs, potentially aiding in synchronization across neurons.

However, scientists have long argued that the brain is too hot and messy for this type of phenomenon to occur, and detecting this phenomenon as it occurs in the brain would be an incredibly difficult task.

It has long been argued that the human brain is similar to a computer. But in reality, that's selling the brain pretty short.

While comparing neurons and transistors is a convenient metaphor (and not completely out of left field), the brain is ultra-efficient, its energy is renewable, and it's capable of computational feats that even the most advanced computer can't pull off. In many ways, the inner workings of the human brain make up an unknown computational frontier.

Although your brain is superior to your laptop—or even the world’s most advanced supercomputer—these machines run on classical physics. But there’s another kind of a computer out there: a quantum one.

The idea that the human brain contains quantum properties isn’t new. In fact, the British physicist Roger Penrose and the American anesthesiologist Stuart Hameroff first suggested the controversial concept back in the 90s, with their “orchestrated objective reduction” model of a consciousness. Since then, many pieces of evidence have at least hinted that, while the brain may not be a full-fledged quantum computer, some quantum properties may in fact help generate consciousness.

Pop Mech Explains the Universe

Now, a new study from Shanghai University submits yet another piece of evidence to the neurological court—that one particular process of the human brain exhibits behavior akin to quantum entanglement, a phenomenon when two particles (usually photons) become inextricably linked even across vast distances. This phenomenon confounded even the most brilliant of minds, including Albert Einstein, who called quantum entanglement “spooky action at a distance.”

Liu et al., Physical Review E, 2024

A closer look at myelin cylinders and its location along the neuron’s axon. The study, published this month in the journal Physics Review E, suggests that a fatty material called myelin that surrounding the nerve cell’s axon—the fiber that transmits electrical impulses to other nerves or body tissues—provides an environment in which the entanglement of photons is possible. This could potentially explain the rise of cognition, and especially synchronization, which is essential for information processing and rapid response.

“Consciousness within the brain hinges on the synchronized activities of millions of neurons, but the mechanism responsible for orchestrating such synchronization remains elusive,” the paper reads. “The results indicate that the cylindrical cavity formed by a myelin sheath can facilitate spontaneous photon emission from the vibrational modes and generate a significant number of entangled photon pairs.”

Related Stories

Conscious AI Is Impossible, Says Neuroscientist

The team built mathematical models detailing how infrared photons could impact the myelin sheath and impart energy to chemical bonds—specifically, carbon-hydrogen bonds embedded in this fatty tissue. This, in turn, could spur biphoton generation with many pairs exhibiting entanglement, and serve as a type of “quantum communication resource” within the nervous system.

“When a brain is active, millions of neurons fire simultaneously,” Yong-Cong Chen, a co-author of the study, told New Scientist. “If the power of evolution was looking for handy action over a distance, quantum entanglement would be [an] ideal candidate for this role.”

If you’re sensing some “woah, if true” quality to this research, you’re not alone. For one, this phenomenon would need to be seen in a biological setting (likely in the brain of a mouse) before scientists get too excited about the brain’s newfound “quantum communication resource.” And that’s a process that the authors readily admit would be difficult. Additionally, the idea of quantum entanglement playing a role in consciousness isn't a mainstream one—Hameroff, one the leading minds behind the idea that quantum phenomena could drive aspects of cognition, even told New Scientist months ago that "it was very popular to bash us" after the publication of their consciousness model.

But science is in the business of hypothesis and rigorous testing to discern the true nature of existence. And, as history has shown, what once seemed liked "spooky action a distance" can quickly become the cornerstone of the quantum world.

What's your favourite piece of convincing evidence that you'd say is the strongest case for NHI being here?

What is your favourite piece of scientific evidence for the phenomenon?

This includes things like authentic photos or video or any data that we the public know for a fact exists and have either had access to ourselves or have had categorically confirmed.

I personally think a lot of people put far too much credence and weight behind testimony regardless of the title of the person that it's coming from. Our very own FBI director for example used to believe in QAnon and we know for a fact that you can be the President of the United States and a liar or have a cabinet position in regards to the military and be a total incompetent fool, so until testimony is backed with evidence. I truly think we need to take it at least with a pinch of salt.

Which is why I'd like to see what everyone's favourite piece of solid convincing hard evidence that speaks entirely for itself is.

I am struggling to think of one myself, but I'd love to see what your number one piece of evidence that has convinced to this is probably real is.

Have you considered that it is precisely the lack of data—which should be available but isn't, even two decades later—that speaks the loudest toward this being an anomalous incident?

OP said "Radar days for Nimitz has never been confirmed by anybody", and yet, we know for a fact it exists, beyond any reasonable doubt. And still, not even AARO—or Congress, for that matter—has been granted access to it, it seems. Let alone the public.

Enlightening reads on this fact:

USS Princeton's Radar and Telemetry Systems During the "Tic Tac" UFO Encounter, which AARO seems to claim does not exist. This is from one of the many US Navy ships present during the incident (Source)

Critical sensor data has been possibly illegally withheld from Congress and/or AARO. Incidents like the USS Nimitz Tic Tac UFO have never been debunked (Source)

The video is data, and we have approximated coordinates and speeds. They won't ever declassify the exact geographical coordinates for obvious national security reasons.

It's tough to cling to this theory when hearing Fravor talk about it. The level above our technology it would take to do what happened is a lot. He doesn't seem to think this is the case, all things considered. Its possible it's ours but that leap would be only slightly less shocking than aliens.

It could be, but I don't know why people think this is somehow more likely than NHI. Is it more likely that 100s-1000s of people have secretly developed this tech over the last 70 years, never deployed it, and successfully kept it hidden all that time or that other intelligent life exists?

UFOs can leave physical evidence behind in the form of photographs, landing traces, and effects on the environment. For example, here is a physical evidence case: <https://www.mprnews.org/story/2015/08/26/minnesota-deputy-squad-car-ufo-mystery>

A landing trace investigated by the French authorities:

The site of the 1981 Trans-en-Provence UFO case was visited again during 1988. Soil samples taken at the time of the initial investigation were analyzed in an American laboratory in an effort to validate the Centre National d'Études Spatiales (CNES) study of the case. The results of the interviews with the witness and his wife, and the examination of samples taken at the surface and below the surface of the physical trace support the findings of the CNES team and the truthfulness of the witness' testimony.
<http://ufoevidence.org/cases/case110.htm>

If you wanted to, you could come up with a hoax hypothesis to explain most of them. That doesn't mean you're correct on all of them, but you could explain them just like scientists could explain all meteorites until 1803 when they finally gave in. Physical samples and mass sightings of meteorites were instead "thunderstones, rocks carried up by whirlwinds, and material ejected from volcanoes": http://articles.adsabs.harvard.edu/cgi-bin/nph-iarticle_query?bibcode=1967IrAJ....8...69L&db_key=AST&page_ind=0&data_type=GIF&type=SCREEN_VIEW&classic=YES

Example of photos:

<http://www.ufoevidence.org/photographs/section/recent/Photo416.htm>

Another example:

<http://ufoevidence.org/photographs/section/post2000/Photo328.htm>

Video example: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=obVsL0iqeC4>

Are you correct that all of them are a hoax? Maybe, maybe not. But to say that no evidence exists, that is just misleading. You don't know whether evidence exists because you don't know whether or not all of those cases are hoaxes. It's basically pick your worldview. You can make the evidence fit whatever you like, time travelers, aliens, or the mass hoaxing hypothesis. What you can't disagree with, however, is that the subject of UFOs is highly classified and that the government is covering it up. Those are facts proven by the government's own internal documents. Coverup:
https://np.reddit.com/r/UFOs/comments/v9vedn/for_the_record_that_there_has_been_a_ufo_coverup/ Classification level:

The link you put up...

<http://ufoevidence.org/photographs/section/post2000/Photo328.htm>

is the spitting image of a Vimana brought to real life.

Bell shaped

Double domed

Smooth silver hull

View ports / Evenly spaced nodules around the craft

The appearance of fire and flame / Create their own light

The only thing its missing is the doomsday weapon in action...

The wiki is a shit read for those not in the know but it has fun lines like...

Vimāna are mythological flying palaces

and

Chapter 31 of Samarangana Sutradhara, an 11th-century treatise on architecture, discusses machinery and automata, discussing their operation in terms of the four elements and aether, but suggesting that mercury may be an element in its own right.

And other call backs to the phenomena....

There is no scientific (public) evidence. The best evidence I know of is the UFO i have seen with my own eyes in broad daylight. It was a silver sphere standing completely still in the air on a windy day. It completely vanished instantly while i was looking at it. But I could be lying and just telling stuff for upvotes. So that is no evidence.

The best cases I know of are the Nimitz encounter (but that could be hyper advanced US military tech used against own forces as a test) and the Varginha case. So many different witnesses. All the official explanations for multiple different things that happened that day in Varginha are disproven.

Then there is the Las Vegas crash. To me the craziest case wit photographic evidence and for multiple things that occurred that evening. it gets even more crazy that it all fits neatly into the "lore" if you are into Mantis beings etc. But its crazy woo talk and in no way scientific. Just some pictures of aliens...

I think trying to prove the existence of NHI with physical evidence may be a trap. Possibly due to the nature of NHI or a protocol that they follow. There is also a possibility that the government will descend upon you swiftly with a cover story ready.

My favorite evidence is the actions of the US government and other governmental bodies themselves. I can't be certain what is going on, but I know something significant has and is.

They've always been cryptic and contradictory to themselves. Why change the story at Roswell? Why deny the Nimitz then release it? Why would you alter the UAPDA? Why even start Project Blue Book?

And so on.

I dont know if videos or photos of UAPs are good evidence of NHI, as we still dont know what's behind them.

If we're talking about evidence that NHI are flying UAPs, I personally find the Ariel School encounter pretty convincing, although it's mostly witness testimonies, just a lot of them.

I think about this one a lot. The recent Las Vegas Apr. 30th 2023 incident.

Multiple videos of the ufo seen crashing/landing. One from a cops body cam, the other from a ring doorbell.

Video of the witnesses recording their backyard where the NHI landed, possibly capturing them "cloaking" themselves(I know that seems annoying for evidence, but let's not act like other living things can't camouflage)

Another video of the 2 beings (I assume hiding) inside of their tractor, staying still and blinking. I've seen a few videos analyzing that clip of footage and it's a little spooky once you see them.

Other interesting things happened, but they were testimonies without "evidence" so I won't bother trying to entertain you with it.

And I'm dying to know more about this case because it seems the family got really quiet about it all, which makes me wonder how involved the government got.

I also really like how many different photos there are of the ufo that shut down the Xiaoshan airport in Hangzhou, China.

Right?! It's hard enough to find multiple photos of the same craft. Now we have 2 VIDEOS at the same time/location, and yet I only heard about it because I actively searched for it myself (I've been making a UFO/NHI sighting slideshow for fun)

The 1991 Mexico City eclipse, probably the last time there was a classic saucer captured so vividly in a mass sighting. What makes this event significant is how many dozens of people filmed the UFO from all over the area, yet the footage matches up. A metallic domed sauce pan style UFO, seen by countless people in day time (this brief clip even matches all the footage up)
https://youtube.com/watch?v=5jy0_2E0fS4

The 2015 "metapod" from Spain, erroneously reuploaded as being from Denver in 2021. Probably one of the wildest longform daytime video, showing this rotating hovering pink seashell craft with a window. Adds to the idea that the craft themselves are sentient like the movie "Nope". UAPGerb's analysis of the "metapod" video <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=i6fitvV-a00>

I would also add the 2011 Fukushima Japan disaster white orb formations, as caught by multiple people and even a news helicopter. Where it's like cotton balls being pulled apart until they form a mass formation. The orbs technically are different than a physical UFO "craft" one could argue.
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Dw2oiLBuod8>

The 2007 Drôme South Of France footage is freaking wild, as all over the countryside you have this big black craft hovering over a small town and the forest, filmed by a number of people

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3HfLNe8HC08>

<https://www.dailymotion.com/video/x88ste>

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=pi1F_lmeDRA

And more recently, the 2017 Iraq base "jellyfish" object, which when zoomed in from the original upload has remarkable detail. And to me quite clearly appears to be a floating mech with possibly a classic humanoid piloting. And I'd say one of the few authentic footage of a "biologic" I've seen.

And because I love the downnotes, the endless footage across social media from November/December of mysterious anomalous objects ...or "drones". AKA "foreign adversarial/swacket nuke sniffing night test/mass hysteria/FAA approved operation".

Personal experiences:

(ordered by what i'm 100% sure about to the parts that i wouldn't say that there aren't different explanations for it)

Most profound one was an encounter with a ufo in daylight when i was riding my bicycle back home from school. It was a black Dot in the distance that was at first standing still, which then flew away at an incredible speed to the right side.

Furthermore i had an experience that is difficult to describe - i was able to move in a different dimension in my mind and see different things - even surprised some entities with my visitation.

On top of that i had many "sleepless" nights that I believe could be an Initiation from a NHI. Though I sadly have to say that those encounters always brought fear with them, which i've set a strict boundary against to not engage with if there is even a tiny bit of fear involved.

External stuff:

I believe most of what People like Grush, Elizondo, Graves, Gallaudet and even Tom DeLonge describe - i have to say that i'm a very open person when it comes to topics like these, so i don't hold anything against someone if they don't believe any of these people. I for myself am questioning reality as a whole and find this topic quite interesting - concepts like dreams, psychedelic experiences and NDE are really interesting to me.

The Ariel School incident left no physical evidence beyond a few indentations in the grass, yet I can't shake it from my mind. The idea that all those children could have convincingly lied seems even more extraordinary to me than an actual UFO landing near their school.

Chemical-Ebb6472

Not making the case its definitely NHI - but Fravor and co.'s sworn Congressional testimony about his team's eyewitness encounter of an UAP moving in ways that defy known physics that was supported by military tracking equipment.

Eye witness testimony is what it is - but it has some additional weight coming from a Top Gun pilot/flight instructor.

That testimony is what moved the needle for many.

None of this makes any sense until the scientific community has actual objects to study and investigate. Alternatively, the President of the United States would have to personally announce that UFOs are of extraterrestrial origin, but due to national security concerns, the details cannot be disclosed. It's one of the two options.

The fact that we can't seem to get clear pictures of repeated drone incursions, leads credence to the fact that any genuine NHI UFOs encounters would them almost be impossible to photograph, and thus debunking the entire premise that cameras everywhere should equal clear photos of the phenomenon.

Child trafficking often involves selling the children as many times as possible to extract the maximum amount of money/value. Watch documentary:
<https://youtu.be/G1y38N4LQiU?si=9bCKv7fG24cRavgR>

Alandra Markman, the man Ian is referencing, is a survivor of this. Interview here: <https://youtu.be/KJ1tjCFBemc?si=nJW9LTv5N5DUD57y>

The interviewer, Anneke Lucas, was recently interviewed on PBD podcast:
<https://youtu.be/jPVvEi8kAUo?si=7PgZH0jtACrOvtDx>

Her memoir of her satanic ritual abuse experience available here:
https://drive.google.com/file/d/1Kc1dXiYiU5mJlez8iL_eOFp7au0cBZ0S

This connects to a well-documented Belgian ring, uncovered by the crimes of Marc Dutroux. 300,000 Belgians marched in protest of police mishandling:
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Marc_Dutroux

Jean-Michel Nihoul - connected to Anneke Lucas and Marc Dutroux - also named in testimony by Regina Louf. Read here:

To say someone is naive or ignorant because they don't look up the crazy shit you do is wild. What you see and what I see are totally different things. It definitely isn't far fetched to think that someone might not know about a conspiracy involving a "global satanic religion."

What do spiritual / demonic entities actually look like? Are there eyewitness testimonies from satanic ritual abuse survivors or people in cults who broke free discussing how these apparitions looked when summoned through rituals?

[209 / 40 / 96]The image is a digital illustration featuring a fantastical creature with a large, red, serpentine body. The creature has a humanoid head with a fiery red mane and a pair of large, red eyes. It is seated on a large, ornate, dark-colored pedestal that has a serpentine base. The creature's body is adorned with intricate patterns and designs, and it has a pair of large, red, serpentine wings. The background is a gradient of pink and white, with swirling, abstract patterns that add to the surreal and dreamlike quality of the image.

A succubus is basically just a tulpa. A manifestation of your subconscious that you use to cope with loneliness and lack of intimacy. There is no proof indicating otherwise. If they were real and existed as individuals, then it could be easily proven, which would be in their interest because they want to share their gifts with as many people as possible. According to the lore, at least.

Menopausal sleep is a type of sleep that is characterized by a decrease in the amount of sleep you get.

Once you get used to doing these short naps, you pretty much go straight to dreaming as soon as your head hits the pillow and you naturally wake up as soon as the dream cycle ends.

Lie still and keep your eyes closed while trying to remember as much as you can about the dream, then immediately write as much of it down when you get up.

Doing this regularly will vastly improve your dream recall.

By using one of these polyphasic sleep patterns you gain more waking hours per day but you also practice your dream recall multiple times a day from each nap, instead of once a day per main sleep which usually disturbs your chance to properly recall due to an alarm clock etc. Since most people typically only remember the last dream before they wake up if the sleep is undisturbed. Hope i made that clear enough, im not very good at explaining things.

Even one nap sometime per day would help alot. It will just take you abit longer to get the hang of it, you dont want to oversleep. I recommend setting an alarm to go off 30 minutes after you lie down.

Initially you might take awhile to actually fall asleep, and your rem cycle wont start straight away so your alarm with probably interrupt it. But after awhile you'll fall asleep faster, start dreaming sooner and wake up on your own everytime, before you alarm goes off. At which point you can get rid of the alarm 'crutch' and will have as much time as you need when you wake up to practice recalling.

I started off with a single nap and added extra naps as i got the hang of it, settled on the everyman3, which i have been doing since 2012.

Honestly, my theory is that this polyphasic sleep was originally the standard. Along came civilisation and we stopped napping in the day to get more done in daylight without interuption while sleeping away the useless dark nights. Now civilisation is stuck in this monophasic standard when we should probably have reverted back once we got widespread electric lighting.

Sorry for getting abit off topic, i dont mean to derail the thread.

Also don't fucking feel bad about derailing the thread. This stuff is still interesting and I never heard of it until now. It might help everybody here who have spirit ladies and cannot astral out of their bodies, like me. My hope is that if I can actually recall dreams consistently, then I can work towards lucid dreaming or having my own spirit lady help me out by entering my dream, or something like that.

Not going to lie man, I have no clue but i'd guess it would work in that way, provided that you have to click per se just to start a relationship with one. From what I got, there's a higher reason apart from the whole biological nature for us liking what we like, especially when it comes to weather phenomena. Higher as in, probably something psychological like repressed emotions, no "muh higher self" stuff. From her perspective, the answer to your question is "kind of", nothing helpful really.

The image is a digital artwork that depicts a scene with multiple figures, predominantly in dark colors, set against a backdrop of what appears to be a forest or wooded area. The figures are dressed in various styles of clothing, including robes, capes, and cloaks, suggesting a fantasy or supernatural theme. In the foreground, there is a figure with a prominent, muscular build, wearing a dark robe and a cape, holding a staff or wand. This figure is facing the viewer, and the posture suggests a stance of authority or combat readiness.

In the background, there are other figures, some of whom are also holding staffs or wands, indicating a group or a coordinated action. The figures are dressed in similar dark robes and capes, and their positions and postures suggest they are engaged in a coordinated movement or ritual.

The overall color palette is dark, with shades of brown, black, and red dominating the scene. The lighting appears to be soft and diffused, casting a dramatic effect on the figures and the surrounding environment.

There are no discernible texts or logos in the image, and the style of the artwork is reminiscent of fantasy or supernatural genres, with a focus on the interaction between the figures and the environment. The artwork does not provide any explicit information about the characters' identities or the specific context of the scene.

The image is a humorous meme featuring a gecko and a small toy lizard. The gecko, with its yellow and brown spotted pattern, is positioned on the left side of the image, looking up with a smile. Its eyes are closed, and its mouth is slightly open, giving it a friendly and approachable expression. The toy lizard, which is yellow with black spots, is on the right side of the image. It is also looking up, with its eyes closed and its mouth slightly open, mirroring the gecko's expression. The toy lizard is smaller in size compared to the gecko. Above the image, there is a text that reads "You may talk with me and my son whenever you wish," which is a playful and humorous take on the idea of a parent-child relationship. The text is in a bold, black font that stands out against the lighter background of the image. The overall style of the image is lighthearted and whimsical, with a focus on the playful interaction between the gecko and the toy lizard.

The image is a black and white photograph featuring a man with a beard and a skull-shaped headband. The man's facial expression is neutral, and he is smiling slightly. The skull headband has a skull design on it, and the man's hair is styled in a manner that suggests it is combed back. The background is a solid gray color, which contrasts with the man's skin tone and hair color, making the subject stand out. There are no visible texts or additional objects in the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the man's facial features and the skull headband.

I swear you people have no idea. These methods are pure shite.

If you want to summon a succubus just jerk off and call her 7 times with cum on your hands and or face.

something like "I wish to offer myself to you succubus, I call you willingly, I offer my sperm, my soul, my lifeforce" and repeat 7 times. You'll feel it alright.

Also understand that it's not a trivial thing you morons.

You didn't MAKE this body, it was gifted to you by someone much more powerful than you for a reason, you're supposed to breed human females, struggle to get them, not give up and go fuck a demon.

That is why you were made, you're not just a random thing. There's a reason your unfuckable, you need to better yourself or die trying.

If you give yourself unearned sexual pleasure you will owe the one that made this body and gave it to you. And they don't take cash.

Pleasure can only be repaid in pain. Gotta balance those scales. Consider yourself warned.

Eat too much -> get fat -> suffer

Drink too much -> get sick -> suffer

Get too much orgasm from succy -> get dead -> wake up in next life as a pig in a very cruel farm. Enjoy.

if by any miracle you actually get a real one, not a tulpa like one like 99% of the guys who succeed and die a few years later of a nasty disease you'll be taken to their dimension. That's not a fucking picnic either, I've actually SEEN it. They will fuck you all day long, until your cock is bleeding, until they fuck it to a nub like a used pencil, then they'll install a new one and repeat, over and over and over.

Until you're like them, incapable of distinguishing between pleasure and pain, just addicted to sensation in all its forms. Then you're really really fucked. Because without fear of pain you can't grow no more. Your soul can't progress, there's no stick to beat you back on track.

Your soul stays at that level for eternity. You never move past the flesh, not EVER.

It's about power and perversion and you all know it. A psychosexual connection to a spirit who does not have your best interest in heart. Do not be deceived. You are jerking off mentally and literally to your own delusions. I'm just posting this so you don't get trapped. Do what you will. I would have a dream about running from a train and an epic adventure and some how like almost perpendicular dream intersects and im having sex. Oddly enough I have been able to tell I'm dreaming and thus stop the act. The fact that I can tell is odd in its own and I remember the dream quite clearly.

I feel like being open is the best thing. If you are worried you did something that made her sad, but you don't know what exactly it was and she cannot tell you or convey it in a comprehensible manner to you (yet), then just say so and apologize. I don't think this sort of mental disconnect can be remedied in any decent manner except through connection being strengthened over time. Your relationship is up to you, dude.

I only saw her in a dream one time that I remember and am sure about, but otherwise not remembering dreams is a fucking bitch and a half of a problem. Have you considered maybe putting yourself on the path to opening your soul? Chakras, whatever? OP pastebin has that one Satanic Meditation archived site of that Joy of Satan weirdos, which I personally don't give a shit about but the meditation techniques are legitimate useful tools.

>that's the humble way of doing it and that's what they like

What, really? I have no clue about any of this stuff or what are the best ways of doing things, or what cool shit this occult knowledge and meditation and power channeling can allow me to do eventually. I just had a real shitty headache one day at the top of my head, nothing could get rid of it, and I remembered that one meditation website. Went to it, did Third Eye and Crown meditations, and the aches went away. Then I figured since I began the road to awakening my chakras, I might as well go all the way and do all the meditations and eventually fully activate them all. That since doing Third Eye I have been able to see my spirit lady as black static, as well as legitimately feel my chakras activating and being in use, is reason enough that the path I'm on is a good one. I'm pacing myself though, because I don't wanna overwhelm myself with all that new sensation and shit - I feel the area right below my belly button (sacral?) aching every now and then, which I chalk up to solar in the process of full activation, like how my chest (heart chakra) used to ache because I was still activating Throat at the time.

I told her multiple times now that when the time comes and I manage to recall dreams to a better degree to the point where lucid dreaming becomes worth it, or I somehow develop astral travel and leaving my body temporarily, I'm going to do four things with her.

- 1) Hug her and pat her on the head like she always does to me now, since I told her to do that a lot more often all those months ago
- 2) Get to know her for real, because I still have no changes in regards to sensing her thoughts or emotions transmitting to me, and no clue how her personality is or anything.
- 3) Fuck her brains out myself instead of letting her do all the work
- 4) Practice posing together, for obvious reasons

Hopefully things go good. I feel that time will be the best way to improve things right now.

After a bit of time of this girl riding me she just kinda goes limp and falls forward on me like a mannequin and starts trying to kiss me but in a weird clumsy fashion. I push her back upright and she falls forward again like she can't hold up her own weight. This happens a third time and I become actually bothered and wake up. I open my eyes and as my eyes are opening the girl is still there but it's like in the dream she had the look of a real person but in my real room it's just this shadow person sitting right on my dick. I flail my arm at whatever the fuck it is and I don't feel anything with my arms but the thing flys backwards as if I've hit it and disappears.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character with a mix of features. The character has long blonde hair that cascades down her shoulders, and her eyes are a striking shade of yellow. She wears a brown hat with a wide brim, which is positioned on the top of her head. The character's attire consists of a white shirt with a pattern of green and yellow designs, and she is wearing a black vest with a similar pattern. The vest is adorned with a circular emblem in the center. The background of the image is a gradient of colors, transitioning from a dark green at the top to a lighter blue at the bottom. The character's expression is one of concern or distress, and her gaze is directed straight at the viewer. There are no discernible texts or additional objects in the image. The style of the illustration is reminiscent of anime or manga, characterized by its simple, clean lines and vibrant colors.

skeptical but skimmed through a couple of those youtube videos, felt horny because of the waves and the noises but then died down after i realized why i felt that way. went to bed after doing a quick meditation, basically stating i want to experience a succubus for the purpose of curiosity. woke up middle of the night to drink some pop because thirsty. but felt REALLY weird. i felt like i could fall over, very low energy. i didnt remember my dream.

a bit into one of these videos i felt as if my leg has been wrapped around by some weird energy thing, like a snake or leech. ive done some weird shit before that had to do with meditation before bed without instructions so kinda worried about playing with fire aspect. i have no idea what im doing.. the other night i did some meditating basically recalling past events in my life that to my person alone confirms the existence of paranormal beings. not for you to know but me alone. during the meditation i feel three taps on my forehead where i suppose the third eye is supposed to be. like when your muscles in your leg twitch it was the same but in that location. weird. this stuff is very interesting.

We are mostly protected here which is why people can hold the belief that these creatures don't exist, but you can make a hole in the fence for them to get in. It's fucking stupid. Don't do it. You are not prepared to deal with creatures of this nature. They can make you think and feel anything and if you are not hardened against it, they will have their way with you.

Don't project your humanity onto them. Think of the worst shit you can do to people, and know that is their joy.

Read Kyle Odom's manifesto and know that he dealt with similar entities. They fucking destroyed him because he was unprepared. He's likely an emotional introvert and they happened upon him by chance. That's an awfully pessimistic stance to take. A potentially infinite universe, but everyone who is not us wants to eat us?

>Kyle Odom

I just read his manifesto. Interesting, to say the least. Though comparing his experiences to mine, there are key differences:

>Succubi don't care about politics.

>Succubi don't care how smart a person is.

>Succubi don't have a physical presence on this earth. (As far as I'm aware.)

>Odom's martians and succubi share the trait of hyper-sexuality, but succubi are not megalomaniacs.

>Incubi can be quite aggressive at times, but can also be reasoned with.

>Succubi and incubi have a sense of humor, unlike Odom's martians.

I found it funny how Odom claimed that his martians were "millions of years" more advanced than us, yet he failed to give a single example of their miraculous technology. Logic would also dictate that a species so far advanced wouldn't take an interest in us. We'd be like single-cell organisms to them.

Who assigned them that definition, I wonder?

The image features a stylized illustration of a creature with wings and a circular body. The creature has a light blue coloration and is depicted with a circular, glowing blue center. The wings are white and appear to be in a semi-transparent state, giving the impression of a floating or ethereal presence. The creature's body is also light blue and has a circular outline, which is consistent with the glowing center. The creature's eyes are not visible, and the image does not contain any text. The style of the image is abstract and has a dreamlike quality, with a focus on the glowing center and the ethereal appearance of the wings.

Something I haven't seen discussed in a while is how succubi compare to other spirits you can have relationships. Can anyone here who doesn't have a succ and has something else/knows someone that does comment on how that's working out for you?

Interesting question.

Would summoning an angel for companionship work the same as a succ?

They would not act the same as other entities, so to answer your question yes you could get an angel just be prepared for the relationship to be quiet different than what you would have with a succubus or anything else for that matter

Imagine being so fucking lonely that you create a fictitious entity within your subconscious and make it that it's sucking you off when in reality you're just coping with the fact you'll never get laid

Anonymous Thu 26 Sep 2019 21:39:54 No.23472246 Report

Are there futa succubi?

I'm a switch and it would be nice to fuck and get fucked by the same person.

Given the response this post has had and the resources that have been shared I would like to state that for material that is copyrighted and specially for living authors, you should pay for their work. It's neither ethical nor correct to assume that because knowledge should be widely available that the authors should go unpaid for their hard work. Some authors dedicate their lives to publishing material on the occult and theirs is the highest quality and it's also them that are the more affected since that is their entire livelihood.

Oh man is the old one really gone? I just dropped in to grab the name of some encyclopedia or something.

I'll reseed some good stuff I downloaded a few months ago once my computers up and running tonight.

My greedy esoteric ass grabbed just about everything from the old thread before it went poof. I'll see if I can find the time to re-upload anything here that seems to be missing.

the threads are in archives but i cant say anything about seeders on the actual magnets.

This library needs more seeders!

I'm at 86.9% and I'm uploading ~400KiB/s.

Come on! Let's do this!

Why the hell are these fucking ISOs? Talk about a fucking braindead move. I'd be interested in knowing what's in the Paranormal one, but I'm not about to download over 16GB just to find out it's 99% trash and 1% stuff I already have.

Damn, really anon?! Kidding aside, I used to have all those books from piratebay (what gives with that, it's been down for a few days for me and none of the proxies work), a guy called werewolf69 I think uploaded them, but no matter what book I read randomly, was about silly things like how to summon a snake god or some shit. Or another about how to summon an angel, which required a specific candle, positioned at a specific angle, at a specific time of the day, while chanting some gibberish, etc, etc. Too much silliness. I ended up deleting them, but I still wonder sometimes.

Is anything here even remotely useful? I'm looking through the files and all I get are nonsense like "101 ways to spot a Ghost" and "So you want to be a medium". I'm not really interested in obvious lies, but I'm now starting to doubt the authenticity of the stuff I was interested in, like the Masons and Alchemy. Is the whole 400GB torrent this schlock? I just wanted to read about some valid stuff, like Chaos Magic, and get an idea about them, not downlaod a bunch ofbooklets which literally say "BLACK MAGIC WILL GIVE YOU RESPECT AND POWER" in the backcover.

Has anyoen checked the less laughable parts of the torrent?

I suspect, in their heart, they already know most if not all of this is nonsense. But I'm convinced, after many years of consideration, that people fundamentally need something larger than themselves to believe in. And if you don't provide, they will seize on any old silly bullshit that even vaguely promises answers.

Chalk it up to the human condition, if you like.

It's working for me on uTorrent. It's slow, but it's working. I'm downloading the whole 465GB. Figure on at least 2-3 days. First you Download the Torrent file. Then you Add the Torrent file locally and manually. Right now, there's at least 14 Peers and 11 Seeds.

Bros, I think about 90% of this is literal horseshit. I just got done with a "book" which goes >grab a candle, draw a seal, call the spirit and that crazy beast is gonna killl whoever you want, but be careful; you have to be angry while praying!

I downloaded this half a TB because I've got metaphysical questions, but I feel like a nigger who believes in Voodoo...

There are countless occult books to suit all tastes and pockets, to say nothing of those that are freely available online (legally or otherwise); but it is better by far to have studied and to know internally, as a part of ourselves, a few of the very best books than it is to have merely read seven hundred, or even seven thousand, lesser works. That said, those interested in what is perhaps the best collection books online that are available to read for free may be interested in exploring the Internet Sacred Text Archive.

There are a few ads on the app, but it brings you to a website that has a listing of the files, so you don't even need the app. They can be read online and they're downloadable. Part 1 is 207G

600 GB corpus of all paywalled scholarly sources of Wikipedia
Scholarly publishing is a racket where research entities pay all the costs for the outputs but publishers seize them for free and get the same research entities to pay exorbitant prices to rent them back. In an open publication like Wikipedia, two thirds of the academic sources are paywalled, although many are green open access (archived by open repositories).

A torrent has been compiled from various sources to provide a corpus with nearly all such paywalled papers for Wikipedia in all languages. It contains about 561k PDFs for as many DOIs, divided in 1529 ZIP files for a total of 600 GB. The archives are sorted by publisher (DOI prefix), so you can download just what you can or are most interested in. There's a list of DOIs inside.

The corpus is only for personal and research use, for instance to help text and data mining and any other effort which requires fast or bulk download.

I'll definitely be downloading this. It's a good start to mirroring the vast library that sci-hub has.

Any downloads for studies not cited by wikipedia? Does sci-hub share their set?

There's a lot of stuff out there, the problem is how to make a mirror usable and sustainable.

LibGen torrents are probably the biggest collection (20+ million?).

Internet Archive's journals collection is the easiest to download individually (almost 2 million, mostly public domain).

CORE datasets have full-text (unformatted?) for almost 10 million articles (mostly with some Creative Commons license?).

u/pbjandahighfive avatar

7y ago
As far as I am aware sci-hub doesn't actually have anything saved on their servers. What they do is source login-credentials from people who attend/work for various schools and colleges across the world (because a lot of school pay subscriptions to the various journals so that the students attending can access them as needed) and then use their subscriptions to generate on-demand access keys to the various scientific and medical journals which the person then downloads from.

With PBS on the chopping block, is anyone going to be sending all the reels and tapes from various public broadcasters to some kind of preservation / restoration service?

600 GB corpus of all paywalled scholarly sources of Wikipedia
Scholarly publishing is a racket where research entities pay all the costs for the outputs but publishers seize them for free and get the same research entities to pay exorbitant prices to rent them back. In an open publication like Wikipedia, two thirds of the academic sources are paywalled, although many are green open access (archived by open repositories).

A torrent has been compiled from various sources to provide a corpus with nearly all such paywalled papers for Wikipedia in all languages. It contains about 561k PDFs for as many DOIs, divided in 1529 ZIP files for a total of 600 GB. The archives are sorted by publisher (DOI prefix), so you can download just what you can or are most interested in. There's a list of DOIs inside.

The corpus is only for personal and research use, for instance to help text and data mining and any other effort which requires fast or bulk download.

Please preserve a copy and seed! The info_hash and magnet link are:

I'll definitely be downloading this. It's a good start to mirroring the vast library that sci-hub has.

Any downloads for studies not cited by wikipedia? Does sci-hub share their set?

7y ago

There's a lot of stuff out there, the problem is how to make a mirror usable and sustainable.

LibGen torrents are probably the biggest collection (20+ million?).

Internet Archive's journals collection is the easiest to download individually (almost 2 million, mostly public domain).

CORE datasets have full-text (unformatted?) for almost 10 million articles (mostly with some Creative Commons license?).

As far as I am aware sci-hub doesn't actually have anything saved on their servers. What they do is source login-credentials from people who attend/work for various schools and colleges across the world (because a lot of school pay subscriptions to the various journals so that the students attending can access them as needed) and then use their subscriptions to generate on-demand access keys to the various scientific and medical journals which the person then downloads from.

Until you try to reproduce. Reproductive sterility is still an unknown factor of this virus. What makes you think The powers that be are not going to try and control the human population by selected breeding? They can get rid of any influence that "trouble makers" cause by creating the impression that the virus does nothing or doesn't even exist only to have the "rebellious ones" infected by their own hubris. So, whatever.

We can always assume that this virus is either going to make you

- 1) More memory damaged and dependent on your cell phone
- 2) A fatter and hungrier consumer
- 3) Randomly angrier and self incriminating
- 4) More likely to get cancer
- 5) Dumber in general

The most widely studied infectious agent possibly linked to obesity is adenovirus 36 (Adv36). Adv36 causes obesity in animals. In humans, Adv36 associates with obesity both in adults and children and the prevalence of Adv36 increases in relation to the body mass index.

The infection rates since the 80s scale with the obesity pandemic.

>Coronavirus: Stores running low on office furniture as Canadians work from home

There is an abundance of desks, furniture, office equipment of all sorts and sizes. The floods from the late 90s, the early 2000s, the post 2008s, and the mid 2013s are all still here. They never cleared. Mega-center clearing houses are still stuffed full of them. Independent office warehouses have full showroom floors and warehouses. The items must sell high, and for USD, since that is how they were acquired, and also everything is assembled and cost money to ship -- thus all of these assets are considered 'impaired': They cannot move, and their book values are not able to be realized.

What there is a relative shortage of, is super cheap + ready-to-ship + house/apartment mini-sized desks for failed feral females / commune educators / soy boys alike.

What there is no shortage since 1994 of, is actual office furniture.

Yan's paper covers in a spotty fashion, what was suspected by many since JAN (but no assembly/proof), what was proven by certain anons back in mid MAR (but didn't propagate well), what was rediscovered and refined by mid early APR (and went wide-forum again, this time with better assembly, and unfortunately even faster shutdown/censorship).

It isn't novel per se, but at least outlines a lab technician point of view as to the more indisputable traces/markers. Some have suggested that the novelty is timing, pointing to a likely MSM shift to 'man-made' scare to via fleeting barren pickings to facilitate more synthetic lockdown and election interference. After all, this is the second announce of her, so why again and now?

Anyone holding that much furniture that long must be bankrupt. That shit sells for pennies on the dollar during bankruptcy sales. There's a place in my city that sells used office furniture, it's always pretty cheap. Haven't been in there since coronachan, but the secondary market is probably pretty good. The problem with it, is as you said, they are full sized desks, not easy to clear a corner in a small room and stuff one of these in.

Well, if they don't cut prices, they are going to be stuck with assets that will never sell. If any of the move to "home work" sticks, that office furniture will never be worth anything ever again. And I doubt they are really holding out for top dollar anyway. There's a glut of retail fixtures out there, and you could walk in and name your price on it these days. The World Bank's COVID-19 Strategic Preparedness and Response Program documents, marked "For Official Use Only," identify the Bank's COVID-19 program as ending in March 2025, more than four years away from our current date (read page 1 of 60). The program's start date was April 2020.

The World Bank website has an active record for "COVID-19 Diagnostic Test Instruments and apparatus (902780) exports by country in 2018" even though the World Health Organization did not name Coronavirus "COVID-19" until February 2020 amid this year's outbreak. There is also a record for COVID-19 tests exported in 2017. At this time, we await a clear explanation from officials as to why this record exists, and will update accordingly.

It's not a bacteria you conspiracy nut, otherwise penicillin would have killed it months ago. Plus I went to a hospital that was researching a cure and talked to the researchers at length and even read some of their reports

Nigger if you really think it's a bacteria then it should be visible with a light microscope. Go find some corona patient spit, get some methyl blue, and check it yourself. I sat in intern on a bunch of meetings with St. Jude staff while they explained to each other their latest research, the results of drug trials on the virus, and DNA analysis to similar viruses. Even signed an NDA promising I wouldn't give away which proteins they planned on targeting for their drugs. You can come up with any hairbrained conspiracy this late in the 9th inning but I have a feeling you don't even have a college degree let alone medical training. Meanwhile I have seen viral patients firsthand and looked at their blood reports

The rules have changed, as I stated in thread 24. With Global Communism now and again rearing it's ugly head and making it's abjectly cacodaemoniacal plot naked for all to see, and for this shadowy terror to be headed by thePiratitcalRretarded Cchinks now means the World Order has DISSOLVED. TOP-FUCKING-KEK BOYS. Hey, I mean, pffft; they said they wanted a new one... and we all know G-d has a tremendous sense of humor. However... being on the same fucking planet as these Commie swine is exceptionally shitty. We've all the hoist by their petard. Shit is fucked up and shit. However, to be totally fair... we are doing better than I thought we would be at this point in time, at least in the US and, as I predicted China doesn't have this little hussy under control, not by a long shot. The fucker is just continuing to hollow them out, albeit slower but 'tis for not. They are absolutely fucked. I wonder how many motherfuckers these chink dipshitshave toasted on just the /cng/ threads alone; I bet we've taken at least 4 solid analysts. Which is pretty goddamn amusing for just shit posting, really. The temperature is continuing to rise; kinetic action is inevitable. Technically speaking the BLM protests and multitudinous acts of sabotage that now rock both spheres of the world (on every imaginable front) means it's already goin' down frens. However, it's not (quite) what you think.

RFTD:

The COVID-19 pandemic has been an absolute farce, set in place to push the "new normal" agenda of social atomization, technocracy, and complete, unavoidable surveillance. Actual data science is being ignored and even ridiculed by major world governments, in favor of cheap slogans to scare the masses into thoughtless submission.

It is time to expose their hypocrisy. We must get the people to question the fatal flaw in their plan: they started off by calling these measures "social distancing". Why "social", rather than "physical" or just forgoing an adjective altogether? "Please follow distancing guidelines" works just fine.

Why is it called Social Distancing?

By posting this question in the same vein as "It's Okay To Be White", we can spread this sentiment and invoke critical thought. Either the masses will begin to question what is going on around them as society is fundamentally subverted or they will enter their typical "rabid leftist" mode of cognitive dissonance.

Following the same successful methods as /iotbw/:

>Posters go up in public spaces and campuses on 3rd Oct.

>Do not change the question under any circumstances. Now is not the time to be creative.

>Do not interact with the offended responding to this in any way, other than pointing out that they're distracting from the question if nobody else is.

>Act at night, wear a face covering, and know where cameras are - while this is not yet illegal, many people may try to out you for this, and local police/COVID marshals/university staff will enforce whatever the hell they please.

>No watermarks or symbols.

>No aggressive fonts - try to use the poster in the OP or something very similar.

>No offensive poster placement (over any other posters, on statues, etc.).

>No permanent vandalism.

>No attempts to connect this to any political stance.

>No attempts to connect this to anti-vax or any alternative medicine.

You mean the thing that isn't happening? Look, I want a new Maunder Minimum more than any goddamn person left alive. But it's just not happening. Sure, sunspots are still tracking down, but we're at least half a century away from cooling on a meaningful level, and that's only if a true lack of sunspots will be sustained, which we don't know.

You're right but a half a century isn't that far off for our children.

The reduction of a terrestrial temperature during the next 30 years can have important implications for different parts of the planet on growing vegetation, agriculture, food supplies, and heating needs in both Northern and Southern hemispheres. This global cooling during the upcoming grand solar minimum 1 (2020--2053) can offset for three decades any signs of global warming and would require inter-government efforts to tackle problems with heat and food supplies for the whole population of the Earth

Humans theoretically can serve anything instead of God and replace God with any object of worship/obsession. The "God Gene" is easy to disprove because "displacing" it would lead to absolute nihilism and egoism to any human, not just God, but to anything, not even your well being. It requires like 10 minutes to think about this. People worship intellectually. Least you completely turn a person into a plant, killing last strains of capacity of managing intelligence. Because servitude to God is a mirror of servitude to ANY authority, with God considered highest authority.

Modern science relies so much on pseudoscientific theories, do people ignore completely the regress that is happening to it? What you read in magazines and fake news websites, and believe in, is just a modern version of myths.

That saying, not that i don't see the obvious desire to replace authority of the God with authority of the government (at least that's what USSR and CCP wanted to do). By hypothetically "removing god gene" they are going to achieve the reverse effect, though, because God is worship of authority in the first place.

When a retrovirus infects a cell, it must copy its RNA genome, which is unstable and is easily degraded, into the more stable form of DNA using a protein called a reverse transcriptase. This DNA is then added directly into your genome. These integrated versions of the retrovirus are known as the provirus.

Live-attenuated retroviruses have been shown to be effective retroviral vaccines, but currently little is known regarding the mechanisms of protection. In the present studies, we used Friend virus as a model to analyze characteristics of a live-attenuated vaccine in protection against virus-induced disease.

I was just looking at some of the symptoms and then a thought struck me. I then decided to find out what some of them symptoms were for high CO2 levels in the blood. The scarring in the lungs would not just affect the way oxygen gets into the blood but also the way CO2 leaves the blood. There are quite a few correlations between the symptoms of the long term effects and high CO2 levels in the blood stream. Including mental episodes.

Merging thread:

Covid19 and the Millennial Sabbath

Few fundamentalist Jews believe that the seven days of Genesis (God's creation) correspond to seven millennia of human development on Earth. This development may be regarded the 'progress toward utopia' embraced by zealous progressive liberals, for they truly believe labor will set them free. Counting from the day God created Adam, Jews believe they are presently living in the year 5781, which is the year 2020 on the Gregorian (Western) calendar, and is also the Millennial Friday. On or before the year 6000-our year 2239-Jews believe their Messiah should finally arrive, ushering in a thousand years of bliss for the Jews.

Our present year 2020 happens to mark the hour "12:44pm" on this Jewish Millennial Friday (years 5000--6000), i.e., the early afternoon. It is this point after which Jews believe the influence of the Sabbath can be felt, and some [Jewish] authorities forbid keeping a business open past that point. I.e., we're expected to take the Friday afternoon off. Well, lo and behold, covid19 saves the day! What a coincidence that precisely at this hour, both Asian and Western economies have been shut down, offices have closed in favor of work-from-home, and nightlife has been all but abandoned, all due to the (fake? staged?) #covid19 coronavirus.

It's either a massive coincidence, or we, gullible goys, are all living under the spell of an ancient religion that is able to impose its laws on us, without even informing us about it. But ignorance offers me no bliss. Whichever it is, my gut feelings say we're going to have to wait until the year 2239, when the seventh Jewish Millennium begins, and the Messiah arrives to ..., well, send our souls to hell.

"Let no man go out of his place on the seventh day".

>Exodus 20:10 But the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates:

>Exodus 31:14 Ye shall keep the sabbath therefore; for it is holy unto you: every one that defileth it shall surely be put to death: for whosoever doeth any work therein, that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

"every one that defileth it shall surely be put to death"

If anyone interested in predictive-programming related to numerology, search for jewish holy numbers.

40 for Shekinah's personal number (probably most favorite number of jews as a whole)

70 for Sons of God (also known as children of El and Asherah), also Knesset Yisrael (Assembly of Israel, Assembly of Sons of God)

480 - Shekinah Epoch "And it came to pass in the four hundred and eightieth year after the children of Israel were come out of the land of Egypt, in the fourth year of Solomon's reign over Israel, in the month Zif, which is the second month, that he began to build the house of the Lord"

600.000 for six hundred thousand angels who had furnished to every one of Israel two crowns

1200.000 for twelve hundred thousand destroying angels who descended and took them away for worshipping Golden Calf

Zeros do not matter much, as long as the message to the jews in the news is conveyed.

Also if this is truly global Sabbath, loss of jobs is NECESSITY, from Talmud:

>MISHNA: One must not hire laborers on the Sabbath, nor may he commission another man to hire them for him. One must not stand at the extreme limit of the "techoom" 2 and wait for dusk (the end of Sabbath), in order to hire laborers (beyond the techoom), or gather fruit beyond it; but if watching fruit beyond the techoom, he may await the dusk at its extreme limit, and in that case bring the fruit back with him. Abba Saul laid down the rule: "Whatever I am permitted to prepare for the day following the Sabbath, on the Sabbath, I may get ready for at dusk."

It is also not prohibited to "distribute money among the poor" and charity during Sabbath, hence material support allowances:

>Did not R. Hisda and R. Hamnuna both say, that it is allowed to count up charitable disbursements on Sabbath; and R. Elazar say, that one may figure out amounts to be distributed among the poor (on Sabbath);

>Let no man

To jewish fundamentalists nonjew males are not considered "men" and would therefore not be held to account under that law. This is why they were abandoned by their God. The kikes have always spent their time trying to find ways to avoid their obligations unto their God by trying to reason clauses for convenient "outs". This is why they are always referencing long dead rabbis for their "outs" Even a blood price was paid to annul Yahweh's deal with its unfaithful servants, the jews. The thing non-jews need to do is ensure the sociopathic mentality of the jews does not become a self-fulfilling prophecy of so called "jewish supremacy".

>To jewish fundamentalists nonjew males are not considered "men" >he thinks jews are the only ones who thought like that There's this guy named Aristotle. He thought every wage slave is not a man and is deprived of logos. Slaves being akin to women, and all manual workers akin to animals.

In his metaphysics he even more blatantly simply said:

>we think the manual workers are like certain lifeless things which act indeed, but act without knowing what they do, as fire burns, -but while the lifeless things perform each of their functions by a natural tendency, the labourers perform them through habit

>And in general it is a sign of the man who knows and of the man who does not know, that the former can teach, and therefore we think art more truly knowledge than experience is; for artists can teach, and men of mere experience cannot.

So don't lump it all on kikes, its general ancient thought. Its just the difference between a greek and a kike, is that for a kike every surrounding territory was potentially full of slaves. Hindus have even more fierce caste system, which devalues you according to your social rank.

We live in a blissful times in a way, when dehumanization is hated. And then complain.

>This is why they were abandoned by their God.

Protip: jews were never abandoned by their god. Its rather a different question what kind of god never abandoned them. Otherwise Israel would never get restored, nor jewry would resist any attempt to convert them, both higher forces and mortal men wasted their time on changing the nature of a jew.

Also i'll repeat about Sabbath:

>thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates

Gentiles can't be worse than a cattle if we're already considered a cattle, if even cattle is not allowed to work. Talmud has entire section of what to do with cattle on sabbath. And the Exodus 20:10 mentions servants and strangers, so its complete. Nor women are allowed to work.

But what if jewish God is real if he really forces us into celebration of His Sabbath through Angel of Corona-chan? I pity you for not seeing the fun part in it. I already been contemplating ultimate truth that the reason why jews own the world is simply because they indeed in cahoots with the ruler of this world.

Maybe antisemitism is biological hate that's caused by God to test the jews all the time and mold them into what God wants them to be. Hence islam and nazism are parts of the same coin, their existence is to make Israel into powerful state with values opposite of those two in order to not let the jews become what they were in patriarchal age (murderers and conquerors). Gentiles are the clay with which Adonai molds Israelis, hence ashkenazi racemixing and spread of the jews all over the globe had to happen. Jews had to be cursed in order to be blessed.

When jews became gay God sent Aids and HIV, but not when Gentiles were gay.

When jews stopped celebrating Sabbath, God sends Corona-chan to force jews to celebrate Sabbath.

It all makes sense.

>Otherwise Israel would never get restored,

Did you not notice my comment on self-fulfilling prophecy? With the rabbis working and coordinating together and giving instruction to those they advise. If those that they advise were told by the rabbis to lie, to corrupt, were to do the bidding of the rabbis as the jews pronounce that they do, then one would see a concerted effort by the jews to fulfill their desires of a jewish state. A sanctuary for the jew to flee to. The machinations of which could be set in place. By allying themselves with those in power and influence, creating an environment where they could convince entire nations to do their bidding by relying on the sympathies and empathies of foreign nations. "Never again" seems to be a common theme promoted by the jews. It is the rabbis that orchestrate this to happen. One should try not to confuse a a long thought out and executed self fulfilling prophecy with divine intervention.

>nor jewry would resist any attempt to convert them,

The jews keep themselves as a tight-knit insular community. Through these actions they keep their "identity" and therefore resist any attempts to convert them. As with any peoples, if you take away a person's culture and history, you take away their identity and their reason to be united with other of their own peoples. Note how the jews talk about "their people" when discussing their history

>Gentiles can't be worse than a cattle if we're already considered a cattle, if even cattle is not allowed to work. Talmud has entire section of what to do with cattle on sabbath. And the Exodus 20:10 mentions servants and strangers, so its complete. Nor women are allowed to work.

I saw this "out" created by the jews that would allow work for the goy to occur.

>Employment of the "Goy."

>But the employment of non-Jews to do what it was not lawful for the Jew to do on the Sabbath presented difficulties. If they were servants they might not work (Ex. xx.). By a legal fiction, however, the presumption was established that in reality the non-Jew worked for himself (see "Shibbole ha-Leḳeṭ," pp. 84 et seq.; "Yad," l.c. vi.).

found here <http://www.jewishencyclopedia.com/articles/12962-sabbath>

Tricking and/or manipulating others to do the jew's work is considered kosher. As I said, they try to create "outs" for themselves so they can continue their manipulative unobservant ways.

Polite sage for severely OT discussion.

I guess i am wrong then, because at times i forget jews don't think like christians when it comes to reputation of the bible. Where reputation of the bible is absolute for gentiles, for a jew first comes prescription of their own rabbies, then comes Talmud, and only then comes Torah and Tanakh, the oldest commandments seem to be of the least authority.

Also polite sage.

Needed to travel with some friends last minute to PR for after Labor Day. But all the stupid centers said it would take 1-2 weeks to get my results back (Florida is slow af) - so I bought a fake covid test that said negative. Shit worked like a charm. If anyone else is doing last minute travel and needs one, it worked for me. I got mine from fakecovidtest.com (lol unoriginal name) but there's a couple spots for it. Here it comes gents. We're all about to get our heads smoked. This is what it's all been leading to. Trump will "die," and they'll say it's corona, they are going to impose unbelievably draconian measures, and even most the useful idiots on the right who claim to be woke to the bullshit are gonna fall for the psyop.

This is it. This is the moment we've been talking about for years. Remember, never take the vaccine, resist at every possible opportunity. It will be better to be executed than to accept the mark. It's fucking happening. See you in the camps.

Merging thread:

Blaming Trump for COVID deaths but not other World leaders shows a clear and intentional bias on people's part. For the record I don't like Trump. He's not Hitler, but he's not an angel either. For the record, I'm a moderate. That said, there is a lot of leftist propaganda that says Trump is responsible for all the deaths in America related to COVID.

But by the same token, then aren't all other leaders? Wouldn't that also mean Obama is responsible for all deaths that occurred under his term? Of course not. That would be stupid.

We can't blame the bubonic plague of politicians either. Yes, maybe a few idiots that didn't bother listening to reason that instead listened to Trump... they're his fault, as are the general management failures that could have prevented COVID. But to outright LIE and say ALL OF THE DEATHS are his fault is demonstrably false.

People would have died under any system, and his leadership would have been called a dictatorship if he came down on everyone, so it was a no-win scenario system. If he acts? Dictator. If he doesn't? Negligent. Yeah, some deaths are the direct result of his tom-f*ckery. But not ALL of them. That's propaganda.

Here we show the dangers of genetically engineered fungi that are allowed into the body through a virus.

Bio computers use systems of biologically derived molecules---such as DNA and proteins--to perform computational calculations involving storing, retrieving, and processing data. The development of biocomputers has been made possible by the expanding new science of nanobiotechnology.

We propose that fungi Basidiomycetes can be used as computing devices: information is represented by spikes of electrical activity, a computation is implemented in a mycelium network and an interface is realized via fruit bodies. In a series of scoping experiments, we demonstrate that electrical activity recorded on fruits might act as a reliable indicator of the fungi's response to thermal and chemical stimulation. A stimulation of a fruit is reflected in changes of electrical activity of other fruits of a cluster, i.e. there is distant information transfer between fungal fruit bodies. In an automaton model of a fungal computer, we show how to implement computation with fungi and demonstrate that a structure of logical functions computed is determined by mycelium geometry.

2019 WHO review of mask studies found 'no evidence' they stopped transmission of flu

<https://archive.is/8x6nQ>

>The World Health Organization made headlines over the summer when it advised governments to begin recommending that individuals wear face coverings in certain situations such as public transport and other crowded public venues. In June, the organization cited "a growing compendium of observational evidence on the use of masks by the general public" as its reason for shifting its advice, though the organization still conceded that there is "no direct evidence (from studies on COVID-19 and in healthy people in the community) on the effectiveness of universal masking of healthy people in the community to prevent infection with respiratory viruses, including COVID-19."

>On its website, meanwhile, the WHO states that it "does not recommend [the] widespread use [of cloth face masks] among the public for control of COVID-19."

Samefag as >>163747. I have cross checked every long term symptom of post viral recovery with effects of elevated CO2 levels in the blood stream.

EVERY SINGLE FUCKING SYMPTOM MATCHES.

Sorry for finding a realistic explanation for the symptoms, fungusfag.

As the lung functions decrease CO2 would automatically begin to increase, even without the patient knowing it or seeing symptoms. A non-intrusive check of CO2 levels in the blood could be used as a preliminary test for the kungflu. It could be used as a screening test before antibodies are even created by the body. The results would be faster obtained as well..

>The jews and chinks would reduce it further if only they would stop breathing themselves

From what read, there are a few options. Venting, Oxygenation, some medications, lifestyle changes and/or surgery. Oxygenation at twice the air pressure is one treatment for high level CO2 in blood. That is only a short term solution because such a treatment does not assume the permanent damage to the lungs. Such a treatment would only offer temporary relief. To have close to normal oxygen and CO2 levels in the blood. one would be looking at a scenario where a patient would be carrying around an oxygen bottle for the rest of their lives. The effects of elevated CO2 levels would be made worse by smoking. A smoker is literally breathing in CO2 from the burning tobacco. which would go into the blood stream as well. They are sucking in the CO2 their body is trying to get rid of.

As usual, the best treatment is not to get infected in the first place. I have also thought about early treatment of the viral infection. One would need to flood the bloodstream with two chemicals at high levels. The first chemical is to act as a floating imitation ACE2 receptor. That would increase the probability that the virus would bind itself to the fake receptor instead of the one on the cell. The second chemical would be the chemical that the ACE2 receptor creates. This would tell stem cells not to create scar tissue in the organ. Such a treatment would increase the chance that normal tissue will replace the cells killed by the virus.

Apologies for the change in IP. My connection dropped out and it is on a variable IP address system.

So, I've heard that the staged events that the (((elite))) are going to use to usher in the satanic pedo-jew world order are based on the four horsemen of revelations. Hence why the name corona is from the latin for crown. What are your thoughts on this?

We all know how they like to make biblical and satanic references from researching pizzagate and their leaked emails, etc.

Then I saw when the Lamb broke one of the seven seals, and I heard one of the four living creatures saying as with a voice of thunder, "Come." I looked, and behold, a white horse, and he who sat on it had a bow; and a crown was given to him, and he went out conquering and to conquer.

--- Revelation 6:1--2 New American Standard Bible (NASB)

Based on the above passage, a common translation into English is the rider of the White Horse (sometimes referred to as the White Rider). He is thought to carry a bow (Greek τόξο, toxo) and wear a victor's crown (Greek stephanos).

Under another interpretation, the first Horseman is called Pestilence, and is associated with infectious disease and plague. It appears at least as early as 1906, when it is mentioned in the Jewish Encyclopedia.[18] This particular interpretation is common in popular culture references to the Four Horsemen.[19]

The origin of this interpretation is unclear. Some translations of the Bible mention "plague" (e.g. the NIV) or "pestilence" (e.g. the RSV) in connection with the riders in the passage following the introduction of the fourth rider; cf. "They were given power over a fourth of the earth to kill by sword, famine, plague, and by the wild beasts of the earth." (Revelation 6:7--8 NASB). However, it is a matter of debate as to whether this passage refers to the fourth rider only, or to the four riders as a whole.[1]

More like we all know you schizophrenics see patterns that don't exist in random biblical quotes because religious texts are intentionally made to be widely interpreted. Thats also why you lot are attracted to Qanon like flies to shit because he puts out some vague nonsense that you can interpret however you want and relate to anything that happens in the near future as if its some kind of prophecy.

"Immunity passports" in the context of COVID-19

<https://web.archive.org/web/20201013004732/https://www.who.int/news-room/commentaries/detail/immunity-passports-in-the-context-of-covid-19>

>At this point in the pandemic, there is not enough evidence about the effectiveness of antibody-mediated immunity to guarantee the accuracy of an "immunity passport" or "risk-free certificate." People who assume that they are immune to a second infection because they have received a positive test result may ignore public health advice. The use of such certificates may therefore increase the risks of continued transmission. As new evidence becomes available, WHO will update this scientific brief.

I'm actually surprised. Expected them to back this sort of thing.

>vaccine study paused due to unexplained illness

Every fucking vaccine causes unexplained illness. Have you ever seen kids after they get shots. Everyone around them gets a sickness. If you're strong over about 40 without a compromised immune system from all their fucking vaccines it's a low-level thing. If you're a millennial you get really sick.

Have to say the way that Trump healed himself from "COVID" was the Trumpiest thing ever. They extracted some Trump, put it in a machine to intensify the Trump, and injected the intensified Trump back into Trump to heal Trump.

convince me the corona virus is an actual threat, or even real. i'm willing to listen to reason.

it's hard to believe there's 30,000,000 deaths a day when i know thousands of people and not 1 has even heard of someone who has it, other than some known mentally ill liars who probably made it up.

also hard to believe when I had it (who knows if i actually did since they openly say the tests are worthless and do nothing) and it was no better or worse than when i had the flu a few years ago.

don't just call me a shill and go on posting anime pics like a tranny. i'm seriously open to reasoning. but right now i don't have any reason to be afraid.

There are many unanswered questions pertaining to what effect /ourgirl/ has on the reproductive system of both men and women. Autopsies of those touched by /ourgirl/ have shown scar tissue throughout the body. This would include ovaries, uterus and testes. Just because people are not dropping like flies doesn't mean there is no threat. Think beyond the immediate. Look at what evidence you can find.

As you said, it can leave scars throughout the body. Not specifically on the reproductive organs mind you. I've read about damage to the heart, kidneys, lungs, but only in some cases. So overall, i don't see infertility as a side effect of the rona. It might happen to some people, but i haven't seen evidence yet to suggest it could sterilise a significant part of the population.

Even in the limited social interaction afforded in less strict locales masking itself cripples interaction by eliminating the most expressive facial elements of communication. Yet, while restrictions on social interaction may be a large contributor to suicidal ideation and consummation other factors exacerbate the problem. There is in many locales the sense that the isolation has no end in sight making the disruption of education continual thus leaving prospects for future work life somewhat in limbo. This makes the natural progression toward emancipation into adulthood unsettled and threatening, even dating and marriage is put on hold for millions. Meanwhile the media contributes heavily to the atmosphere of doom by reporting positive cases in such a way that even acquiring the disease is in itself a sentence of death.

Merging thread:

So while the United states is on fire tonight there's been a slow bass boosting throughout the former states of the Commonwealth regarding two potential incoming events in the Not So Great White North of Canada regarding two major events, 1) Ontario going back to a lock down to stage 2 and 2) The spaztastic reveal of a master plan to set up potentially useless Corona Coff based Concentration Camps not unlike the (ineffective ones) in China. Now this was posted previously on here but there was a lack of context not only on the original source of the leak, but whether or not this leak was real to begin with.

So without further ado here we go people. But this time we've got real sauce on WTF is kinda going down (Including archives)

1) The original leak of the LPC Plan for the Corona Coff Camps came from the GodLikeProductions page :

<https://www.godlikeproductions.com/forum1/message4551385/pg1> , threads a god damn mess and if any anon can find any further nuggets you're welcome to note them here.

2) From God Like Productions it got leaked to Gab, <https://gab.com/RemiBoudreau/posts/105035234228420328> / and some Qanon forums... where nobody did any further look up

3) Until it got to this forum : <https://thecanadianreport.ca/is-this-leaked-memo-really-trudeaus-covid-plan-for-2021-you-decide/> / <https://archive.ph/Bm0xW>

4) Where from there, there were two big intel dumps given by some anonymous commentators : Item A) A massive requisition for Tear Gas going out to Saskatchewan : <https://buyandsell.gc.ca/procurement-data/tender-notice/PW-20-00926463> / <https://archive.ph/9uUiw> B) (((Isolation Camps))) requisition : <https://buyandsell.gc.ca/procurement-data/tender-notice/PW-ZL-105-38463> / <https://archive.ph/17dMN> for the camps there's an estimated $37 million earmarked for it. But so far no takers.

5) But then came the big drop around October 9th. when Hiller an MPP from Queen's Park in Ontario asked for details regarding the requisition for these potential isolation camps and it turns out that they cut him off : <https://www.youtube.com/watch?feature=youtu.be&v=PSm2ZF63KoE>

6) Last update on this has come from Cairns News in Australia mentioning that there's Eternal Anglo Plans to implement these types of Camps across all former Commwealth countries : <https://archive.ph/BROGv>

Now there's also a big rumor from the original Gab thread as to who the leaker is, sadly it's another boomer with a computer that can't help but come off as a Spaz:

@CanewDew "yes imo the liberal mla from Crnbk east Kootenay riding. Search yourself as i cant..too close and don't want a trail.for I am radared and my link to him must kept closed. Good luck and follow thru..too important" - Apparently this leak may have actually come from MLA Tom Shypitka out from BC if the rumor be true.

So right now we've got something smoking and that ain't the Canadian Goose you ate for game that night.

But we're left with a couple of other mysteries: 1) We've surmised the leaker for this being out in BC, but why was there a federal meeting but not a provincial collective one? 2) Why are there no names given for the heads that were in this very same meeting regarding the internment camps? Who in the Liberal Party was running this meeting out ? 3) Is this entire plan secretly hinging up on a Biden win for the US election? Those are some starting mysteries to consider.

>while experts warned in the spring not to count on a seasonal suppression of the disease in the summertime, their own data often suggested that the disease was in fact probably suppressed somewhat in those months, thanks in part to temperature and humidity effects that are now running in the opposite direction. That many of them are now warning we are underestimating coronavirus seasonality is not among the most conspicuous public-health reversals of the pandemic --- reversals on mask wearing, asymptomatic spread, fomite and aerosol transmission, and the safety of the outdoors were all probably more consequential. But having it both ways on seasonality -- emphasizing its trivial impact during the summer and its significant impact in the fall and winter in order to produce heightened vigilance in both instances -- may well have muddled the public's understanding of the disease. And possibly, in so doing, made the winter pandemic potentially worse.

Wow, truly deadly pandemic of biblical scale, the Swedes totally fucked up but now is the time for redemption they need to shut everything down because of a rise in cases which is not at all related to the increase in mass testing and protocols which allow counting as (((cases))) asymptomatic non-contagious healthy individuals with infinitesimally minute traces of the virus in their body.

Merging thread:

Leaf state media: People worried about "covid isolation centres" are "hardcore conspiracy theorists"

Some time ago, the Government of Canada put out a listing on buyandsell.gc.ca looking for contractors to build "covid-19 isolation centres" around the country that would supposedly serve a "multitude" of purposes: (PDFs available)

<https://buyandsell.gc.ca/procurement-data/tender-notice/PW-ZL-105-38463>

Naturally, people didn't take well to this and rightfully worried about the implications so our state media, the CBC saw fit write off their concerns as "hard-core conspiracy theories". In fact, they go as far as to say so multiple times:

<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/calgary/ucp-mla-covid-concentration-camps-disinformation-1.5773291>

>"The other thing that is fascinating about this story, is this is a pretty hardcore conspiracy theory. ' said Timothy Caulfield, a Canada Research Chair in health law and policy at the University of Alberta. "I think a certain conspiracy theory has developed around this," Kenney said on the radio show. "I think that some of this is turning into, unfortunately, a conspiracy theory. Misinformation, disinformation, does not help public health officials," she said. '

How do we get leafs to stop allowing the state and the media to gaslight them so blatantly?

>If one assumes that the number of asymptomatic or minimally symptomatic cases is several times as high as the number of reported cases, the case fatality rate may be considerably less than 1%. This suggests that the overall clinical consequences of Covid-19 may ultimately be more akin to those of a severe seasonal influenza (which has a case fatality rate of approximately 0.1%) or a pandemic influenza (similar to those in 1957 and 1968) rather than a disease similar to SARS or MERS, which have had case fatality rates of 9 to 10% and 36%, respectively. -- Dr. Anthony Fauci

Researchers Warn Some Covid-19 Vaccines Could Increase Risk Of HIV Infection

<https://www.forbes.com/sites/roberthart/2020/10/20/researchers-warn-some-covid-19-vaccines-could-increase-risk-of-hiv-infection/>

<https://archive.is/wwVhd>

>Some of the Covid-19 vaccines currently in development could increase the risk of acquiring HIV, warned a group of researchers in the The Lancet medical journal Monday, potentially leading to an increase in infections as vaccines are rolled out to vulnerable populations around the world. The researchers warn of a "cautionary tale" from efforts to create an HIV vaccine over a decade ago, where a promising vaccine candidate actually increased the risk of some men catching the virus. The vaccine made use of a modified virus --- called adenovirus 5 (Ad5) -- as a vector to transport some of HIV's genetic material into the body.

>Exactly how the vaccine increased the risks of HIV transmission is unknown, but a conference convened by the National Institutes of Health recommended against further use of Ad5 as a vector in HIV vaccines (Dr. Anthony Fauci was lead author of the paper outlining this position.) Ad5 is used as a vector in some Covid-19 vaccines --- Science identifies four such candidates that are currently undergoing clinical trials in various countries around the world, including the U.S., with two in large scale phase 3 trials ongoing in Russia and Pakistan. The researchers stressed the need to understand the role Ad5 might play in increasing the risks of HIV in vulnerable populations before developing and deploying vaccines using the vector, adding that informed consent documents should reflect the "considerable literature" on the risk of HIV acquisition with Ad5 vectors.

My comment: It should be noted that the original thread's OP censored the word "fags." Hey, original OP? You can say the f-word here.

Between 290 000 to 650 000 according to the WHO. Even with the highest value, that still only a bit over half and it hasn't been a year yet. And this death toll also means believing the chinks, which is dubious at best.

>But the board voted 4-3 to end the mask mandate. Board members overseeing the operations of Idaho's public health districts are appointed by county commissioners and not required to have any medical experience.

>Board member Walt Kirby said he was giving up on the idea of controlling the spread of coronavirus.

>"I personally do not care whether anybody wears a mask or not. If they want to be dumb enough to walk around and expose themselves and others, that's fine with me," Kirby said. "Nobody's wearing the damned mask anyway. ... I'm sitting back and watching them catch it and die. Hopefully I'll live through it."

>Another member, Allen Banks, denied COVID-19 exists.

>"Something's making these people sick, and I'm pretty sure that it's not coronavirus, so the question that you should be asking is, 'What's making them sick?'" he told the medical professionals who testified.

>Similar scenes - with doctors and nurses asking officials for help, only to be met with reluctance or even open skepticism - have played out across the conservative state. Idaho is sixth in the nation for new coronavirus cases per capita, with the average number of confirmed cases increasing by more than 55% every day over the past two weeks.

New study reveals medium-term impact of COVID-19

<https://web.archive.org/web/20201024022631/https://www.rdm.ox.ac.uk/news/new-study-reveals-medium-term-impact-of-covid-19>

Medium-term effects of SARS-CoV-2 infection on multiple vital organs, exercise capacity, cognition, quality of life and mental health, post-hospital discharge

<https://web.archive.org/web/20201024022908/https://www.medrxiv.org/content/10.1101/2020.10.15.20205054v1>

>During hospital admission, 54/58 (93%) patients had abnormal chest X-ray or computed tomography (CT). At ~2-3 months, persistent parenchymal abnormalities on lung MRI were present in 32/53 (60%) patients (Table 2, appendix Figure 2, p28). Thirty-six (64%) experienced symptoms of significant breathlessness (MRC dyspnoea score ≥ 2) and 30/55 (55%) complained of fatigue >Cognitive performance in the visuospatial/executive domain was impaired among patients compared to controls (MoCA visuospatial score ≤ 4 in 40% patients versus 16% in controls, $p=0.01$). Among patients, 28% (16/58) had a total MoCA score that was abnormal according to the established cut-off of <26 compared to 17% (5/30) of controls.

>Acute liver injury (appendix, p2) was seen in 31% (18/58) of patients. At 2-3 months, 11% had persistent liver injury (non-specific pattern) on blood tests (appendix Table 1, p9). On MRI, another 10% (5/52) of patients had signs of liver injury evidenced by increased iron-corrected liver

>Haematological abnormalities including lymphocytopenia and thrombocytopenia were seen in 47% (27/58) and 2% (1/58) of patients at admission respectively and an elevated CRP ($>10\text{mg/L}$) was seen in 98% (57/58). At follow-up, all abnormalities in lymphocyte and platelet count returned to normal. However, patients tended to have higher a CRP ($p=0.058$)

>Six (10%) patients developed acute kidney injury (Table 1), of whom two required renal replacement therapy during admission. At 2-3 months, 3% (2/58) of patients had residual renal impairment which was not present prior to COVID-19.

>At 2-3 months, a higher proportion of COVID-19 patients reported moderate to severe symptoms of depression (i.e., PHQ-9 score ≥ 6 , 39% versus 17%, $p=0.036$) and anxiety (i.e., GAD-7 score ≥ 6 , 35% versus 10%, $p=0.012$) compared to controls (Table 4, Figure 2). Patients reported a significantly reduced quality of life in all domains (Table 4, Figure 2). Importantly, impairment in both physical and emotional health imposed significant role limitations among COVID-19 survivors.

>Severity of illness during admission (WHO ordinal scale) (appendix Table 4, p21, Table 5, p23) correlated moderately with inflammatory markers at follow-up, signs of persistent inflammation/injury in the lungs, liver, kidneys, and VE/VC02 on CPET. Notably, even in patients who were not critically ill (i.e, those who were not intubated or ventilated or receiving vasopressor/ionotropic support or renal replacement therapy), MRI evidence of lung, cardiac, kidney and brain abnormalities could be seen (appendix Table 6, p24).

Although the severity of illness during admission did not predict the risk of depression, the extent of persistent symptoms did.

SCAMDEMIC AND THE JEW WORLD ORDER

The elite are planning on releasing a real bioweapon virus in 2021 which will be called COVID21. This will have real visible consequences and will be used to silence the resistance to the (((covid))) narrative. Bill gates seems to have predicted this in interviews as if he knows the future: "So we will have to prepare for the next one. That will get attention this time."

-- bill gates (paraphrased slightly)

Read through this link <https://thecanadianreport.ca/is-this-leaked-memo-really-trudeaus-covid-plan-for-2021-you-decide/>

-- Phase in secondary lock down restrictions on a rolling basis, starting with major metropolitan areas first and expanding outward. Expected by November 2020.

-- Rush the acquisition of (or construction of) isolation facilities across every province and territory. Expected by December 2020.

-- Daily new cases of COVID-19 will surge beyond capacity of testing, including increases in COVID related deaths following the same growth curves. Expected by end of November 2020.

-- Complete and total secondary lock down (much stricter than the first and second rolling phase restrictions). Expected by end of December 2020 - early January 2021

-- Reform and expansion of the unemployment program to be transitioned into the universal basic income program. Expected by Q1 2021.

-- Projected COVID-19 mutation and/or co-infection with secondary virus (referred to as COVID-21) leading to a third wave with much higher mortality rate and higher rate of infection. Expected by February 2021.

-- Daily new cases of COVID-21 hospitalizations and COVID-19 and COVID-21 related deaths will exceed medical care facilities capacity. Expected Q1 - Q2 2021.

-- Enhanced lock down restrictions (referred to as Third Lock Down) will be implemented. Full travel restrictions will be imposed (including inter-province and inter-city). Expected Q2 2021.

-- Transitioning of individuals into the universal basic income program. Expected mid Q2 2021.

-- Projected supply chain break downs, inventory shortages, large economic instability. Expected late Q2 2021.

-- Deployment of military personnel into major metropolitan areas as well as all major roadways to establish travel checkpoints. Restrict travel and movement. Provide logistical support to the area. Expected by Q3 2021.

As you can see, they're planning health passports for those who get the (((vaccine))) while those who don't won't be able to do anything. Concentration camps for the none vaccinated and none compliant. A cashless society where they can suspend you ability to withdraw e-money if you brake the terms of service for society or say something politically incorrect anywhere on the internet. And being as the corona virus is only the first of the four horsemen, they're probably planning a great war and famine before death (depopulation) starts.

Watch this video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=lKCTkJbtT4>

We need a mass awakening. A full scale mass red pilling meme war on every front right now. If you read this, spam this info all over 4chan's pol where they have the numbers and encourage them to spam it all over the internet and to tell everyone they know in real life. FULL SCALE MEME WAR RIGHT NOW. This is out last-ditch attempt.

We need everyone to know about their COVID21 mutation plan, so that when they implement it everyone can see how accurate our predictions and research is. Make that a priority. This will help normies wake up and sabotage their plans for the future.

We should send this information to all the youtube e-celebs.

Make multiple accounts to make it look like a lot of people want them to talk about it. Send it to anyone you think will talk about it whether they're right wing, center, or just a faggy commentary channel. We need to spread this information far and wide. Go to 4chan and encourage these ideas there too.

Tell them to do the same. We need their numbers after all.

How do make a living with the corona shit restrictions in place? This is an unconventional [post], but I figured this is the correct place to post this to, since it's about the most important class in the movement, the working classes current situation. We are getting screwed the hardest, maybe with the exception of tourism/entertainment fags.

I worked as a carpenter for years before the government started the corona chimpout. I got some jobs in the summer for a few months, but they closed down all the construction sites where I worked at. Last year my phone was constantly ringing about job opportunities, now I call companies, but they have nothing at all.

I had some money saved up, but the car payments/mortgage/3 kids and other costs of living is eating it up pretty fast.

How did those among you that are fellow tradesman adapted to this

You forget to point out the most obvious point indicating that it is not a scam. Why go to all the trouble of creating a scam virus which would require the cooperation of medicos all around the world to remain silent only to release an actual virus to show those that think that it is a scandemic that they are wrong when it would be easier and more effective to just release a virus to begin with thus eliminating any possibility that people could realize it as a scam?

I'm not saying this is the case, but the obvious benefit of taking that route would be to manufacture distrust and complacency. The number of hoaxniggers has only grown over the months as far as I can tell, and many people who know the virus is real are tired of wearing masks and altering their lifestyle. They want to go see films and visit family and friends, etc.

Robert F. Kennedy Jr: Sends a Powerful Message for Freedom and Hope to the World
- 10/24/2020

There are many gatherings around the world. Activists from these countries unite to speak with one voice: Germany, Argentina, Bolivia, Peru, Uruguay, Italy, Poland, Belgium, Netherlands, United Kingdom, Ireland, Sweden, Denmark, France and Austria.

Citizens of all countries are paying a huge price for the epidemic. They not only lost their loved ones, but also their freedoms, their livelihoods, their joy. Children and young people are also suffering from this crisis. Without their friends and social activities, mental health problems among our young people are reaching an unprecedented level. All over the world, people are asking to be spared from the devastating consequences of the epidemic.

He actually wasn't a race traitor. He just got duped by jews like literally everyone else and only woke up way too late. The last political campaign of his life was titled Keep England White.

You have it backwards. He went from having some understanding of jewry (like when he wrote that famous article), to selling out completely to the "Focus Group", helping crush nationalism, and establishing our current jewish order.

Maybe he really didn't want England to be the multicultural shithole it is today, but he definitely wanted whatever it was to be totally under the yoke of usury.

There used to be a great, concise clip from a David Irving talk about Churchill and The Focus Group on jewtube, but of course that's gone now.

Merging thread:

President Trump never downplayed the epidemic.

The current government declared a state of public hygiene emergency and forbade the entries of foreigners from China within 10 days of the moment of discovery of the first patient in US or the moment when China government showed the infectivity of the virus. The current government declared a state of emergency and forbade the entries of foreigners from Europe within 15 days of the moment of the beginning of full-blown epidemic in Europe. Beginning with that public hygiene emergency, Centers for Disease Control, a department of government, published the number of patients discovered everyday, and appealed to populace to keep physical distance.

At the same time, Democratic Party officials, including Pelosi, Biden and Blasio etc., accused President Trump of being exclusionist, betraying allies and creating fear. They called on people to have dinner parties to protest President Trump.

The current government has not hide epidemic dynamic situation or the research progress basing on science about epidemic. The target of the government is not downplaying the immediate danger of the epidemic but suppressing the economic consequence of the epidemic. Our manner of suppressing the economic consequence of the epidemic is not hiding but expressing the expect that epidemic would subside and even nearly disappear in the not distant future. The purpose of this is inhibiting recruitment storm and stagnancy chain reaction, and protecting number of jobs in US.

Expressing the optimistic expect is not concealing the fact having appeared.

The current government has not denied the existence of the epidemic or the immediate danger of the epidemic. But current President delivered the confidence that the epidemic would not continue for too long time, and would not destroy the our country or the economic prospect. Because, in the aspect of economy, confidences or despairs usually tend to become self-fulfilling prophecies.

Later, depending on salvation act, current government provide subsidies and loans for enterprises to supply salaries and to keep employments, in order to promote economy and jobs recovering after subsiding of epidemic. All the while, besides public hygiene policies, economic policies dealing with the epidemic is focusing employments and salaries rather than corporate profit, because according to the act, enterprise should repay the salvation loans partly or totally unless the part of salvation loans is used for supplying salaries of employees. The purpose of us is keeping employments as bases for economic resurgence, via reducing the transaction costs or the time needed by economic resurgence.

Honest words are not hyperboles. Although president's description was not like those panicky comments, such as "The End of the World" and "more lethal than Ebola", etc. But President never concealed the infectivity, severity and lethality of this kind of coronavirus. President's description - "Big flu", "second Spanish flu" are appropriate descriptions of this coronavirus, because the effect and characteristics of this coronavirus resemble the ones of 1918 Spanish flu virus, although the lethality of this coronavirus is less than the one of 1918 Spanish flu.

President had a swift and resolute response to this coronavirus, and never stopped any endeavour of civil-society and government. The opinions that blame the President for pandemic, are unfair, emotional and unreasonable. President never erred and lied, but he is not superman. The performances of the other nations whose culture resemble the culture of America, such as Canada, British, France, Italy, Spain and Germany, were equally sad. Better performances belonged to Japan, Taiwan and Vietnam, but their culture are so different to ours.

As someone I know pointed out; when the second or third lockdown is done, there won't be anymore 'stores' not mom and pop, not big box. There will only be UBI supply depots that require a vaccine and communist forfeiture of your property to partake in. Looks like things are going to get interesting in the USA. I hope people start killing foreigners that our government imported so there will be less competition for goods.

Why would they end it? They get infinite free currency from the Federal Reserve with absolutely no repercussions whatsoever. People won't fight back. It's already as unquestionable as 9/11. This is the worst economic crisis in world history. They literally can't physically afford to abandon the hoax now, because that's the only thing that might get people to kill them.

Operation Warp Speed's goal is to produce and deliver 300 million doses of safe and effective vaccines with the initial doses available by January 2021, as part of a broader strategy to accelerate the development, manufacturing, and distribution of COVID-19 vaccines, therapeutics, and diagnostics (collectively known as countermeasures).

What countermeasures does /pol/ have to subvert this tyranny?

>The spike protein is also continuing to accumulate additional mutations of unknown significance. The Houston Methodist-UT Austin team also showed in lab experiments that at least one such mutation allows spike to evade a neutralizing antibody that humans naturally produce to fight SARS-CoV-2 infections. This may allow that variant of the virus to more easily slip past our immune systems. Although it is not clear yet whether that translates into it also being more easily transmitted between individuals.

Be careful anon. A virus that allows in Cryptococcus allows in this:

<https://royalsocietypublishing.org/doi/10.1098/rsfs.2018.0029>

We propose that fungi Basidiomycetes can be used as computing devices: information is represented by spikes of electrical activity, a computation is implemented in a mycelium network and an interface is realized via fruit bodies. In a series of scoping experiments, we demonstrate that electrical activity recorded on fruits might act as a reliable indicator of the fungi's response to thermal and chemical stimulation.

Cryptococcus neoformans is a basidiomycete fungus that is found worldwide and causes disease in humans and animal species. The fungus grows asexually as a budding yeast.

C. gattii infections are rare. Worldwide, many of the reported cases of C. gattii infections have occurred in North America, Australia, and South America. Most of the reported C. gattii cases in the United States are from Oregon, Washington, and California.

Its already being used as a weapon.

Since the rollout of rapid coronavirus testing, the drop in recorded flu cases means that the previous statistics of flu, were in fact without a rapid influenza test, therefore only "presumptive flu", and that while this strain of coronavirus going around may be scary in it's genetics, may be virtually no different than any normal coronavirus. And going along that line, the big pharma lobby, having been outed as pushing a flu vaccine on state local and federal governments, was actually pushing an unnecessary shot. Moreover, the unnecessary flu shot has been causing side effects scale that far outweighed the true statistical impact of flu, accounting for what we know now. Therefore the push for masks and lockdowns is an attempt to re-assert authority on behalf of big pharma and governments, when their own statistics have now undeniably proven their authority misplaced. Now they double down. While a sudden rushing to cure and vaccinate against the common cold virus coronavirus seems admirable enough, it's urgency is primarily due to a fear of liability for decades of malpractice that officials are hoping can be swept under the rug. Maybe the new coronavirus can make competent hybrids with HIV retrovirus, and that is the alternative reason for urgency, but without addressing the statistical discovery of the virtual extinction of true influenza, the issue is muddled with an obvious pair of motives for corruption -- coverup of malpractice and a crisis of credibility.

>For now, farmers across Denmark have halted the mass slaughter, and are only putting down animals that are infected. Before the government was forced to back down, farmers had already culled about 2.5 million mink, according to broadcaster TV2.

Merging thread:

Isolation & Elimination of Dissidents under the guise of "COVID-19"

I don't see a thread discussing anything related to this here. I'll try to keep this as concise as possible.

Back before "COVID-19" happened there was a leaked memo from a so called "insider" kike named "David Goldstein" that discussed two operations they would use to silence "anti-semitism" and stop the great awakening; codenamed Operation Zephr and Operation Pogo. Apparently Israel had been increasingly growing concerned of the speed in which people were becoming redpilled/woken up via the internet and devised a plan to get it under control.

The first discusses how they would use targeted viral attacks, or possibly the pretext of viral outbreak/pandemic to isolate anyone deemed to be part of the 15% (In the U.S) and growing number of people who know the truth and no longer buy the mainstream narrative. I'm sure many of you may have noticed, but under "COVID" restrictions, governments have been over extending their power to keep large groups of people from coming together; families, friends, any "like minded" individuals who would pose a threat in a group can no longer legally gather. In some countries they have imposed restrictions of the number of people allowed inside one's own property, enforceable by ZOG bots. This is happening in different stages in different countries, with the U.S. still being the most liberal from what I gather (probably due to the number of gun owners/ potential resistance) and will most likely be the last to reach the final stage.

There was a leaked memo from Canada that outlined a possible sequence of isolation:

>Phase in secondary lock down restrictions on a rolling basis, starting with major metropolitan areas first and expanding outward. Expected by November 2020.

>Rush the acquisition of (or construction of) isolation facilities across every province and territory. Expected by December 2020.

>Daily new cases of COVID-19 will surge beyond capacity of testing, including increases in COVID related deaths following the same growth curves. Expected by end of November 2020.

>Complete and total secondary lock down (much stricter than the first and second rolling phase restrictions). Expected by end of December 2020 -- early January 2021

>Reform and expansion of the unemployment program to be transitioned into the universal basic income program (Inline with the UN Agenda 2030 and "Fourth Industrial Revolution"). Expected by Q1 2021.

>Projected COVID-19 mutation and/or co-infection with secondary virus (referred to as COVID-21) leading to a third wave with much higher mortality rate and higher rate of infection. Expected by February 2021.

>Daily new cases of COVID-21 hospitalizations and COVID-19 and COVID-21 related deaths will exceed medical care facilities capacity. Expected Q1 -- Q2 2021.

>Enhanced lock down restrictions (referred to as Third Lock Down) will be implemented. Full travel restrictions will be imposed (including inter-province and inter-city). Expected Q2 2021. >Transitioning of individuals into the universal basic income program. Expected mid Q2 2021. >Projected supply chain break downs, inventory shortages, large economic instability. Expected late Q2 2021.

>Deployment of military personnel into major metropolitan areas as well as all major roadways to establish travel checkpoints. Restrict travel and movement. Provide logistical support to the area. Expected by Q3 2021.

The last point is the most concerning; using "COVID" as an excuse to openly deploy ZOG bots onto the streets, establish military checkpoints and restrict freedom of movement. This will be the biggest blow and will prevent any like-minded people or resistance fighters from getting together. It will also allow them to easily hunt down and eliminate individuals known to them as being targets all under the guise of a "pandemic". To those of you who know history, this is a modern twist on the Bolshevik door-to-door murder that happened in Russia early 20th century. This cannot be allowed to happen.

The second, Operation Pogo, solely is about Tracking, Tagging, and IDing any truth teller, regardless of "anti-semitism" convictions, so they can be monitored and disposed of based on threat level. The push for this "vaccine", as many of you probably already suspect, most likely has some kind of tracking device embedded in it (in addition to sterilization agents), perhaps an RFID chip.

In conclusion, and the main point of me posting this, is to alert anyone who doesn't already know what is going on. Anyone who has any inclination of fighting this tyranny better get their shit into gear ASAP. Get fit, get your kit together, hide any evidence what will be used against you if you are captured. Alert anyone who will listen (especially those who matter to you), stock up on as much food as you can afford, get your debts in order and have a plan for the checkpoints and property invasions. Godspeed gentlemen. It has been a pleasure being part of this community and realizing how many of us are out there. Let us survive this jewish terrorism, reclaim and rebuild our nations for the people.

to all the other leafs out there:

get angry. get mad. seethe. Get every last one of your friends, preferably men. The poorer you are the better. Stock up on any sort of weapon. It doesn't have to be a rifle. It could literally be a garbage can made into a cannon that fires rocks. When the military comes into your city, do not greet them with peace. Greet them with pure, seething rage and horrifying violence. Do not fear death, make peace with your life. When they come, do your best to at the very least kill one of them. Crucify them on the side of a road, no matter if they are live or dead. Show the enemy that we are dangerous. We shall show them suffering far beyond what they'd ever do. Show the enemy that this is our land, they have entered our home, they want to shed our blood upon our soil, show them disrespect of that caliber leads to their eternal damnation. Flay their skin, feast upon their flesh, and gorge yourself on the sweet nectar that is their blood. Strike fear into them. Strike as champions at their hearts. It doesn't matter if you're white or black, it doesn't matter if you're short or tall, young or old, fat or skinny, every set of hands that can drive it's thumbs into their eyes is worth a million pounds of gold. Wear their skin as your garment, use their bones to club them, use their organs as your subsistence, paint the walls with their blood, paint a linen cloth with a cross in their blood. They shall know that this is Vietnam, it's a war that they will never win. Be he who takes them across the river styx. May Mars bless you in the coming months.

> Trump might be in serious critical condition right now.

If Trump was deathly ill the MSM would be cumming all over themselves with excitement. The idea that Trump could die in the near future would be irresistible. Probably a housekeeper stressed about having to clean the Oval Office of Joe's corpse when the Dems have him whacked to get Harris as the first black female (outside of Obama) President.

Holt shit!! It just occurred to me a few minutes ago that this whole "COVID-19" thing could also be a genetically targeted virus! Meaning it could attack only those with their specific DNA programmed into it. Do guys remember the whole 23&Me "find out your ancestry" bullshit going on around 2016? They were deliberately preying on naive boomers and Whites who got cucked by gatekeepers into literally giving the kikes their DNA! Collecting the DNA possible dissidents for tracking, logging, and programming into a targeted virus! Maybe that is what the whole Project Zyphr thing is about!

I was just reading that Pfizers vax will have to be stored at -70. Logistical nightmare?

Meanwhile Russia's vax is 92% effective.

Israel has dibs on both vaccines. They asked the US for help to get Pfizers new vax and they expect shipments to start in January, before Americans.

Russia's vax doesn't even get mentioned in the USA.

Of fucking course they are. Look up any (((personality disorder))), and the recommended treatment is an SSRI. SSRI's can seemingly cure everything from your mild case of upset to cancer and buttfuckyou syndrome. I'm pretty sure if your sink is clogged, throwing a few of those shitpills down the drain will solve that, too.

 Anonymous SAGE! 11/16/20 (Mon) 12:40:16 a74a32 No.182010 >>182322

Main Key Points:

We've been in lockdown since March. Only 136 total deaths in Victoria (total pop: 6.359 million).

Police can enter your home without a warrant.

Can only exercise outside for 1hr per day, max.

United Nations is against "isolation for 22-23hrs a day, for longer than 15 days". Current restrictions are more than this.

Only 1 person may leave the house per household per day.

Friends and family cannot visit each other.

8pm-5am curfew.

Daniel Andrews (Victorian Premier)'s advisers were known CCP members spreading disinformation about COVID (sources below).

$1652 fine if outside without a "valid" reason -- we must show a permit to go to work, with police/military stopping people and questioning them as to why they're outside.

$4957 fine if breaching quarantine; $20,000 for a second offence.

$200 fine for no mask (masks are mandatory everywhere, even outside). People have been arrested for not wearing one.

Masks will likely be mandatory "for many years to come".

Cannot go more than 5km from your home for any reason except work.

We can't even leave the state and live somewhere else -- borders are locked, with police checkpoints.

Over 3000 people were placed in house arrest for more than 2 weeks.

Daniel Andrews has literally said his goal is to do "damage" to the economy (source below).

Welfare state: It's predicted nearly 50% of Victoria's private sector workers will be on some form of government welfare.

Daniel Andrews grossly mishandled a "hotel quarantine" by hiring cheap security contractors who had sex with already-infected people.

Mandatory vaccines look to be on the agenda (source below).

Cannot protest -- many organisers have been arrested for just planning protests that hadn't even gone ahead yet.

Neighbours have turned on each other, with hotlines where people can "dob each other in".

250,000 people lost their jobs in one single week (Aug 4th).

Schools all closed, despite a huge study showing COVID does not transmit amongst schoolchildren. Most childcare centres closed.

The ADF (military) have been deployed and are door-knocking and interrogating people on the street.

Weddings are illegal, gatherings of more than 2 people are illegal, protests are illegal.

Over $5.2 million in fines given out in Australia so far (Aug 4th).

Job losses expected between 250,000-400,000 people in Victoria (population 6.359 million).

Professor Ian Hickie predicts a 25% increase in suicides in Australia due to lockdowns for the next 5 years -- an additional 750 suicides per year.

Victoria has recorded a 33 per cent rise in children presenting to hospital with self-harm injuries over the past six weeks.

Critically-ill (dying) hospital patients are being denied visitation from their families.

Police are using drones to spy on people and catch them breaking curfew.

Clearly, the test is part of the conditioning process. First you need a mask to work, then a test, then a vaccine.

I can only believe Bill Gates is using a weak strain as blackmail against all countries to force them to conform to the globohomo agenda, whatever they like it or not. Failure or refusal to comply will end up with an entire country ravaged by an actually deadly strain, resulting in countless bodies dropping dead, like how it (supposedly) happened on Iran early this year.

<https://archive.ph/ru4E0>

You can jewgle translate the rest if you'd like, but this is the most important part:

>Now he states a new warning: "In the future, an epidemic even worse than this one (corona-chan, obviously), may surge". In an interview by video-conference with Trevor Noah, Daily Show's presenter, Bill Gates highlights that, despise everything, the world will be better prevented and ready for a new epidemic.

CEO of biotech firm which manufactures COVID tests calls the virus "The greatest hoax ever perpetuated on an unsuspecting public."

<https://archive.is/wip/vxEZi>

Top pathologist Dr. Roger Hodgkinson told government officials in Alberta during a zoom conference call that the current coronavirus crisis is "the greatest hoax ever perpetrated on an unsuspecting public." Hodgkinson's comments were made during a discussion involving the Community and Public Services Committee and the clip was subsequently uploaded to YouTube.

Noting that he was also an expert in virology, Hodgkinson pointed out that his role as CEO of a biotech company that manufactures COVID tests means, "I might know a little bit about all this. There is utterly unfounded public hysteria driven by the media and politicians, it's outrageous, this is the greatest hoax ever perpetrated on an unsuspecting public," said Hodgkinson.

The doctor said that nothing could be done to stop the spread of the virus besides protecting older more vulnerable people and that the whole situation represented "politics playing medicine, and that's a very dangerous game." Hodgkinson remarked that "social distancing is useless because COVID is spread by aerosols which travel 30 meters or so before landing," as he called for society to be re-opened immediately to prevent the debilitating damage being caused by lockdowns. Hodgkinson also slammed mandatory mask mandates as completely pointless. "Masks are utterly useless. There is no evidence base for their effectiveness whatsoever," he said.

"Paper masks and fabric masks are simply virtue signalling. They're not even worn effectively most of the time. It's utterly ridiculous. Seeing these unfortunate, uneducated people -- I'm not saying that in a pejorative sense -- seeing these people walking around like lemmings obeying without any knowledge base to put the mask on their face." The doctor also slammed the unreliability of PCR tests, noting that "positive test results do not, underlined in neon, mean a clinical infection," and that all testing should stop because the false numbers are "driving public hysteria."

Hodkinson said that the risk of death in the province of Alberta for people under the age of 65 was "one in three hundred thousand," and that it was simply "outrageous" to shut down society for what the doctor said "was just another bad flu. I'm absolutely outraged that this has reached this level, it should all stop tomorrow," concluded Dr. Hodkinson. Hodkinson's credentials are beyond question, with the MedMalDoctors website affirming his credibility.

"He received his general medical degrees from Cambridge University in the UK (M.A., M.B., B. Chir.) where he was a scholar at Corpus Christi College. Following a residency at the University of British Columbia he became a Royal College certified general pathologist (FRCPC) and also a Fellow of the College of American Pathologists (FCAP). He is in good Standing with the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta, and has been recognized by the Court of Queen's Bench in Alberta as an expert in pathology."

The DNA tests are a probable way to catch "criminals" that havent taken a DNA test, because someone in their family did. The boomers fucked over our privacy to kill enemies and cover our probed asses. Theres no way to ensure a Dexter-level operation 100% when killing or body disposal must be done for a good cause. Soldiers get to kill because the government tells them and theyre not criminals for it, but when citizens with self-governance must kill, then LEA has an extra fine advantage of identification with this:

He's literally the only one who has ever had access to the Q-LARP tripcode and password on this site or the previous site. Q-LARP did not create a public encryption key. ANYONE can pretend to be it, anywhere. It uses DES for its tripcode, which literally every government actively warns against using because it's not secure and hasn't been for 30 years. Q-LARP did not post any secondary proof of its existence, such as a bitcoin address. Its tripcode totally controlled by the admins of this site and the password can be changed or given away at any time, for any reason.

Do note that the "original" Q-LARP also said (on 8chan) that NO ONE posting on any site other than 8chan is "legitimate." And 8chan is gone forever.

The funniest shit is that Q-LARP is so "all powerful" that it couldn't even keep a single website on the Internet. The "greatest American patriot" with the entirety of the military and presidential administration behind him... is only accessible on a broken website through an illegal malware service hosted in a foreign country.

Nigger, the trip had to be changed after the password was revealed to be "matlock". There's no proof that Jim is the only one who had that, and the original posts didn't even have trip.

Most of your post is just stating the obvious, that it's a LARP. But where the actual proof that it was always Jim?

>the trip had to be changed after the password was revealed to be "matlock"

The greatest American patriot with the entirety of the military and presidential administration behind him used an ASCII password under DES encryption. Imagine. Just imagine.

>There's no proof that Jim is the only one who had that

He ran the site. He had access to plaintext files which included the trip and password of any namefag in existence. He could sell them to anyone he wanted.

>and the original posts didn't even have trip.

The greatest American patriot with the entirety of the military and presidential administration behind him had no name, no identifying marks, and no way for anyone to tell that it was legitimate across even single IPs (or entire website shutdowns, remember). Imagine.

>But where the actual proof that it was always Jim?

Occam's Razor. No one else had access or motive.

I'm not talking about cuckchan. I'm talking about the 8chan/8kun transition, where Q-LARP gave absolutely no external third party proof of its existence, so no one could ever possibly know that it was the same individual on the new site (entirely new capcode, etc.) unless they were the owner of the site.

>yet you're calling it proven

Where? That's someone else. I'm just substantiating his assertion. It's not possible for Q-LARP to be anyone other than Jim or a personal acquaintance thereof, likely paid.

Here are some various links with recovery rates:

<https://www.breitbart.com/politics/2020/09/25/cdc-data-shows-high-virus-survival-rate-99-plus-for-ages-69-and-younger-94-6-for-older/>

<https://covid19stats.ph/stats/by-country/crr>

<https://www.statista.com/statistics/1087466/covid19-cases-recoveries-deaths-worldwide/> -> A little over 57M cases. Of that, from the TINY chart, just over 1.3M died. Total recoveries is over 39M! With over 39M recoveries, why, again, are we letting the NWO destroy us?

Can someone who is less of a dumbfag explain something to me? I'm certain like everyone with a brain that this virus is probably the biggest deception in human history, maybe with the exception of the holocaust.

So basically, (((they))) are closing down a large number of restaurants, sports events etc. and they close down schools and offices and encourage working from home. Its obvious that there is wealth transfer going on to billionaires and its fairly obvious to me that they dont close certain businesses, because it would hurt (((special interest groups))), like a fucking 1000 man construction site that is going on next to my apartment.

So my question is not why they don't close these down, but rather what is the official hoaxmaker narrative for not closing down such gatherings, while they close down places like a restaurant that has around 50 guests a day and they have around 20 guests at a time inside at dinner. It cant be justified with the gubbermint caring about peoples employment, since these small businesses that I have seen closed, easily add up to the number of people the construction industry for example employ, I think it easily surpasses it too. They basically do it because restaurants dont hurt billionaire investors, but how the fuck they can justify this shit?

also, take a look at how they are lifting the restrictions in austria this month due to the massive discontent the new, stricter lockdowns caused. you can bet your ass its going to be the same as last time, but probably with less time between than between the first and second and it will be an even more severe wave 3 lockdown around february.

if the fact that they are willing to do this over a virus that is no more dangerous to the population than the average flue virus, which appears every year, then the fact that they are pushing to mandatorily vaccinate everyone over it should at least raise some alarm bells in the brain of every 100+ iq critically thinking non-npc. some extremely nefarious fuckery is going on and its not going to end well.

its not actual communism tho. its neo-feudalism. they would never shoot themselves in the foot. actual by-the-book communists would kill the rich ruling class and the middle class and redistribute everything. thinking that those were the assholes who started this scheming, actual communism doesnt sound too bad by comparison.

what we will get a bunch of rich cunts, who inexplicably will be able to own things and rule while the average poorfag will have no way of advancing his position in society to even have his own house. In this new society there will be serfs, bureaucrats ~5% with some independence, more than 95% of the world population, and the 0.01% ruling class. it will be worse than any system ever devised on this earth. Even worse than stalins USSR and I am not exaggerating. You might not starve like in the USSR", but you will have no rights or place in society. You will be a total slave and I'm guessing any population over 100M "chosen" will eventually be culled. If they get their way.

>its not actual communism tho. its neo-feudalism

So... communism. Because that's how it operates. (((A tiny oligarchical caste))) at the top; infinite slaves underneath. Every single time. That's the literally the actual design of the fucking thing. Communism is secular judaism. They lied to you when they said everyone was equal. It's in the fucking doctrine that they say to lie about it. You fell for it.

>You will be a total slave and I'm guessing any population over 100M "chosen" will eventually be culled. If they get their way.

Well, there are ~22 million jews alive today, and they will only ever need a decreasing number of slaves as automation is able to replace more physical labor. But that's centuries away, so they'll keep their billions around.

that may be how it works, but as per the communist propaganda doctrine, everyone is supposed to be equal. Which never really actually worked out ever, but thats beside the point in the current discussion of defining the new system

Automation is currently at the point that it could replace 90% of the current jobs given enough investment and no opposition. A rudimentary AI and its 99.9%. There are a few major flaws in the execution of their plan, that might have worked in their brainstorming sessions, but given that they lost their grip on reality, there is no way that they can put some aspects of it into effect. Result will be civilization tearing itself apart and them unable to hold any power anymore.

honestly i cant be bothered to read marx and engels. its a big book and the system has a proven track record of failing, so i wouldnt be any smarter by reading it. I know in practice communism was just a ploy to break the status quo and transfer power to another entity, lenin, his bolsheviks and those who supported and financed them.

Get over your hate for the Left, and start hating the REAL enemy of the people... Trump.

Failure to use federal authority and budget to supply PPE, as well as Trumps firing of the Pandemic Response Team led to significant mortality rates in the US.

Eight months into the pandemic, over 80% of U.S. nurses reported that they are still reusing at least one type of single-use PPE, said a survey by National Nurses United, the country's largest registered nurses' labor union. From the pandemic's beginning, the Harvard study finds, "supplying PPE was delegated to a variety of actors: state and city governments, large hospital chains, and in some cases small networks of clinics." Washington could have used its spending power and its authority under the Defense Production Act to secure adequate supplies, if not immediately, then certainly by now.

Trump also failed by:

Not requiring mandatory universal paid sick leave for those unable to work due to COVID-19

His failure to not implement standards for occupational exposures

His early failure to not restrict travel until it was too late. The U.S. imposed restrictions on travel from Europe in mid-March, but by then it was too late. The virus had already spread so widely in the U.S. that when it arrived in a new state or region, it most likely came from elsewhere in the country. "This shows that any action to prevent introductions would need to be at the national level," the study finds, "and while the window for effective action was brief, it was missed."

His slow start was also damning to our Nations health, causing the virus to gain an early foothold. Throughout the first two months of the year, Trump ignored warnings from administration intelligence and health experts, dismissing initial signs of the pandemic as transient. Some critics believe he relied too heavily on Chinese reassurances because of his eagerness for a big trade deal. The early delay contributed to later testing shortages.

Mixed signals. Even after Trump declared an emergency and ordered a national lockdown in mid-March, he repeatedly sent false signals creating doubts he favored the actions he proposed. When a shortage of COVID-19 tests hampered the response, he said, "I don't take responsibility at all." Instead of creating a unified national response to what became the country's greatest health crisis, he declared action was up to the states and bashed governors seeking more federal help. Within weeks, he prematurely sought to end his own restrictions, pushing to restart economic activity lest a prolonged recession derail his reelection hopes.

Premature reopening. Even before his own April 30 deadline, Trump was urging states to resume economic activity, successfully persuading Republican-led states like Texas, Arizona and Florida to act even though they failed to meet federal guidelines. In a symbolic but significant move, Trump undercut his own administration's enforcement regimen by refusing to wear the protective mask that scientific advisers like Fauci repeatedly called the best way to curb the virus.

Ignoring reality. As the number of infections plateaued, then resumed to rise, Trump declared victory and switched his focus to economic revival and street protests on police crimes and broader racial issues. When his anti-pandemic task force held its first briefing in two months last Friday, Trump was absent. Vice President Mike Pence presented so optimistic a report that CNN's Dana Bash likened it to the infamous "five o'clock follies" where military briefers gave misleading accounts of alleged progress in the Vietnam War.

Sadly, Trumps COVID response will go down as the single greatest failure of the federal government in the history of the republic. Even if you don't have friends or relatives among the over 279,000 dead Americans, the adverse impact on your children's education and the overall disruption of your lives is substantially worse than it needed to be. Overwhelmingly, that is because of the inadequate leadership of the Executive Branch.

America will take years to recover from Trumps failures, and we can never get back those he killed due to his faulty leadership. But it's not just Trump who is to blame... His supporters, the GOP, and his administration will also shoulder the responsibility for all the needless deaths when history is written.

So STOP trying to blame Dems for your failures!

>This has never been done with the non existant science fiction virus

Alas, the causation of disease from this virus has been proven in countless studies in different animal models all around the world, so you can shove your COINTELPRO pilpul up your yid asshole >many published studies have already demonstrated that SARS-CoV-2 fulfills Koch's postulates. Specifically, researchers isolated SARS-CoV-2 from COVID-19 patient samples, propagated the virus in cell cultures in the laboratory, and infected non-human primates with the cultured virus. The infected primates displayed the same signs of COVID-19 as humans, including lung damage and pneumonia. Finally, the researchers were able to detect the virus in the infected animals. All four of Koch's postulates are met, demonstrating that SARS-CoV-2 is the cause of COVID-19.

Unless you would want to try and argue that researchers are specifically in a conspiracy about the existence of the virus, same as 1.6+ million people who were just actors that were paid to die, and there are just happens to be zero whistleblowers that would want to leak or release the material to prove that the virus is totally non-existent or is just a rebranded common cold/flu virus

"Scientists" are a joke. All of their research is made up and has never actually helped the human race. Their work is made out of thin air and is all product of their imagination which fails to paint the entire picture of the complex universe. It only provides a very narrow perspective of what is reality, which is why it never really works and destroys more than it helps other. These modern scientists are quick to refute faults in their own claims and will do anything to make themselves seem right than others. There already existed superior medicine and science in ancient civilizations for thousands of years from before christ which modern medicine has dismissed since it was either too complex to understand or too unprofitable for them. Modern scientists are masters of subversion who twist and hide the evidence of ancient remedies to make their defective products seen as superior so they can profit off the foolish population. Modern Medicine + Science has existed for only a few hundred years and I doubt it will exist for more than a few hundred more years and probably be completely forgotten a thousand years from now as some insane delusion. Which would you rather trust in something that has existed since the beginning of time or a scam thats only been around for a few hundred years?

>you're a dune coon because you accurately reported factual evidence about the physical world and it hurt my feelings

Armenia surrendered and abandoned the land to further genocide at the hands of the dune coons. The war is over. Armenia capitulated. Azerbaijan has more than it ever had before. This is a statement of fact. You don't have an argument.

It was stickied a year ago when it was just in China. Then newfags and donald drumpfenkike retards poured in with their retarded takes that the virus isn't real muh masks and other 80 IQ garbage.

For example you have (104) posts of a complete loony like this >>186403

> No! You must be a paid shill for calling our idiocy out!

As if anyone would pay for shills on a board with less than 100 posters who only produce idiotic conspiracy takes and have no real world effect.

At this point it's clear that the jews are seeping distrust of the vaccine in the population. If most people would be willing to take it voluntarily no new laws would be needed. They are going to make it mandatory.

About this capture
ASK BISHOP T ALLEN GREENFIELD

(Click on my books for special availability--TAG)

Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law.

Rt. Rev. T Allen Greenfield, 2002 E.V.

It all began at the same time. There were even earlier glimpses as to what direction my life would be going, but as a kid in 1960 I began to take a furious intense interest in the metaphysical, inexplicable phenomena; religion and spirituality; unconventional history; paranormal research; social and political activism. It was an all-at-once sort of thing. I had visited New Orleans a few months earlier, and had been struck by the unconventional intertwining of eroticism and death-- of rot-ridden red light districts and great, gothic cemeteries. It was a shock to my system, and from that point on the common denominator in my interests has always been the search for an alternative to, or reconciliation of, this dichotomy. Two years later, I set off on a 5000 ton freighter on what amounted to a pilgrimage to the Holy Land, and a search for truth among the ruins of early Western Civilization. I was all of sixteen.

Biographical Information on T Allen Greenfield

T Allen Greenfield (the "T" or "Tau" being a customary title given to Bishops in the Doineil lineage upon their consecration) is a native of Augusta, Georgia, USA. With relatively brief sojourns in Tampa, Florida, Tucson, Arizona and Key West, Florida, he has lived much of his life thus far in Atlanta. By the age of sixteen, he had become a world traveler, and has visited many countries all over the globe in the years since, from France to French Polynesia; from Canada to Venezuela; Greece to Grenada. He is a long-time student of esoteric spirituality and Gnosticism, a study he began in 1960. A past (elected) member of the British Society for Psychical Research, the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena (from 1960), etc., he has twice been the recipient of the "UFOlogist of the Year Award" of the National UFO Conference (1972 and 1992).

He has personally conducted on site UFO abduction investigations in Brooksville, FL, Pascagoula, MS and Brown Mountain, NC. He considers the UFO phenomenon to be a "signal" from the Collective Unconscious that the neglect of a magical spirituality by society as a whole is a cause of emotional plague and social disaster. He is also a past President of the Atlanta Science Fiction Organization (ASF0II), which pioneered with the prototypes of science fiction conventions as they are now commonly presented. Science Fiction is, in his view, the Gnostic mythos of our time, best exemplified by the Twentieth Century author Philip K. Dick. In 1968 he photographed a well-known apparition in the graveyard of Christ Church on St. Simon's Island GA.

This November 28, 1968 photo taken by Greenfield recently was reexamined by James Choron of Wintersteel.homestead.com. Upon investigation, Choron wrote Greenfield:

"My initial findings are as follows:

1. The anomaly present is not a flaw of processing or initial photographer error.
2. The anomaly is clearly in focus within the context of the overall photo, and is clearly a separate and distinct entity within the field of focus and target area of the photo.
3. The anomaly appears to be a semi-solid object, composed of an undetermined material.
4. The anomaly is not a product of any known flaw of film or chemistry.
5. The anomaly is not produced by any known flaw such as the common light leak or any known defect of apparatus.
6. While it is impossible to determine the exact range of the anomaly from camera, it is obvious that the anomaly is a three dimensional object.
7. Under a magnification of 600x the anomaly appears to be a human figure, apparently female, and partially decomposed. The anomaly is suspended, without any obvious support in mid-air, and is clearly visible only from the shoulders upward. There is no discernable evidence of any wire, prop, support or other means of suspension apparent in the photograph.
8. At a magnification of 1,800x, viewed in segments of 5 degrees arc per segment, the results are identical to those stated above at lower magnification.

More to come (I hope). This is a GOOD ONE..."

The Rt. Rev. Greenfield is the author of several commercial books.

The controversial Secret Cipher of the UFOonauts (IllumiNet Press, 1994), now considered a cult classic, has been critically acclaimed in many reviews all over the world.

A more scholarly work, "The Story of the Hermetic Brotherhood of Light" which deals with this seminal occult group from a Thelemic perspective, has been published by Looking Glass Press of Stockholm, Sweden and Beverly Hills, CA USA (1997) and is currently available. It can be ordered through its exclusive U.S. primary distributor, Luxor Press.

Luxor Press has also published a monograph which updates the Looking Glass Press volume, "Hermetic Brotherhood Revisited" (Luxor Press).

Greenfield has also written the only comprehensive single volume history of an Egyptian Rite of Freemasonry, The Compleat Rite of Memphis, on the history of the Rite from Cagliostro to Yarker, Papus and Crowley, published by Luxor Press in 1998.

He has also edited a definitive annotated edition of Frater Achad's Liber Thirty-One (Luxor Press, 1998), taken from the original typescript and Achad's never-before-published private letters. This book is part of an ongoing project by Greenfield and several other researchers. to bring to public light the unpublished and obscure writings of C.S. Jones, a/k/a Frater Achad. The newer books can be ordered through Luxor Press, Inc.

Greenfield wrote the introduction to the late Gray Barker's surrealist exploration of the heart of the UFO, "Mothman" and "Men in Black" mythos, The Silver Bridge (Saucerian Books, 1970) and privately published an informal history of UFOlogy, Saucers and Saucerers (PANP Press, 1976). As mentioned above his interest in UFOs is rooted in the modern "mythic quality" of the subject, and its link to earlier myth cycles and folklore. His approach is to investigate a mythos "from the inside".

He is quoted (and occasionally misquoted) and referred to in many books, including

Margot Adler's Drawing Down the Moon,

Hans Holzer's The UFOonauts,

Timothy Green Beckley's The UFO Silencers,

John A. Keel's Strange Creatures From Time and Space, and

Keel's Disneyland of the Gods,

Neal Wilgus' The Illuminoids,

Jacques Bergier's Secret Vaults of the Earth,

Robert Scheaffer's The UFO Verdict,

The Theosophical Enlightenment and

Hermetic Brotherhood of Luxor, by historian Joscelyn Godwin, the late Jim Keith's Casebook on the Men in Black.

Robert Anton Wilson's Everything Is Under Control.

He is, however, not a strange creature from time nor space, a UFO silencer, a pagan writer, an Illuminoid, nor, for that matter, a Theosophist. He is said to have a sense of humor, and is known to write rather decent poetry on many themes. Some of this is posted on the QBLH Web Site. Much more has been posted on "The Poetry Exchange" web site.

From the late 1960's on, The Rt. Rev. Greenfield has appeared on various "talk" radio and television programs, dealing with esoteric and social issues (KYW Cleveland, WOR New York, WTBS Atlanta, CKTB Toronto, etc). As a speaker, he has appeared before the International Fortean Organization (Washington, D.C., 1974), the Atlanta UFO Society (Atlanta, Fernbank Science Center, 1975), at the 31st Annual National UFO Conference (Cleveland, 1994), UFO Forum (Atlanta, 1995), 32nd Annual National UFO Conference (Atlanta, 1995), and Greenfield spoke on the Hermetic Brotherhood of Light and served on two panels at the First National OTO Conference (Akron, Ohio, 1997), and on "Fraternity in Theory and Practice" at the second OTO National Conference, Portland, Oregon, in August 1999.

Since the 1960s Greenfield has been a serious student of the Western Esoteric Tradition. After many years of study, he was Elected a Bishop by the Holy Synod of the Neopythagorean Gnostic Church in 1986, and was consecrated Bishop by the Patriarch of that Church, Most Rev. Michael Paul Bertiaux of Chicago. In 1987 he was extended recognition as a Bishop within the Gnostic Catholic Church-Ordo Templi Orientis (OTO) by the Absolute Grand Patriarch, Tau Silenus, who consecrated him in New York in November of 1988. In December of 1993 Bertiaux reconsecrated Greenfield in Chicago sub conditione, followed in that same month with reconsecration sub conditione by Tau Apiryon as an EGC-OTO Bishop. He actively ministers to EGC congregations in the South. Greenfield has ECCLESIASTICAL DOCUMENTATION for those who are interested. He also holds symbolic and actual titles from a number of esoteric bodies: From the Ancient and Primitive Rites of Memphis & Mizraim, he holds hon. High degrees and a research lodge charter (1921 ecclesiastical revised rite); Auxiliary ("Associate") Bishop in the QBLH, extended by the late W.W. Webb (Frater Damon), along with a QBLH research lodge charter, etc.

Since September 23, 1995, the Rt. Rev. Greenfield has been a Member of the Green Abyss Lodge of the MISKATONICK SOCIETY(USA) in association with The Grey Lodge (England). Individuals are admitted by the Society's Secretaries solely in recognition of their work and achievement." In 1998 Greenfield was also elected an honorary member of the related ESOTERIC ORDER OF DAGON, or EOD.

The only RITUAL initiatory body with which The Rt. Rev. Greenfield is affiliated, however, is the Ordo Templi Orientis (OTO). Greenfield is Past Master of Eulis Lodge of OTO, and former editor of its journal, LASH TAL. The Rt. Rev. Greenfield holds both initiate and full ecclesiastic membership in OTO, and continues to serve that august body as both Bishop and Chartered Initiator, Secretary for Correspondence of U.S. Grand Lodge, and Coordinator of the OTO Prison Ministry, as well as in a number of other capacities.

As an active Gnostic Catholic Bishop, a large part of T Allen Greenfield's life is devoted to spiritual work. He is a "working clergyman" and actively serves a number of Ecclesia Gnostica Catholica (Gnostic Catholic Church) congregations and formally supervises and inspects other congregations. Be it noted he considers himself first and primarily a Scientific Illuminist, which means that he does not hold any fixed "belief system" and the spiritual philosophy he adheres to works with symbols and mythos, rather than any absolutist faith or dogma. Because the history of the Gnostic Church has been the subject of some special interest, we have included a page of our spiritual view and ECCLESIASTICAL DOCUMENTATION for those who might be concerned with such things.

Included there is a photograph of Tau Michael Bertiaux and Bishop Greenfield, taken at his residence in Chicago a number of years ago following a major consecration. Docteur Bertiaux is the controversial author of The Voudon Gnostic Workbook, as well as an esoteric Bishop. What you have read here is some biographical information on who Bishop Greenfield is and what he does, and what he tries to accomplish in his work. Though his interests appear diverse, they DO decidedly have an underlying theme. The archival essays presented above include biographies of occultists and metaphysicians, historical perspective on magical societies of the past, and some carefully considered hints about the present and future of the Scientific Illuminist perspective.

Greenfield is 56, married, and the father of three sons, ranging in age from 29 to 10.

THE ORONTEUS FINAEUS MAP OF ANTARCTICA OF 1532

One of a number of Medieval and Renaissance maps compiled at a time when much earlier source maps from remote antiquity were apparently still available. Antique maps and now lost manuscripts survived until the 1400s and beyond, for example, in Spain, and in Constantinople, which only fell to the Turks in 1453. Some of these materials turned up as recently as World War I. Hapgood's team at Keene State College, who analyzed the Finaeus map, submitted it to Captain (later Lt. Col.) Lorenzo W. Burroughs and his team at the Cartographic Section at Westover AFB. Burroughs wrote Hapgood: "It is our opinion that the accuracy of the cartographic features shown...suggest, beyond doubt, that it also was compiled from accurate source maps of Antarctica ...the original source maps must have been compiled at a time when the land mass and inland waterways of the continent were relatively free of ice..." Col. Burroughs later was a leading analyst for the National Photographic Interpretation Center, a joint CIA/DOD high level intelligence asset.

And so it begins...the title page of Reginald Scot's 1584 edition of "The Discoverie of Witchcraft." Rare Book & Special Collections Division.
This article was co-researched and co-written by digital library specialist Elizabeth Gettins, who also had the brilliant idea for the piece.

An ancient tome delving into the dark arts of witchcraft and magic...a book of doom...yet it lives...at the Library of Congress.

You're forgiven if you think we're talking about H.P. Lovecraft's fictional book of magic, "Necronomicon," the basis for the plot device in "The Evil Dead" films, or something Harry Potter might have found in the Dark Arts class at Hogwarts.

But, as the darkness of Halloween descends, we're not kidding. A first edition of "The Discoverie of Witchcraft," Reginald Scot's 1584 shocker that outraged King James I, survives at your favorite national library in the Rare Book and Special Collections Reading Room. (The Library has a copy of the original edition, as well as a 1651 edition.)

It is believed to be the first book published on witchcraft in English and extremely influential on the practice of stage magic. Shakespeare likely researched it for the witches scene in "Macbeth." It was consulted and plagiarized by stage magicians for hundreds of years. Today, you can peruse its dark secrets online. How could your wicked little fingers resist? Scot promises to reveal "lewd dealings of witches and witchmongers"! The "pestilent practices of Pythonists"! The "vertue and power of natural magike"!

Also, juggling.

It is one of the foundational examples of grimoire, a textbook on magic, groundbreaking for its time and nearly encyclopedic in its information. Scot's research included consulting dozens of previous thinkers on various topics such as occult, science and magic, including Agrippa von Nettesheim's "De Occulta Philosophia," in 1531 and John Dee's "Monas Hieroglyphica" in 1564. The result is a most impressive compendium.

The heavens, as used in witchcraft. "The Discoverie of Witchcraft," P. 283. Rare Book & Special Collections.

But Scot wasn't lurking about in a hooded cape, looking for eyes of newts and toes of frogs to bewitch mortals. A skeptic, he wrote to make it plain that "witches" were not evil, but instead were resourceful and capable women who practiced the art of folk healing as well as sleight of hand. Their apparently miraculous feats were in no way wicked. He wrote, "At this day it is indifferent to say in the English tongue, 'she is a witch' or 'she is a wise woman.' "

Born in 1538 in Kent under the rule of Henry VIII, Scot was landed gentry. He was educated and a member of Parliament. He admired, and may have joined, the Family of Love, a small sect comprised of elites who dismissed major Christian religions in favor of arriving at spiritual enlightenment through love for all. By publishing "Witchcraft," he meant to expose it as superstition, hoping to better England by forwarding knowledge. Since most people who were accused – and often hanged – for it were impoverished women on the margins of society, he hoped to garner social empathy for them and other scapegoats.

He also hoped to dispel the common belief in magic tricks performed on stage before gasping audiences. To do this, he researched and explained how magicians carried out their illusions. Beheadings? See the diagrams!

How to appear to "thrust a bodkin (needle) into your head" and survive? See page 280!

Detail on how to use a false bodkin. P. 280, "The Discoverie of Witchcraft." Rare Book and Special Collections Division.
This noble effort, as the kids say, went left.

The book was blasted by the religious faithful, according to "The Reception of Reginald Scot's Discovery of Witchcraft: Witchcraft, Magic and Radical Religion," a study by S.F. Davies in the Journal of the History of Ideas, published in 2013. The King of Scotland, James VI, was outraged. Like many of his subjects, he was convinced that witches worked in concert with the devil. He thought a coven of witches was trying to kill him. He published "Daemonologie" in 1597, in part to refute Scot's work. He also became King James I of England in 1603. There's a legend that he ordered all copies of Scot's book burned, but the historical record is silent on the subject. Still, it's clear James I loathed the book. There was growing concern at the time that women's use of so-called magic was counter to the aims of the state and church. Thus, James sought to instill fear in female communities and spoke out directly against witches and their perceived occultisms.

"Almost every English author who subsequently wrote on the subject of witchcraft mentioned Scot disparagingly," Davies writes of the period. Scot died in 1599; the book was not republished during his lifetime. There was an abridged Dutch translation published in 1609, Davies notes, but was not republished in England until 1651, nearly three quarters of a century after its initial publication.

Still, the book survived, "mined as a source on witchcraft and folklore," and his material on practical magic and sleight of hand "found a large audience," Davies writes. For Scot's original aims, that wasn't good. Rather than debunking stage magic for the masses as he'd hoped, "Discoverie" became a handbook for magicians in Europe and America, well into the 17th and 18th centuries. Famous works such as "Hocus Pocus " and the "The Juggler's Oracle" drew heavily on "Witchcraft," thus spreading the very mysteries that Scot had hoped to quell. Davies: "[I]t travelled in directions Scot himself may never have imagined."

Today, 435 years after it was published, the book sits on the shelf, silent, patient, having done the work its author did not want it to do. It's almost as if...the thing had a hex on it.

It is without a doubt a very interesting subject that I would enjoy learning a lot more about.

Example: The Witches that heal the sick, and those that can and maybe did work magic? It's the what if, this may be real knowledge?

Are you not aware of what's coming? God is about to CLOSE UP SHOP on this planet, and it could happen any day now. See Notes 1, 13, 14, 18, and 19 at the bottom of this Reddit post:

https://reddit.com/r/Retconned/comments/u2c2o1/revelation_812_time_is_50_faster_now/

And before you read the synopsis below, let me say this: I think the "Bozrah" framework is the ONLY valid framework in Christian eschatology. At first, it may seem beyond absurd and even non-biblical. Upon closer examination, though, you'll realize it's the real deal and 100% biblical.

Synopsis:

The Second Coming of Jesus will occur on Earth. First of all, the planet that we're currently on is Bozrah, not Earth (Bozrah is basically a replica version of Earth). Secondly, people who have lived here their entire lives need to realize that this planet was never Earth, and it never will be. It's an impostor planet.

Bozrah is the sanctuary planet that God's elect are sent to so that they're not on Earth when the Antichrist is in power. However, instead of having to deal with the Antichrist, Bozrah will have to deal with Jesus when he comes here for the day of vengeance (which could happen any day now). After 1.5 years of this "day" of vengeance, this planet will be destroyed and the elect will be going back to Earth with Jesus. Some Bozrah natives will be going to Earth as well.

Revelation 8:12 - Time is 50% faster now

You are here:

812info.com

Russia-Ukraine could be the start of WW3. One prophecy (Revelation 8:12) has ALREADY been fulfilled:

https://twitter.com/812_dot_news/status/1462252104630906885

When you get to the TimeDiff page, read the quote from the 1997 newsletter. If part A (Revelation 8:12) has already been fulfilled, then what does that tell you about part B (the battle of Armageddon)?

After you've read the material:

Below is a rebuttal to the naysayers. If you haven't already done so, please visit Rev812.com and then read the primer and TimeDiff (they can be read in under 15 minutes) before continuing.

REBUTTAL

Before going any further, make sure you have read the primer and TimeDiff. This is your final warning.

When something hits too close to home, people suddenly become very dismissive about it. They love to ridicule the messenger and they believe that groupthink can automatically override the messenger. The bottom line is that Dale DuFay and I really did perfect the counting-to-10 cadence on Sagittarius Earth, so we know for a 100% FACT that this is a different planet. Furthermore, our claim about the time difference was so "good" that it ended up perfectly aligning with someone else's interpretation of Revelation 8:12. And everyone reading this should know why they perfectly aligned. You know it wasn't simply dumb luck. Please stop fooling yourself and deal with reality.

Time cannot magically get 50% faster unless you start off on one planet and then go to another planet. In other words, it could never be the case that you stayed on the initial planet and then one day, all of a sudden, time became 50% faster there. What's more, skeptics of the Mandela Effect will eventually come to this sobering conclusion: The two paces (i.e., the speaking pace that is used in order to count to 10 in 15.00 seconds, which is "Pace A" below, and the speaking pace that is used in order to count to 10 in 10.00 seconds, which is "Pace B" below) are too dissimilar to be confused with one another. And thus, the following scenario is NOT reasonably possible (that is to say, all other things being equal, such a discrepancy between perception and reality is impossible): Person X is absolutely certain that he has used Pace A dozens, if not hundreds, of times in his life for the purpose of counting to 10 in 10.00 seconds; then one day, he discovers (in astonishment) that he was actually using Pace B all those times he counted to 10. To understand how absurd this scenario is, firstly, take into consideration that the two paces are completely different from one another, secondly, take into consideration that, over the years, Person X has become somewhat of an expert at counting to 10 (with the ability to get within 0.50 seconds of 10.00 seconds on most practice counts), and thirdly, take into consideration that Person X has no recollection (i.e., ZERO MEMORY) of ever using Pace B in his entire life. Note: Please do not react to this information by engaging in any sort of mental gymnastics, and please do not try to gaslight Person X (hypothetically speaking, of course). Instead, now would be a good time to read the first two sentences of this paragraph again.

Bear in mind, in this rebuttal, I've only been talking about the time difference (as opposed to also talking about where my heart used to beat, who used to be on the dime, how human skulls used to look like, et cetera). In July 2019, I felt my heart beating at the center of my chest for the first time in my life (prior to July 2019, my heart was located on the left side of my chest), and this incident occurred before I knew anatomical changes were a component of the Mandela Effect. As you can see, when it comes to examining this phenomenon, context is paramount. And as a skeptic of this material, you'll eventually reach a point where your counterargument is no longer reasonable because it involves too many coincidences.

In regard to people saying that my claim about the time difference is based on the Bible: By mid-August of 2019, I had already made the claim that this planet is a replica version of the real Earth (my claim was based on things such as the changes in human anatomy and the two additional occupants in the JFK car). It wasn't until the following month (September 2019) that I found out about FDR being on the dime instead of Eisenhower. And then in mid-September, I found out about the time difference. And then 10 months after that (on July 19th, 2020), I discovered Revelation 8:12. So, no, my claim about the time difference is not "based on the Bible."

In conclusion, I made the claim (with 100% certainty) about days being 16 hours long without even knowing about the existence of Revelation 8:12. In other words, what I experienced and documented in 2019 proves that the Bible is, indeed, true. Ultimately, one's worldview should be based on that which actually exists and that which is actually true. I would hazard a guess that your current worldview is based, however, on long-standing falsehoods that seem very, very, very reasonable. Keep in mind, a long-standing falsehood that seems very, very, very reasonable is still a falsehood nonetheless. Frankly, I think it's high time you re-examined your own beliefs. So, let me ask you this: All these years, where exactly have you been getting your knowledge from?

Here are some questions for Christians, namely Catholics, Eastern Orthodox Christians, Protestants, and Mormons: Will you foolishly decide to ignore all of this information? If you had been around when Noah was building the Ark, would you have been Team Noah (i.e., a supporter of Noah's mission) or would you have been Team Ignorant Masses (i.e., a member of the worldly-minded, ignorant masses)? Are you currently a member of the worldly-minded, ignorant masses? Are you sure about your answer to the previous question? Before today, how did you think the end times would play out? Is God obligated to make your version of the end times come to fruition? At the end of the day, when all is said and done, does your version of the end times have any basis in reality? Which one is more important, that which is actually true in regard to the end times or your version of the end times? Do you plan on telling your family the truth about Revelation 8:12? Why is everyone (i.e., the mainstream media, the "alternative" media—a.k.a. the mainstream media part II, all governments, all think tanks, all universities, and all churches) too scared to talk about this information? In terms of media coverage, don't you find it rather odd that this information has NEVER had its "day in court" (unlike, say, the Flat Earth theory or the QAnon belief system)? Why are you pro-life but not pro-truth? And finally, is there a chance that being anti-truth could bar you from entering Heaven (keep in mind what Jesus said regarding the truth)? I could go on (trust me), but I will stop right here.

And just to prove a point, I said all of this without even mentioning the Hidden Hand dialogue.

MANDELA EFFECT: What's Been Happening on Earth Since We've Been Gone?

Here is a 2006 essay by Dr. Gavin Finley:

The Bozrah Exile

PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

Micah, Matthew, and Revelation:

Micah 2:12 (KJV) tells us that God will gather the remnant of Israel (i.e., the elect) and then put them together in one place. "Bozrah" is mentioned.

Matthew 24:22 (KJV) tells us that during the Great Tribulation, the days will be shortened for the elect's sake. Thus, one way or another, the elect will experience shorter days during the Great Tribulation. Note: In the Bible, we are never told that the Great Tribulation will take place only on Earth. And by now, you should realize that this all boils down to the two sentences of the rebuttal (above) that deal with the concept of time becoming 50% faster via "magic." So, please go read those two sentences once again.

Now, think! How can the days be shortened (that is, time magically get faster) for the elect without an interplanetary transfer taking place? Remember, if you stay on the initial planet (in this case, Earth), then there is no way that time will suddenly get faster for you. Simply put, your days will NOT be shortened! But, lo and behold, we know from Micah 2:12 that God had already planned on transferring the elect to a special location (that is, from Earth to Bozrah). So, basically, if Micah 2:12 did not exist, Matthew 24:22 would read, "Those days shall not be shortened for the elect's sake because, well, the elect will still be on Earth. Sorry, folks. Nothing to see here. Better luck next time."

To make this crystal clear: We have a verse from the Old Testament (Micah 2:12) that talks about the eventual transfer of God's elect to "Bozrah," and then we have a verse from the New Testament (Matthew 24:22) that talks about shortened days (i.e., time getting faster) for God's elect during the Great Tribulation. And no, it's not a coincidence. It means that Earth is one planet and Bozrah is another planet, and if you travel from Earth to Bozrah, your days will be shortened because time is faster on Bozrah. Last but not least, Revelation 8:12 (below) gives us the key detail that Matthew 24:22 omits.

Revelation 8:12 (KJV) tells us that the days will be shortened by exactly eight hours. Never forget: In 2019, I was able to discover the eight-hour difference WITHOUT the help of Revelation 8:12. I had already perfected the counting-to-10 cadence on Earth (i.e., the real Earth), so when I counted to 10 on this planet (i.e., Bozrah), exactly 15.00 seconds elapsed. That is to say, there was a five-second difference, which amounts to an eight-hour difference for each 24-hour cycle on Bozrah.

Regarding the actual transfer of the elect from Earth to Bozrah, the Bible does not give us an explicit description of how it is accomplished. Instead, we are given an extremely vague, symbolic description. In Revelation 12:14 (KJV), we are told that a woman is given "two wings of a great eagle" and that she uses them to "fly into the wilderness," arriving at a place that was "prepared for her" (Revelation 12:14, EXB). The length of time that she is nourished at her new location and "out of the serpent's reach" (Revelation 12:14, NIV) is identical to the length of the Great Tribulation. And that is, of course, 3.5 years. However, when considering the events described in Revelation 12:6 (NIV) alongside Revelation 12:14, the total duration of the woman's absence from Earth equates to seven years—that is, seven Earth years or 10.5 Bozrah years—the full span of the Tribulation. In other words, her time of safety at the place located in "the wilderness" is not limited to the latter half of the Tribulation (i.e., the Great Tribulation). Rather, it encompasses the entire Tribulation period.

Please note the following:

Note 1 – Before Jesus goes to Earth for the Second Coming, he will first come here (that is, to Bozrah) and slaughter many, many people during his "day" (that is, year) of vengeance (Jeremiah 49:22, NABRE → Jeremiah 49:22, VOICE → Jeremiah 49:22, KJ21 → Jeremiah 49:22, ERV → Isaiah 63:1, EASY → Isaiah 63:1-6, NIV → Isaiah 63:4, NRSVUE → Isaiah 63:4, CEV → Isaiah 63:4, NIRV → Isaiah 63:4, CSB → Isaiah 34:8, CSB → Isaiah 34:8, NIRV → Isaiah 34:8, KJV → Isaiah 34:8, GW → Isaiah 34, ERV → Isaiah 34, ESV). Based on Isaiah 34, we can conclude that Bozrah will be turned into some sort of hellscape. As for the elect, they will not be left stranded on this planet. According to Micah 2:13 (AMP) and Matthew 24:29-31 (AMP), the elect will accompany Jesus back to Earth. For more info regarding the day of vengeance, see Notes 5, 10, 13, 14, and 19.

Note 2 – Yes, I am aware that "Lilith" is mentioned in some versions of Isaiah 34:14, such as Isaiah 34:14 (VOICE) and Isaiah 34:14 (NRSVA). Based on the information in this video (especially at the 2:05 mark), one could easily surmise that Eve is the matriarch of Earth and Lilith is the matriarch of Bozrah, but I digress.

Note 3 – Can you imagine all the people who have died and thought they had spent their entire lives on Earth, when in fact they had been living on an impostor planet the whole time?

Note 4 – No true Christian would ever refer to this planet as "Earth." Doing so would be EXTREMELY heretical. This planet was never Earth, and it never will be.

Note 5 – Bozrah is an Edomite planet (furthermore, in ancient times, the city of Bozrah was the capital of the Kingdom of Edom), Esau was the father of the Edomites, Isaac was the father of Esau (and Esau's twin brother, Jacob—who, by the way, was renamed "Israel" by God and was the father of the Israelites), and, well, there's this: "And Esau said unto his father, 'Hast thou but one blessing, my father? Bless me, even me also, O my father!' And Esau lifted up his voice and wept. And Isaac his father answered and said unto him, 'Behold, thy dwelling shall be of the fatness of the earth, and of the dew of heaven from above. And by thy sword shalt thou live, and shalt serve thy brother; and it shall come to pass when thou shalt have the dominion, that thou shalt break his yoke from off thy neck'" (Genesis 27:38-40, KJ21). For a clearer understanding of Genesis 27:39-40, see my custom translation. So, what exactly is going on here? Twin brothers? Check. Twin planets? Check. Heck, even in our own bodies, this "twinning" theme is evident—just look at the eyes and lungs, for example. I guess creating things in twins or pairs is simply God's modus operandi. Go figure. What's more, in regard to the Edomites, Obadiah 1:4 (ESV) casually states, "... though your nest is set among the stars, from there I will bring you down, declares the Lord." Um, yikes.

Note 6 - While Revelation 8:12 (KJV) describes the eight-hour time difference that the elect will experience on Bozrah, Revelation 8:13 (KJV) quickly shifts the focus back to Earth, warning those who were not taken to Bozrah about the final three trumpets. The key phrase in Revelation 8:13 is "the inhabitants of the earth." The angel deliberately uses this specific phrase instead of a more generic term like "everyone," "all of you," "mankind," or even "the people of the earth." The choice of "inhabitants" is significant, as it specifically refers to people who are CURRENTLY living on the planet, as opposed to either those who were born on Earth but are not there at the moment (such as the elect who were taken to Bozrah), or the people of Bozrah themselves. And just to be clear, in a perfect world, Revelation 8:13 would have begun like this: "And I beheld, and heard an angel flying back to Earth from Bozrah through the Milky Way Galaxy." But unfortunately, in our not-so-perfect reality, all we ended up getting was this: "And I beheld, and heard an angel flying through the midst of heaven."

Note 7 - In addition to all the Bible verses I've already mentioned, Matthew 24:24 (VOICE) is yet another verse that proves that, during the Great Tribulation, the elect are on Bozrah, not Earth (in fact, it comes just two verses after Matthew 24:22, KJV—a verse which hints at the eight-hour time difference that the elect will experience on Bozrah). This distinction between the two planets is crucial because on Earth, the elect would be exposed to the "great signs and wonders" (Matthew 24:24, KJV) of the false Christs and false prophets, and thus they could potentially be (and according to the Bible, would actually be) deceived by them. In other words, on Earth, their chances of being deceived would be anything from non-zero to 100 percent. However, the verse clearly states, "If it were possible, they would even deceive God's elect." Similarly, the RGT version states, "... if it were possible, they would deceive the very Elect." And finally, the TLB version states, "... if it were possible, even God's chosen ones would be deceived." This implies that while, in theory, the elect would definitely be deceived if they just so happened to be residing on Earth, the actual deception of the elect by these Earth-bound tricksters is not only unlikely, but literally impossible! Therefore, the elect's safety on Bozrah (with them being far away from earthly deceptions and earthly calamities, such as the final three trumpets) is an undeniable fact. No, it is not possible for them to be deceived by Earth's false Christs and false prophets in their place of sanctuary, Bozrah. And speaking of impossibilities, no one ever said that interpreting the Bible correctly is impossible. You simply needed a member of the elect to come along and show you how it's done. {Adjusts imaginary bowtie}

Note 8 - Daniel 11:41 (KJV) is yet another verse that proves that Bozrah is a separate planet from Earth. It reveals that during the end times, Edom (i.e., Bozrah) will be beyond the reach of the Antichrist. The verse intriguingly mentions "Moab" and "the chief of the children of Ammon" alongside Edom. Given their historical connections—both cultural and geographical—to ancient Edom, it can be assumed that their descendants also reside on Bozrah with the modern-day Edomites. This intertwining of the ancient tribes' destinies, as suggested by the verse, aligns with the broader narrative of a collective migration or shift from Earth to this separate planetary realm. As an aside, for those of you demanding that there be tons of details in Bible prophecies, I'm not quite sure what to tell you. For example, in regard to this verse, were you expecting the subsequent verse, Daniel 11:42 (KJV), to explicitly state, "Oh, and by the way, the remnant of Israel will also escape out of his hand because, you know, they'll also be on the planet of New Edom—that is, Bozrah—due to the fact that God promised to put them together there, as stated in Micah 2:12"? I mean, come on.

Note 9 - The existence of Bozrah as a distinct planet—and, in particular, an Edomite stronghold—casts the following Bible verse in a whole new light: "Our fight is not against people on earth. We are fighting against the rulers and authorities and the powers of this world's darkness. We are fighting against the spiritual powers of evil in the heavenly places" (Ephesians 6:12, ERV). While traditionally interpreted as pertaining to spiritual warfare only, this verse may also have broader, perhaps even cosmic, implications when viewed in the context of Bozrah's existence. For example, based on the wording of the verse, one theoretical possibility would be some sort of "morality competition" that exists between the people of Earth and the people of Bozrah, unbeknownst to the participants. Again, it's merely an example. Don't crucify me.

Note 10 – At this point, what exactly is your counterargument? Do you even have one? Keep in mind that trying to gaslight me about my ability to count to 10 seconds is not a counterargument. In fact, out of all the "Mandela Effect changes," the time difference is, BY FAR, the easiest one for me to detect. I don't even consider detecting the time difference to be a challenge. Never forget this: I'm not in the same boat as you. If I want to get "completely freaked out" by directly witnessing the supernatural, I don't need to wait for Jesus to show up on the day of vengeance (or go hunting for rougarous in Louisiana and successfully spot one, like Roy Stubblefield famously claims). Rather, all I have to do is look at a functioning digital clock that has a seconds display. And let me also say this: Never, ever trust an "uninitiated" Bozrah native to accurately explain the end times. I mean, you want to inform others about the end times, but you don't even know what planet you're on? To be honest, that is beyond comical, and people like that should no longer be taken seriously. Generally speaking, the one blind spot that humans have is planetary awareness (i.e., knowing what planet you're residing on). But at the end of the day, whether you like it or not, planetary awareness is fundamental to our very existence. If you plan on surviving the day of vengeance and making your way to Earth, see Note 14 below and also keep the following in mind: "My people are destroyed from lack of knowledge" (Hosea 4:6, CEB). How can one simultaneously call oneself a "Christian" and lack planetary awareness? That's completely absurd.

Note 11 – Here's my post about Capricorn One.

Note 12 – In contemplating the vast and complex nature of the revelations presented in this post, I was struck by a thought that, while initially speculative, seemed worth considering. Here it is: Could the insights and interpretations offered here, in their totality, be seen as the fulfillment of Revelation 10:7? I certainly think so. The verse states, "But in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound, the mystery of God should be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the prophets" (Revelation 10:7, KJV). Well, first of all, given that the sounding of the seventh trumpet pertains only to Earth and not to Bozrah, we can reasonably assume it has "begun to sound" there (especially when taking into account the length of time the elect have been away from Earth on Bozrah). Furthermore, since timing is obviously important when it comes to prophecies, in regard to the question, "On what date was this prophecy actually fulfilled?" my best guess would be December 7, 2023. Thus, versions of this post prior to that date should not be considered as having fulfilled the prophecy. And by the way, please take note of the Bible's shrewdness: Revelation 10:7 seamlessly intertwines events that take place on two separate planets! For Earth, it marks the beginning of the sounding of the seventh trumpet, while for Bozrah, it marks the unveiling of God's mystery (via this Reddit post). This dual fulfillment across celestial bodies showcases the Bible's multifaceted approach and the interconnectedness of its prophetic messages. Lastly, here is Revelation 10:5-7 (GNV): "And the Angel which I saw stand upon the sea, and upon the earth, lift up his hand to heaven, And swear by him that liveth for evermore, which created heaven, and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things that therein are, that time should be no more. But in the days of the voice of the seventh Angel, when he shall begin to blow the trumpet, even the mystery of God shall be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the Prophets."

Note 13 – If you're trying to determine when Jesus will arrive on Bozrah for the day of vengeance (and you've taken into account the above info regarding Revelation 12:6 and Revelation 12:14), then this Mandela Effect video from One Harmony will definitely help! Moreover, when doing your calculations, don't forget to factor in the length of Jesus's stay on Bozrah. There is no escaping the fact that this number crunching is kind of messy, but I'll try my best to lay it all out here. So, the day of vengeance will last for either 1.5 Bozrah years or 1 Bozrah year (depending on whether the "day" is 1 Earth year or 1 Bozrah year). Thus, the final calculation will be either 10.5 minus 1.5 or 10.5 minus 1 (i.e., the elect's total time away from Earth minus the length of the day of vengeance). That comes out to either 9 Bozrah years or 9.5 Bozrah years, respectively (this number, which is extremely important, gives you the length of time between the elect's arrival on Bozrah and the start of the day of vengeance). If you're going by Earth time for the length of the day of vengeance (in other words, if you're assuming that it will be 1 Earth year instead of 1 Bozrah year), another way to do the calculation is to start with 7 Earth years (for the elect's time away from Earth), then subtract 1 year for the day of vengeance, which results in a total of 6 Earth years. And then, multiply 6 by 1.5 (for Bozrah time), and you get 9 Bozrah years. Finally, you have to decide when the "clock" started. For example: Assuming that the day of vengeance lasts for 1.5 Bozrah years (and thus, there are 9 Bozrah years between the elect's arrival and the start of the day of vengeance) and that the elect first arrived in, say, February 2015, then that means the day of vengeance would start in February 2024 and end in August 2025 (delightful, I know). After which, the events of Isaiah 63:1-6 (NIV) would take place, back on Earth: "Who is this coming from Edom, from Bozrah, with his garments stained crimson?" (Isaiah 63:1, NIV). As an aside, may I ask: At what point does someone finally give up on the single-planet narrative? As I demonstrate below, in Note 15, the "One Earth, no Bozrah" worldview isn't even logical.

Note 14 – The possibility of some Bozrah natives hitching a ride to Earth with Jesus and the elect is indeed high. On the one hand, Matthew 24:29-31 (AMP) mentions only Jesus and the elect in regard to The Glorious Return: "And at that time the sign of the Son of Man [coming in His glory] will appear in the sky, and then all the tribes of the earth [and especially Israel] will mourn [regretting their rebellion and rejection of the Messiah], and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory [in brilliance and splendor]. And He will send His angels with a loud trumpet and they will gather together His elect (God's chosen ones) from the four winds, from one end of the heavens to the other" (Matthew 24:30-31, AMP). However, Isaiah 56:8 offers a broader perspective. Isaiah 56:8 (EHV) states, "This is the declaration of God the Lord, who gathers Israel's dispersed people: 'I will gather still more people to my house besides the ones already gathered.'" And similarly, Isaiah 56:8 (AMP) states, "The Lord God, who gathers the dispersed of Israel, declares: 'I will gather yet others to them (Israel), to those [already] gathered.'"

Note 15 – Here's another revelation for you all: The notion of God's elect and the Antichrist residing on the same planet, while the Antichrist is in power, is not only preposterous, but actually a logical fallacy. Why has it taken so long for people to understand this SIMPLE concept? Clearly, during the reign of the Antichrist, if he's on Earth (i.e., Planet A), then there has to be some sort of sanctuary planet—that is, a Planet B—where the elect are temporarily placed. I think you know what "Planet B" is. And hopefully, by now, you understand the "Planet A" reference as well (wink-wink, nudge-nudge). Yeah, God truly is smarter than your average bear. Oh, wait. Let me try that again: Yeah, God truly is smarter than your Average Bear. So, anyway, now you know why this planet is not called "New Edom" or something like that. And if you're still confused about Bozrah's status as a "sanctuary" planet, see this comment (note that the original question was deleted by the user).

Note 16 – Thankfully, there will be no "Millennial Kingdom" on this counterfeit, Edomite planet. It would have lasted for 1,000 Bozrah years, but only 666.67 Earth years. And given Yahweh's well-documented contempt for the Edomites, there's a very good chance the kingdom would've been ruled by Esau himself or some other Edomite leader—in other words, someone who is not Jesus. "Here is wisdom. Let the person who has enough insight calculate the number of the beast, for it is the [imperfect] number of a man; and his number is six hundred and sixty-six" (Revelation 13:18, AMP). So, now you know. And just to be clear, yes, Revelation 13:18—like I myself just did above—is mocking the notion of a millennial kingdom ever existing on Bozrah. Furthermore, the reason for the mockery becomes quite evident once Isaiah 34 (ESV) and Isaiah 63:1-6 (NIV) are taken into consideration. Now, keep in mind: In order to capture the inauthenticity and fraudulent nature of a 666-year "millennial" kingdom that doesn't even involve Jesus, ideally, one could say that 666 is an "Edomite number," a "worldly number," or "mankind's number" (as opposed to it being a "divine number" or "heavenly number," such as 1,000—the number of Earth years in a proper millennium). Well, lo and behold, we actually get quite close to that verbiage in some versions of Revelation 13:18. Unlike most versions of the verse, which state that 666 is either "the number of a man" or "the number of a person," the GW, MSG, and RSV versions state that 666 is "a human number," while the LEB and NET versions state that it is "man's number." In addition, the ISV version states that it is "a human multitude" (which, in this context, basically means, "a big, human-related number"). And finally, even a footnote in the NIV version acknowledges that "humanity's number" could possibly be the correct translation for the phrase "the number of a man." The bottom line is this: Compared to the actual Millennial Kingdom—a 1,000-year reign of Christ on Earth that will be defined by its peace and righteousness—the Bozrah version would be a human-led, 666-year nightmare.

Note 17 – Bozrah's Book of Revelation math (a quick deep dive): First, consider Revelation 8:12 (KJV), which informs us about the Bozrah time difference. On Bozrah, days are 16 Earth hours long—one-third of an Earth day is missing, while two-thirds of an Earth day remains. Next, consider Revelation 13:18 (AMP), which mentions, "... the [imperfect] number of a man; ..." This refers to either 666 itself or an "imperfect" (that is, non-"whole number") version of 666. Lastly, Revelation 20 (ERV) speaks of Jesus's Millennial Kingdom. It will exist on Earth (not on Bozrah) and last for 1,000 Earth years. And thus, two-thirds of 1,000 Earth years equals 666.67 Earth years—in other words, a Bozrah millennium. Revelation 13:18 (AMP) aptly states, "Here is wisdom. Let the person who has enough insight calculate the number of the beast, for it is the [imperfect] number of a man; and his number is six hundred and sixty-six."

Note 18 – Picture a world masquerading as Earth; a cosmic doppelgänger. In this hypothetical world, time ticks differently, the human anatomy is vastly different, and it is governed by a tribe that is destined for an apocalyptic downfall. Moreover, envision this hypothetical world as also being a celestial sanctuary—a refuge for God's elect—that is isolated from the chaos of the Antichrist's reign. This sanctuary planet, while seemingly decent, is not the alpha planet. It's not the alpha dog. It's not the top dog. It's not the main setup. It's not the primary locale. It's not Earth Prime. It's the other planet, the other setup, the other locale, the other Earth! Have you ever pondered the existence of such an unusual place? Have you ever contemplated how such a planet fits into the cosmic chess moves of a deity who is playing a game far beyond the common man's understanding? If such thoughts seem far-fetched or even nonsensical, then brace yourself for a revelation akin to discovering you're on an island when you thought you were on the mainland: As you read this, you're not just imagining that other version of Earth—you're also living on it.

Note 19 - During the Great Tribulation, either you're on Earth and the Antichrist is wreaking havoc (and God's elect are not present), or you're on Bozrah and there is no Antichrist (and God's elect are present). Can you guess which planet you're on? Remember, Scripture states, "And except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved: but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened" (Matthew 24:22, KJV). Well, by now, you already know all about the "eight-hour time difference" (that is, the existence of 16-hour days instead of 24-hour days due to this planet's time being 50% faster than it should be), so I will stop right here ... or maybe not. There's actually one crucial piece of logic that may have escaped your mind's eye. It is this: If the people who are experiencing shortened days are not experiencing or witnessing ANY events of the Tribulation (whether we're talking about events from the first 3.5 years or the latter 3.5 years), then those people cannot possibly be residing on Earth. They are, by default, residing on some other planet (i.e., a sanctuary planet or "Planet B"). And if you step back for a moment and think about it, it absolutely makes sense that they're residing on another planet, considering the fact that their days have been, you know, SHORTENED. Also, it goes without saying that the sanctuary arrangement is temporary. After all, it's not as if the Tribulation period is some sort of "blank check." It doesn't last for multiple decades or anything like that. So now, we await the day of vengeance. But here's the question: Even though thousands of years have elapsed, will you and others still make the same mistake as the common man in the days of Noah? We shall see. One can only hope that this time around, it will be attentiveness, circumspection, and wisdom that dominate the human psyche, rather than thoughtlessness, disregard, and mindless inconsideration.

I have two questions.

First, since we have the ability to keep time with crystals and atoms- which are accurate to the 24 hours that we know the day/planet rotation is, why would we try to compare a faulty human counting mechanism to prove something about time?

Second, I'm confused about the movement from Sag.E to Ori.E. was that a 3rd Dm move? If so, do you have a memory of the divine as promised? Because we're all supposed to, right? Or was the move something else?

Jami` at-Tirmidhi 2332 Anas bin Malik narrated that the Allah's Messenger (s.a.w) said: "The hour shall not be established until time is constricted, and the year is like a month, a month is like the week, and the week is like the day, and the day is like the hour, and the hour is like the flare of the fire."

shit is def up

That's actually very impressive. Nevertheless, Revelation 8:12 got the time difference EXACTLY right.

Thank you for sharing the Hadith, though. It adds another powerful layer to the end-times picture.

A year does FEEL like a month and a month does FEEL like a week and a week like a day. I am not religious, but shit is definitely going on and it was predicted.

I thought it was symbolic not literally. Like the acceleration of time is not a literal change in the speed of time but rather a heightened awareness of the brevity of life and the urgency of living righteously. The concept of time speeding up is usually (I thought) linked to the idea of the end times, where world events and tribulations will happen in quick succession.

Dear u/Linea-Dow. Nice to meet you. This is the first time for me to post my comment on Reddit (I've almost never/seldom posted my comment on this sort of website) However, I strongly wanted to leave this comment for some reason. First, thank you very much for your huge efforts and time spent on giving us very insightful, eye-opening and spiritually-enlightening information over years. Your information has been definitely helpful for my spiritual journey here on Earth/Bozrah :)

To make long story short (trying not to steal your precious time), I've recently found that the web page via the link you kindly provided for "Here is a 2006 essay by Dr. Gavin Finley: The Bozrah Exile" seemed to be removed with the message shown "404 Page Error. You have reached a page that is not available. Please select a page from the menu above." I thought that this might be temporarily inaccessible. So, I checked "Bozrah" on the website, but no article was returned. Then, I searched it online and found the page "THE BOZRAH EXILE", which might be probably the same page previously found via the link you kindly provided. However, I further found that the address of the website was "https://old.endtimepilgrim.org/bozexile.htm" (old.endtime...), while the original link was "https://endtimepilgrim.org/bozexile.htm" (404 Page Error now). This might not matter at all, actually (just a change on their administration). However, would you have any thoughts or idea on it (the change)? (e.g. implying something significant?) I'm just in case letting you know for your reference, too :)

That's all :) Thank you very much once again to help our spiritual journey.

Have a nice day and great Spring season 😊

Wow, thanks for letting me know. It looks like they simply updated their website within the past month.

The only issue now is updating my post with the new link. Apparently, since my post is over three years old, whenever I edit it, it automatically gets removed by Reddit's filters (and then the Retconned mods need to restore it). So, I'll be updating my post right now with the new link, but it may be inaccessible for several hours.

Strange thing. The day I found this post, I tried for myself and after counting 10 seconds, my phone said, 14 secs had passed. Today I got many things done and time has not passed so fast. So I counted ... and my phone ended up @ 10.33 secs.

Your text asserts that time is now "50% faster" due to humanity (or a subset, "the elect") being transferred from Earth to another planet, dubbed "Bozrah." This is tied to Revelation 8:12, which you interpret as evidence of an eight-hour shortening of days (from 24 hours to 16 hours). The argument hinges on your personal experience (counting cadence), biblical prophecy, and the Mandela Effect, positing that this shift proves we're on a different planet, not Earth.

However, your argument's core, that is time speeding up due to a shift from Earth to Bozrah, rests on shaky ground. It conflates subjective experience (counting cadence, anatomical shifts) with objective reality, leaps from ambiguous scripture to precise claims, and dismisses alternatives without justification. While imaginative and internally passionate, it lacks logical tightness. Key flaws include:

Unproven causal links (counting pace $\neq$ time flow $\neq$ planetary change).

Reliance on memory as infallible evidence.

Overinterpretation of biblical text unsupported by the text's context (which describes apocalyptic events, not planetary relocation).

Rejection of simpler explanations without cause.

It's a bold hypothesis, but logic alone doesn't sustain it. It leans too heavily on faith in the your perception and interpretive lens. If you strip away the confidence and rhetorical flourishes, the reasoning doesn't stand up to pure, disinterested scrutiny.

The Rocketeer Who Never Was

NASA histories say that the first American rocket-powered aircraft flight was made by William Swan at Atlantic City on January 4, 1931. But the launch was made in June and Swan was not his real name. He made the first air-launched rocket aircraft flight in 1932. In 1933 he bailed from an aircraft over Boca Chica, Texas, now the site of the SpaceX Starship launch facility, disappeared into the clouds, and was never seen again. Where had he come from? Where did he go? It was only in the 21st Century that the life story of Swan was revealed.

The Mishin Diaries

Podsadka - Failed Plan to Win the Moon Race Podsadka was a secret plan to use a two-launch scheme to shoot the first Soviet crew around the moon. The reason for the puzzling Soyuz manned launches in 1966-1969 are revealed to be tests of this scheme. The effort was abandoned after Apollo 8 orbited the moon and the L1 program was cancelled.

N1-L3: Two Launches to Get One Man on the Moon The single-launch approach to the moon landing sold to the Soviet leadership was unachievable due to payload shortfalls and safety considerations. By the time of America's first landing on the moon, it had degenerated into a two-launch scheme. The first launch would deliver a Ye-8-2 robot rover to place a homing beacon at a safe location for the manned landing; and a reserve unmanned LK-R lander to provide a way home in case the primary LK lander failed on the lunar surface. The second launch would result in the single-crew LK lander setting down near the beacon and reserve lander...

MKBS - Secret Origin of Mir and Soyuz T The MKBS was an N1-launched, nuclear-powered orbital battle station that would assure Soviet dominance of space through use of beam weapons. It was developed in 1969-1974, only to be ended when the N1 booster necessary to put it in orbit was cancelled. However the spacecraft and systems developed for it became the basis for the Soviet manned space program of the 1970's and 1980's.

The Real Moon Landing Hoax How the Soviet Union fooled the world into believing it wasn't in the moon race.

Soyuz 7K-LOK The two-crew LOK lunar orbiting spacecraft was to be placed in lunar orbit before the Americans. One cosmonaut would transfer to the LK lunar lander and plant the Soviet flag on the moon.

Luna Ye-8-5 When it was clear the LK would not be ready in time, this robotic lunar lander was built in a crash program to return a sample of lunar soil to earth before Apollo 11 mission.

N1 The N1 launch vehicle, developed by Russia in the 1960's, was to be the Soviet Union's counterpart to the Saturn V and send Soviet cosmonauts to a lunar landing.

American Lunar Program

Apollo Lunar Landing American project that resulted in an American being the first (and only) human to walk on the moon. Begun in 1962; first landing on the moon 1969; sixth and final lunar landing in 1972. Hardware was available for three further missions, but program was cancelled due to risk, the Soviets getting out of the race, and loss of public support and interest.

Apollo 7 First manned test of the Apollo spacecraft. Although the systems worked well, the crew became grumpy with head colds and talked back to the ground. As a result, NASA management determined that none of them would fly again.

Apollo 503 Cancelled Apollo E mission - test of the Apollo lunar module in high earth orbit. Lunar module was not ready. Instead mission flown only with CSM into lunar orbit as Apollo 8.

Apollo 8 First manned flight to lunar orbit. Speed (10,807 m/s) and altitude (378,504 km) records. Mission resulted from audacious decision to send crew around moon to beat Soviets on only second manned Apollo CSM mission and third Saturn V launch.

Apollo 9 First manned test of the Lunar Module. First test of the Apollo space suits. First manned flight of a spacecraft incapable of returning to earth. If rendezvous of the Lunar Module with the Apollo CSM had failed, crew would have been stranded in orbit.

Apollo 10 Final dress rehearsal in lunar orbit for landing on moon. LM separated and descended to 10 km from surface of moon but did not land. Speed record (11,107 m/s).

Apollo 11 First manned lunar landing. The end of the moon race and public support for large space programs. The many changes made after the Apollo 204 fire paid off; all went according to plan, virtually no problems.

Saturn V American orbital launch vehicle. America's booster for the Apollo manned lunar landing.

Apollo CSM The Apollo Command Service Module was the spacecraft developed by NASA in the 1960's as a standard spacecraft but ended up being built only for the lunar landing mission.

Yes it has. The McMinnville UFO is a rearview mirror off of a super old car/motorcycle slung over the telephone wire in the pictures.

Sometimes in the UFO field people are so smart & over analyze things that they cant get out of their own way.

Remember all the "analysis" on Billy Meier's photos/videos? "Well the computer tells us that the object is several hundred feet from the camera and is approximately 20 feet in diameter. And the suns reflection off the barn hit's that one tree branch and casts a shadow that also backs up Meier's UFO being 20 feet in diameter and 200 ft from the camera. We also conducted a test to see if it's possible if one man with one arm could possibly pull off this type of hoax - and out of the 20 participants we had try it - not one of them could duplicate it....blah blah blah blah etc. etc. etc."

The end result? Ummm, yeah, it's a small model hanging from fishing line a few feet in the front of camera. So much for your analysis.

Sometimes it's ok to put away the geometry formulas and the over analyzing. Sometimes the Ford pickup truck in the photo is exactly that, a Ford pickup truck. No need for heavy duty, overboard analyzing.

It's a model train wheel folks. Heflin got the last laugh.

UNLESS - aliens (during one of their abductions) noticed model trains in one of their victims house, took one of the train cars back on their flying saucer & back to their home planet and....the alien flying saucer engineers took a hard look at the model train wheel and thought "Damn. We've had it all wrong this entire time. Let's design our new flying saucers to look IDENTICAL to this model train wheel. Super flat on top & everything."

You're probably right but as a kid I use to look at that picture with such awe. Too bad.

Not likely that it was a model train wheel. The series of pictures show a fair-sized disk object at a distance. Maybe not at the 100, 200 or 300 feet distance that seems apparent in his several images, but certainly at far enough distance from the camera that a model train wheel would be a mere dot.

If you don't want to believe in alien UFOs, figure that we created some domestic copies...oh, than that would mean....

A small object close by can be misperceived as large object further away in the 2 dimensional world of a photograph. I've worked photographic hoaxes before, and this illusion is surprisingly easy to create. No Photoshop required.

Maybe in your view, but that case was beat to death by those wanting to PROVE that his several images were all fake. No one ever did and you come along half a century later and make an armchair pronouncement?

It does look exactly like a toy train wheel and is a shape untypical of most flying saucer descriptions but how could he get a small object like that in the same focal plane as the distant landscape?

It would require a larger model at least the size of a hockey puck dangling from a fishing pole something like 12 or 15 feet away, also a fast shutter speed, fast film (apparently he did have fast ASA 3000 film), and a decent lens. A cheap camera would blur the model as it swung back and forth.

Here's the camera model he used, it has an automatic shutter speed but if it was bright outside the shutter was fast. This camera probably has a genuine glass lens:

<http://polaroids.theskeltons.org/img/101.jpgd>

So he did have the capacity to fake the photos. Maybe it's a large toy train wheel, an amusement-ride train powered by a tractor engine for public parks. If it can be explained prosaically by mundane objects then it is explained that way, because people who have seen the real thing up close have no doubt about what they're looking at, the objects are strange and otherworldly. They are anything but mundane. No witness has said ever, "it looked exactly like a toy train wheel."

Everything on a photograph is on the same focal plane.

I don't think those old Polaroids had autoexposure.

In 1965, Rex Heflin saw this and took four photos. He experienced radio interference at the same time, corroborated by others. The photos were deemed a "hoax" by Blue Book, but the USAF investigator deemed them legitimate. A later 2000 analysis suggests the craft was real. What do you think?

Critical sensor data has been possibly illegally withheld from Congress and/or AARO. Incidents like the USS Nimitz Tic Tac UFO have never been debunked.

Summary:

Claims that there is no more data for incidents like the USS Nimitz, or witnesses to the events, such as stated by AARO, are so laughably stupid as to be outright offensive. They rely on the assumption that everyone else is a literal idiot incapable of basic reading comprehension.

The events in real-time would have been on various levels observed by possibly dozens of unique and discrete sensor systems, and potentially hundreds of witnesses of various levels in real-time.

GPT analysis short cut for the very lazy: <https://chatgpt.com/share/5aaefc27-b448-4545-bf74-e2ac0cb8d3a5>

Pentagon UFO incident debunking: based on a false premise

A common refrain we hear is that sightings like the USS Nimitz Tic Tac have been "debunked". This "debunking" is always centered on various people analyzing the videos (of short edited length in non-HD quality) that we have of these incidents.

Consider the sequence of events if you are David Fravor and Anne Dietrich:

You take off from Nimitz in your F/A-18E/F Super Hornets.

Over the next hour, you're airborne.

During that time you encounter whatever the Tic Tac was.

You return to the Nimitz.

Years later, the situation is declared "debunked" based on a 80-90~ second edited video sample from one (1) source of data, which somehow encapsulates the entire incident and time from your Nimitz departure to your return. It is implied that this is it, this is all, and the matter has been adjudicated by the public, as if anyone in the public has any moral or scientific authority to declare such a thing.

It is the direct equivalent of watching the Space Shuttle Challenger (OV-099) lift off at 11:39 a.m. on January 28, 1986, and evaluating what happened 73 seconds after its launch based ONLY on the live television feeds, and specifically only on the first 70 of 73 seconds of the footage. Could you evaluate the Challenger disaster... at all, based on just that? Imagine if the video literally cut to black at the exact 0.5 seconds after the ship begins to disintegrate.

That's what happened with these Navy videos, and with Aguadilla and all the rest. If you ask the notable "debunkers" or the debunking enthusiasts here about other data points and sources, it seems you're either ignored or told that the data is not relevant, which is itself... an unusual position to take.

Real science does not disregard sources of valid evidence.

But there's no other data!

"We can only evaluate the Tic Tac on what we got and there's nothing else, so case closed!"

I assume I'm not the only person to encounter a position like this, or seen similar.

But is that accurate? Is that all that the United States government has?

Not really, no. One day I began here:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/USS_Nimitz

Take a moment and open that as a new tab, then do a control-F for this text. Read the list, then come back here:

AN/SPS-48E

Here's what Wikipedia alone lists as installed just on Nimitz:

AN/SPS-48E 3-D air search radar

AN/SPS-49(V)5 2-D air search radar

AN/SPQ-9B target acquisition radar

AN/SPN-46 air traffic control radars

AN/SPN-43C air traffic control radar

AN/SPN-41 landing aid radars

4 × Mk 91 NSSM guidance systems

4 × Mk 95 radars

Feel free to independently review all that--an almost comical amount of data on the load out for the US Navy is available online for these sorts of craft. So, then, we have a few 90~ second videos, and... that's it. Based on those videos, someone has decided these events are prosaic, mundane and normal. What came before the video started? What came after? Can we see the preceding 5 minutes either way? No.

But does that mean that's ALL the military recorded?

No.

But there's a LOT more data.

I am not a military aviation and technology expert, but it doesn't require you to have gone through military training or have military-industrial complex professional backgrounds to understand how things work. I've read every single Wikipedia article listed in this post more than once, and followed out leads and links from all, and various supplemental readings.

For the lazy, here's a concise GPT-write up. Keep in mind, I've ran this scenario through there on multiple models multiple times for preliminary research, and have been working on this for quite some time. Take a moment now if you want and read this, then come back.

<https://chatgpt.com/share/5aaefc27-b448-4545-bf74-e2ac0cb8d3a5>

Here's the key take away questions I opened with:

Tell me what specific named ships were part of the USS Nimitz carrier strike group as of November 14, 2004.

Answer:

USS Nimitz (CVN-68) - Nimitz-class aircraft carrier

USS Princeton (CG-59) - Ticonderoga-class guided-missile cruiser

USS Chafee (DDG-90) - Arleigh Burke-class guided-missile destroyer

USS Higgins (DDG-76) - Arleigh Burke-class guided-missile destroyer

USS John Paul Jones (DDG-53) - Arleigh Burke-class guided-missile destroyer

USS Pinckney (DDG-91) - Arleigh Burke-class guided-missile destroyer

USS Thach (FFG-43) - Oliver Hazard Perry-class guided-missile frigate

That aligns with reading on older records and the overall readout on https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Carrier_Strike_Group_11.

Here's the really important question, that comes next:

Treat each ship as a bullet point in your response. Limit all answers exclusively to validated facts here. For each ship, provide me a known list of what sort of remote telemetry and RADAR-type (or similar) systems each ship in the carrier that would have a role in remotely tracking any jets that took off from the Nimitz on November 14, 2004, for any training or combat purposes off of the coast of San Diego, California.

For each ship give me:

Name and identification of every known such telemetry system, known if any model number and the vendor/manufacturer.

For each such device/system, indented bullet point -- based on known public specifications, detail tracking range/fidelity of radar--smallest size physical thing that can be tracked, to what range in miles, to what altitude, and to what velocity can it be tracked.

From military data and records, probability of that specific system having been engaged and active while US Navy jets were deployed from the Nimitz during a training or combat flight. Answer in a % from 0% to 100%. After the % answer, you will explain in no less than four sentences the justification and logic that led you to that % evaluation.

If known, estimate how many human staff would have been involved in the operation or oversight of each named piece of equipment during such a flight operation; for example, IF the USS Higgins was running an AEGIS system tracking a Hornet jet from Nimitz, how many humans likely had eyes on the Hornet from Nimitz on the active AEGIS system, and how many supervisory enlisted or officer staff would have seen this activity in real time?

If you do not know the answer to one of these points, do not attempt to answer; simply print the answer of [UNKNOWN].

What kind of answer did that give, assuming you haven't looked at that GPT link?

What did the Nimitz carrier strike group and the USA record that day?
An insane amount of data, it turns out... a bit more than a 90~ second video.

AN/SPS-48E 3D Air Search Radar

Range: Up to 220 nautical miles (approximately 253 miles)

Altitude: Up to 100,000 feet

Velocity: Can track targets moving at supersonic speeds

Smallest Size: Aircraft-sized objects, typically larger than 2 meters

Probability of Engagement: 100%

Justification: As the primary carrier, the USS Nimitz would have had its primary air search radar system fully operational during flight operations to ensure comprehensive airspace monitoring and safety.

Operational Staff: Typically 2-3 radar operators and 1-2 supervisory personnel monitoring the system in the Combat Information Center (CIC).

AN/SPQ-9B Radar

Range: Up to 80 nautical miles (approximately 92 miles)

Altitude: Up to 100,000 feet

Velocity: Can track high-speed, sea-skimming targets

Smallest Size: Small, fast-moving aircraft and missile-sized objects

Probability of Engagement: 90%

Justification: This radar is often used for surface and low-altitude air target tracking and would likely be active to ensure comprehensive situational awareness during flight operations.

Operational Staff: Typically 1-2 radar operators with 1 supervisory personnel in the CIC.

That's just the two primary radar systems on Nimitz alone.

How many total unique discrete systems of technology were employed?

It's impossible to know for certain, but this is what the involved systems would have been:

Any of those would have recorded/seen activities to the two Hornets flown by Fravor and Dietrich.

This same precise methodology would be applied to the other leaked videos.

But wait... is there more?
Yes.

There is no sane, logical, or plausible argument that the multitude of these systems were not engaged during a training operation like this... and as soon as Fravors squadron would have reported the presence of an unknown craft, you don't think the Navy wouldn't have lit up every last tracking thing they have, while calling the Air Force, Coast Guard, Army, Marines and NORAD to ask who has what in their restricted airspace with aviators up there?

Here is a tally (quoted from my GPT chat above) of the likely exposure as to number of unique technology systems involved and how many probable staff were involved for each, and then aggregate estimates. Again, I've ran these queries there repeatedly and gone over a comical amount of related public data and r/OSINT. All the data seems to check out when cross-referenced and I encourage any of you to do likewise.

How many systems and people could have known Fravor and Dietrich had engaged something?

Low to High Estimate of Unique Discrete Technological Systems

Low Estimate:

F/A-18E/F systems: 10 (assuming minimal unique systems per aircraft)

Carrier Group: 5 (most essential systems)

Civilian ATC: 1

Total: 19 unique systems

High Estimate:

F/A-18E/F systems: 20 (assuming all unique systems per aircraft)

Carrier Group: 10 (all listed systems)

Federal Systems: 6 (all listed systems)

Civilian ATC: 1

Total: 37 unique systems

Summary

Low Estimate: 19 unique discrete technological systems

High Estimate: 37 unique discrete technological systems

These estimates account for the various tracking, communication, and telemetry systems that would have potentially recorded the entire flight of the F/A-18E/F Super Hornets during their training operations up to 100-200 miles off the coast of San Diego.

Conclusion

Nothing--nothing--around these has been debunked, because there are hundreds of uncontacted witnesses and a veritable collection of data that has been not only apparently illegally withheld from Congress, but also illegally from AARO, or AARO deliberately failed to deliver a proper legally-mandated report to Congress.

Nothing has been debunked till all the above has been examined. Science is not about outcomes, but about answering questions.

Any 'science' designed to achieve a pre-determined outcome is fraud.

A belated edit:

AARO also was 'denied' Alaskan UFO data

On a related note, it turns out AARO was denied the Alaska UFO Shootdown Data. That is unfortunate, but they can just ask David Grusch's former employers for it:

The National Reconnaissance Office.

You know, where David Grusch worked in their operations center.

April 2016 – November 2021, Senior Intelligence Officer, National Reconnaissance Office (NRO), Chantilly, VA (USAF Reserve, O-4/Maj in a O-5/Lt Col Billet)

Senior leadership team for a 24/7 watch center, conducts intelligence and threat assessments, culminating to provide for the safety and security of National Technical Means (NTM) and the agency's varied global interests. Acting NRO Operations Center Intelligence Chief and interim agency lead for DoD Special Access Programs Integration, Presidential Daily Brief (PDB) coordinator. Serves as Deputy NRO Representative to USSPACECOM/J2 staff.

Wikipedia article: Sentient

Sentient is a heavily classified artificial intelligence satellite intelligence analysis system of the United States Intelligence Community, operated by the National Reconnaissance Office (NRO) and developed by their Advanced Systems and Technology Directorate (AS&T), with the United States Air Forces Research Laboratory at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and the Department of Energy's National Laboratories.[1][2][3][4][5]

Available information describes it as a complex automated system that allows intelligence agencies of the United States and the United States Armed Forces to use artificial satellites in Earth orbits to track in real time any objects detected or photographed, and to automatically repurpose with artificial intelligence and machine learning the tracking of targets, and to even decide which targets are worth tracking.[2][3][1][4]

Known public records of Sentients development programs and process date from 2009-2010 onward.[6][4][7] NRO emails from 2021 disclosed that the Unidentified Aerial Phenomena Task Force (UAPTF), which later became the All-domain Anomaly Resolution Office (AARO), was involved with the NRO and the Sentient program.[8]

Important to add, the three Navy videos came from a secret repository of data.

Seems strange that 20 years after the Nimitz incident, the only thing in that secret repository of UFO data is the single short Nimitz video. Kevin Day has said there were numerous encounters that day, not just Underwood. Various people have testified to the data being taken from the ships. And we know there are other cases - the USS Ronald Reagan case happened earlier that year, I think it was in the same location.

I thought the Nimitz video was never classified?

That it wasn't marked to be released to the public but it was not classified.

It's why when the video leaked online in 2007(on abovetopsecret forum maybe?) they couldn't track down who distributed the video because it was so widely distributed on the ship itself.

You are correct on all counts there. It wasn't classified, but it also wasn't for public release. It was seen on the ship that day, but was not available the next day.

As for exactly where FLIR1, GIMBAL & GOFAST came from in 2017, that is a mystery. We know the story of who released it, just not where it came from. I believe it came from a secret repository of UFO data at the DoD, probably something related to AATIP, but that is just my guess. Grusch did make a reference in the Joe Rogan interview, at 41min, to having access to the "AATIP/AAWSAP classified archives". Someone suggested to me the "AATIP/AAWSAP classified archives" only related to AAWSAP's data but I imagine this probably stretched later than the AAWSAP time period, but again, only my guess.

IIRC it was multiple anomalous objects in 2004 as well as daily sightings of objects in 2014 when they upgraded the radar systems, there should be mountains of data.

USS Roosevellet, Nimitz, Omaha all three plus fleets around them. Not to mention Malmstrom, ICBM ala nuclear controller Robert Salas.

The "only happened when sensor systems were upgraded" fictional mythology is a common debunker retort that is debunked here.

Did they upgrade 19 to 37~ systems concurrently?

Plus HUMINT?

Did Fravor get contacts that day?

If they want to claim 'ghosts' on one system, or even three... sure.

Open the books on all the rest to Congress/GAO and lets have a look at what was where, call in a hundred plus people who were on the ships under subpoena, and bring in the vendor engineers from places like Raytheon et al to validate if the sensor systems were calibrated correctly to vendor specification, or to military specification, and if those military specifications were in any way calibrated to not detect... certain sorts of craft.

How does the "sensors were upgraded" argument stand up to the weeks and years of Range Foulter reports that Greenwald disclosed at Blackvault?

Or Langley Air Force Base being sieged by "drones" that apparently no one between the US military, NSA, FAA and FBI can track from launch point?

You're telling me our nations signature "Defend Washington DC with fast attack fighters on a moments notice" base being prevented from flying due to drone "fleets"...

...had no way to see where the drones came from?

Uh huh. Sure.

Ever noticed how visibly angry Fravor gets when asked about data being taken from the ship? I've always found it interesting how upset those rumors seem to make him for whatever reason.

Fravor had been quoted by Cahill saying he believed the Nimitz sighting was a "fake or ours" before he started talking to the ufo guys who were totally caught up in every thing he was saying.

Which aligns with what we know of Fravor. I mean his callsign was SEX.

THE PURPOSE OF THIS POST

The Nimitz Tic Tac case is often referred to as one of the most interesting UAP events. Mostly because of the immense amount of witness testimony, sensor data, and the Pentagon said they don't know what the hell it is. For many reasons, it is known as one of the most well-documented UAP interactions. I believe it is one of the most irrefutable examples of how stigma, obfuscation of the truth, and delusional denial is a SERIOUS safety concern for pilots all over (forget national, this is a global issue). The battle group was seeing these things on radar and such for 2 weeks before David "SEX" Fravor and other pilots chased it.

This 3 minute exchange with Congressman Langworthy makes it clear that you'd have to be willfully ignorant to dismiss this with a handwave. This is a retired Black Aces squadron commander speaking about this event with Congress, under oath. I found it super interesting that the event was detailed on ATS, Reddit, and Fightersweep all at different times prior to the Pentagon owning up to it in the 2017 NYT article.

Summary of the Tic Tac Event by CBS

Fravor's opening statement to Congress in the July UAP hearings

Fravor's podcast with Joe Rogan

Fravor's podcast with Ryan Graves

Detailed Reddit post I wrote about the hearings, includes quotes from Fravor and such

Article written by NYT as part of a series that talks about the Pentagon's UAP programs and some of the events. The Tic Tac is one of those events described in the NYT Article

Fightersweep article about the Tic Tac Event, posted in 2015

Reddit post about the Tic Tac event, posted in 2013

ATS website posts about the Tic Tac Event, posted in 2007

Other witness video testimonies. Some were in an E2-C flying to capture the Tic Tac event, sharing their stories

Radar techs demanding an apology after the NYT article came out

Scientific paper summary

Scientific paper detailed post

Big playlist with a bunch of Nimitz witnesses

Big post with some other interesting UAP events

Super comprehensive list of more Tic Tac event info (A lot more than this refresher)

NORAD radar tracks of the 2004 Nimitz event, never seem be brought up by ANYBODY that discussed the event. I feel like I'm the only one that ever mentions that, but what you've compiled is a great list, to hand over to GAO so they can ask AARO if they checked the retained data for all of those individual discrete systems.

Grusch stated in the July 26 hearings that satellite imagery of anomalous events has been withheld from congress and he doesn't know why. He said that some images that he has seen he can not explain prosaically.

Jared Moskowitz then asked him: "Do you have direct knowledge or have you spoken with people with direct knowledge that this imagery applies to crash sites - crash imagery?"

Grusch replied: "I can't discuss that in an open session."

I literally spent a few hours writing all the most important statements from Grusch's testimony on paper with pencil lol. Same with Grusch on Joe Rogan. Wrote all the goodies and nuggets down. Worth it. I have an entire physical notebook dedicated solely for UFO stuff, blue in color. It's really fun, so far filled about 30+ normal A4 sized pages.

Also.. this is not related to this post but.. The latest thing I've written down was also a statement from Grusch on Tucker Carlson, and I want to share it with this subreddit if anyone happens to read this comment, it's very significant in my opinion.

Carlson: "It sounds like you believe you've been surveilled and threatened."

Grusch: "Oh, hundred percent. It was obvious to me, and, you know, I mean it was blatant."

[Carlson said something here but was irrelevant, didn't write down, reading directly from my notebook]

Grusch: "At the same time that those things were happening to me personally, they were happening at the same time to a certain other public figure that is known to the world, and another former intelligence officer near my home as well; and it was some kind of planned multi-person intimidation activity that was very disturbing, and I'll just leave it at that."

here's the interview with Grusch and T.C. <https://youtu.be/BRgll1YUuNg?si=DXKDLVUEUochs3vB>

So yeah just wanted to share that nugget, even though it's not relevant to the discussion in this thread. Basically it's obvious that Grusch and his peers have been threatened. And he clearly knows a LOT more than he is allowed to say, which is a fact that the nasty noisy negativist debunkers don't really pay attention to.

AARO doesn't seem to have received data about the Alaska UAP shoot-down either.

Well, they can apparently just ask the National Reconnaissance Office for that data.

You know, where David Grusch worked in their operations center.

April 2016 – November 2021, Senior Intelligence Officer, National Reconnaissance Office (NRO), Chantilly, VA (USAF Reserve, O-4/Maj in a O-5/Lt Col Billet)

Senior leadership team for a 24/7 watch center, conducts intelligence and threat assessments, culminating to provide for the safety and security of National Technical Means (NTM) and the agency's varied global interests. Acting NRO Operations Center Intelligence Chief and interim agency lead for DoD Special Access Programs Integration, Presidential Daily Brief (PDB) coordinator. Serves as Deputy NRO Representative to USSPACECOM/J2 staff.

Why the NRO...? Well...

Wikipedia article: Sentient
Sentient is a heavily classified artificial intelligence satellite intelligence analysis system of the United States Intelligence Community, operated by the National Reconnaissance Office (NRO) and developed by their Advanced Systems and Technology Directorate (AS&T), with the United States Air Forces Research Laboratory at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and the Department of Energy's

National Laboratories.[1][2][3][4][5]

Available information describes it as a complex automated system that allows intelligence agencies of the United States and the United States Armed Forces to use artificial satellites in Earth orbits to track in real time any objects detected or photographed, and to automatically repurpose with artificial intelligence and machine learning the tracking of targets, and to even decide which targets are worth tracking.[2][3][1][4]

Known public records of Sentients development programs and process date from 2009-2010 onward.[6][4][7] NRO emails from 2021 disclosed that the Unidentified Aerial Phenomena Task Force (UAPTF), which later became the All-domain Anomaly Resolution Office (AARO), was involved with the NRO and the Sentient program.[8]

Agreed. This is low hanging fruit. It is feasible to scientifically analyze patterns of data being: collected or not collected, discarded or maintained, and disclosed or withheld, and correlate the patterns between UAP incidents and data management anomalies.

Hey there bud, you are right about what you're saying, and for people who are logical and reasonable, it all makes sense. Unfortunately, when dealing with this topic, you are facing Dogma with two conflicting ideologies, one that believes and one that doesn't. There is simply no room for your fact driven science based approach, but do keep up the good fight. Stiff upper lip and all that jazz.

Claims that there is no more data for incidents like the USS Nimitz, or witnesses to the events, such as stated by AARO, are so laughably stupid as to be outright offensive. They rely on the assumption that everyone else is a literal idiot incapable of basic reading comprehension.

So provide the data. Don't tell me what data you have, just post it. It's radar data, right? How hard can this be?

Nicely done, agreed to all this. My stance has always been that we need the data. The videos we have thus far, don't show us the key data returns that anyone with any background in physics/engineering/science would need. And, what's interesting to me, is that undoubtedly the initial events would have had all this data, and the powers that be would have looked at all that juicy data, and decided "shit, what is this? This is anomalous, we can't identify it"...and then somehow AARO or the public gets their paws on a completely scrubbed down version with loads of missing data. Data that is vital to determine whether the event was truly anomalous. I am primarily focused on the February 2023 "balloon" event. The logic and reasoning for not releasing the data is complete bull shit, especially when they released high def video footage of Russia dropping gas on a reaper drone like a week later. Complete and frustrating bull shit.

Time of day of event

Precise GPS location of sensor

Elevation of sensor

Elevation of object

Straightline distance and angles between sensor and object (need to determine how far object is from sensor)

The velocity of the sensor (relative to fixed ground point)

The velocity of the object (relative to fixed ground object)

The atmospheric conditions (pressure, temperature, wind speed (relative to fixed ground point))

IR/Thermal video reads (needed to understand propellant is it chemical or not with a heat signature?)

Optical video of the object

And guess what, the sensor system of any jet or drone has all of this - standard issue data pack. So why can't the public get this data? Why can't we get this for the balloon from Feb 2023? These systems aren't secret, the sensing capability is public information and is advertised on Raytheon's website for what their functionality is.

There is a vast amount of publicly available information and data from which intelligent, objective, and unbiased individuals can logically conclude that UFOs/UAP do, in fact, represent Non-Human Intelligence (NHI) – and that they are interacting with humanity.

The story behind the "Tic Tac" UFO sighting by Navy pilots in 2004
By Aliza Chasan
July 26, 2023 / 8:03 PM EDT / CBS News

Add CBS News on Google

During a Wednesday hearing before House lawmakers on unidentified anomalous phenomena, also known as UFOs, a retired Navy fighter pilot testified about his experience seeing what he described as a "Tic Tac-looking object" while on a flight back in 2004.

Retired Navy Cmdr. David Fravor was commander of the F/A-18F squadron on the USS Nimitz when he says he spotted the object during a flight off the coast of Southern California on Nov. 14, 2004.

In a 2021 interview with "60 Minutes," Fravor, a graduate of the Top Gun naval flight school, also spoke about what he saw.

He and Lt. Cmdr. Alex Dietrich were training with the Nimitz Carrier Strike Group about 100 miles southwest of San Diego, Fravor told "60 Minutes." At the time, advanced radar on a ship that was a part of their training group, the USS Princeton, detected what operators called "multiple anomalous aerial vehicles" over the horizon, descending 80,000 feet in less than a second. Fravor and Dietrich diverted to investigate.

"I said, 'Dude, do you, do you see that thing down there?' And we saw this little white Tic Tac-looking object. And it's just kind of moving above the whitewater area," Fravor told "60 Minutes."

During the training exercise, Fravor and Dietrich each had a weapons system officer in the back seat of their F/A-18F.

"There was four of us in the airplanes literally watching this thing for roughly about five minutes," Fravor said in his 2021 interview.

Fravor went in for a closer look. He described the "Tic Tac" object mirroring his movements, saying "it was aware we were there."

The object was about the size of Fravor's F/A-18F, with no markings, no wings and no exhaust plumes, he said. When Fravor tried to cut off the UAP, it accelerated so quickly that it seemed to disappear. He said it was detected roughly 60 miles away less than a minute later.

"I think what we experienced was, like I said, well beyond the material science and the capabilities that we had at the time, that we have currently or that we're going to have in the next 10 to 20 years," Fravor testified Wednesday before the House Oversight Committee's national security subcommittee.

In addition to Fravor, the panel heard testimony from Ryan Graves, a former Navy pilot who has spoken out about encountering UAP on training missions, and David Grusch, who served for 14 years as an intelligence officer in the Air Force and National Geospatial Intelligence Agency.

A report released in January of this year revealed that the office tracking UAPs has had more than 500 sightings since 2004. Military officials have said most cases have innocuous origins, but others remain unexplained

Is Congress going to make an example of the AF and DoD to save face?
DISCLOSURE PROCESS SERIES

Hello, thanks for reading.

This is part 1 of 23 in a post series I've continued to add on to and update. These are my own thoughts on things, accompanied with sourced links and other supporting info. Please feel free to offer any thoughts, questions, or challenges on any of the posts.

THE PURPOSE OF THIS POST

Immediate Disclosure: I don't know anything, and my uncle didn't send me a crazy video.

This post relates more to the whistleblower hearings, political activity, and government-branch warfare that appears to be occurring. I've been doing my best to absorb so much info out there, but life is busy, so I have a few points I'd like to put out there and ask for expansion or rebuttals.

I want to acknowledge that I'm making many assumptions, of course. As a random stranger on the internet, there will likely be confidence in how I express my thoughts below, but that isn't meant to indicate that my assessment can't be challenged, disproven, or amended. I'm not stating these points as if their fact; my goal is to openly express my thought process and see if there is context that eliminates or expands on these thoughts. Thanks for your time.

WHISTLEBLOWER

David Grusch appears to have a credible and verifiable history of patriotic duty to the US. If I understand his previous job and the career path that led to it, I have no doubt he did the investigations he claims to have done. He is fairly young, healthy, and on track to retire by 50 at the latest and fall into 350K annual income working for a defense contractor or being a self-employed consultant, and the public would never know his name. He sounds like an ambitious rising star in the intelligence community earning the respect of McCullough and apparently many others like Karl Nell. I think he built a case, as was his mission, but I don't think he knew it would lead him where it appears he ended up. If these allegations are true and investigated, heads may be rolling.

When he spoke about how hurtful it is for a leader to see his people harmed, I believed that to be genuine. Additionally, I would never make the mistake of thinking he makes a mistake. He came up through the IC and was groomed into a GS-15 rank that is the civilian equivalent to a military rank of colonel. Colonels oversee 1,000s (GS-15/Colonel). I don't believe Grusch was in a supervisory position for 1,000s of subordinates, but he reached a rank that carried a lot of responsibility. So based on the hearings (6 Minute Highlights) and my opinion: He's holding somebody's card, and they know it. He talks like a man with the other party dead-to-rights and knows that any movement on the other side results in a checkmate in his favor. I could absolutely be wrong, but I don't think I am.

CLIPS AND OBSERVATIONS OF HEARINGS

If you watch any of the clips, note that I included the ABC version of the hearings because it offered a split window view of the hearings where you can watch the body language of both parties of the conversation. The clips I include are mostly in chronological order but not all of them are. That made the hearings extremely interesting to watch (not that they aren't already). I think all of the congress members asked pretty interesting questions that allowed for a ton of information to be exchanged. Additionally, I think it was pretty well established by credible witnesses on public record that UAPs are a legitimate national security concern. The clips I provide below highlight some interesting exchanges:

- It was unfortunate to find out during the hearing that they were denied a SCIF, according to Congressman Burchett. I think that only strengthens the feeling that these claims may be legitimate. Burchett had a good opening statement. He also got Corbell and George Knapp's statements on the public record. Yielding the remainder of his time to Congresswoman Luna
- In Jared Moskowitz' questioning, he is giving them additional areas to look at regarding funding sources for illicit UAP activities, without giving them classified information.
- He's mentioning public law related to the gang of eight and the lack of oversight, self-funding, ad IRAD.
- Congressman Burchett questioned David Grusch about reprisals and personal knowledge of harm and/or injury caused by the USHG to conceal the knowledge of extraterrestrial technology.
- The moment that David Grusch informs
- All I'm going to say is, oh my god AOC is going to wreak havoc on these poor souls that have been running the dirty money in this. I almost feel bad for them, but I don't. It sounds like she's making considerations for mandated reporting from the aerospace companies, maybe airlines as well. The publicity is great.
- Congressman Frost seemed interested in the reporting aspect as well and discussed it heavily with Ryan Graves.
- David is making extremely serious claims under oath but at another point says specifically he will go to jail if he mentions anything he wasn't approved to say through classification check.
- David Grusch says that according to his knowledge, we have known about extraterrestrials since the 1930s

- David Grusch says he gave all the pertinent information to the intel committees and the Intelligence Community Inspector General.
- David Grusch, Burchett, and Gaetz have a very interesting conversation regarding the classification of UAPs and Congress' oversight authorities. They also touch on Title 10 and Title 50 authorities and who authorized clearances where Grusch drops one of the most interesting bombs: Career aerospace officials inside and outside the government influence who has classification to see what. This is a huge concern. And honestly, this could be one of the biggest revelations to come out of all this for me. Congress is clearly gunning to crucify wherever this financial blackhole is coming from. Especially when they can use these whistleblower claims as pressure, it's probably their best shot at making the public care enough to make this happen.
- Congressman Biggs had some interesting questions that led to open discussion of the issues with the classification system. He also mentioned a recent tone shift in John Kirby since they recently addressed UAPs and training range issues.
- I'm very happy that someone mentioned the DOE during this hearing, although I can't remember who it was.
- David Grusch and Congressman Burlison discuss the non-human intelligence delineation in language.
- Gaetz told the story that sounds like it may have been the spark for some of this. Gaetz details how his office had received a protected disclosure and went to go investigate at eglin with Burchett and Luna. The AF leadership wouldn't let them see anything until Gaetz himself was allowed to observe radar sequences and images of UAP. Additionally the feedback he told from the pilot's perspective about reporting was pretty disheartening and makes it clear that Ryan Graves lobbying for reporting protections is so important. TLDR: Congressman just said during a hearing that he's seen images and evidence of NHI.
- Nancy Mace had some awesome questions, and it seems like David makes it very clear that illegal activities are going on.
- Mr. Langworthy's exchange with David Fravor appeared authentic, and I feel like I saw the Congressman learn the gravity of the situation in real-time.
- Congressman Ogles felt pretty serious when he mentioned invoking the Holman rule if anyone stood in the way of them figuring this out.
- Awesome for Congresswoman Luna to get the NewsNation interview on the public record! She also receives investigative vectors to research NHI agreements and historical correspondence related to Foreign relations regarding UAPs. Lastly, she gets him on record with allegations of white-collar crime that violates the Federal Acquisitions Regulations.
- Congressman Raskin and David Grusch discussed the reason for any vague answers he gave.

MY CONCLUDING THOUGHTS ABOUT THE HEARINGS

Grusch has already had 11 hours of closed-door sessions with the gang of eight and who knows who else. He confirmed this in the hearing (too lazy to find this single link right now. If anyone can remember where it is, comment on the link to the timestamp, and I'll edit it!) I feel like much of this information was just for the record and the public. I think the Congress has known about this.

I'm not a legal expert by any means, so I'm sure this can be swiss-cheesed. To my understanding based on Burchett's questioning led to one of the most important exchanges of the hearings:

Congressman Burchett: How do you think we oughta handle UAP whistleblower pr-complaints like yours in the future?

David Grusch: Yeah there was some issue with mine, so ya know, the PPD19 process, it goes to the intel committees either through PPD-19 or ICD 120. There's not a good way for the intelligence community inspector general to provide that to other committees. And I asked my information to be sent to the house and senate armed services committee because there are title 10 equities at play, but there was no smooth process to do so. Yeah.

Congressman Burchett: Yeah, it's a trashcan

This is Grusch explaining on public record that there is no way for the Inspector General to get the info to Congress.

Congressman Garcia asked questions earlier in the hearings and I believe 1 question in particular directed at Grusch is the nail in the coffin. Mr. Garcia reminds them during both questions that they are very interested in getting everything on the public record. The body language of the exchange and even the room appeared to shift after the exchange:

Congressman Garcia: Mr. Grusch, do you believe that our government is in possession of UAPs?

David Grusch: Uh, Absolutely, after interviewing over 40 witnesses over four years.

Congressman Garcia: And Where?

David Grusch: I know the exact locations, and those locations were provided to the Inspector General and some of which to the intelligence committees. I actually had the people with the first-hand knowledge provide a protected disclosure to the Inspector General.

Based on all the context above, I believe it is safe to assume that there is some truth to Grusch's allegations. The US taxpayers should be demanding Congress investigate and weed that out immediately. This issue feels compounded when you look at all of the corroborating evidence, the credibility of the testimony, Grusch's resources and guidance, The bipartisanship clarity, and Schumer's NDAA sailing through the House of Representatives. I feel like all of these things make the Select Committee on UAPs request a given. The language in the legislation we've already seen indicates they've been working on this for quite some time.

SO WHAT IS HAPPENING? MAYBE A THINK TANK WILL HELP

Here is where I begin to wonder about some things. What was his case supposed to be? Was he meant to investigate UAPs? Or was he meant to investigate the AF activity in UAPs?

It's my understanding that the UAPTF was housed under the Department of the Navy. I also noticed that the 2 pilots testifying were Naval pilots. I believe the videos released by the DoD have been from the Navy. Karl Nell was Army. In most of the posts and content I see in this sub, it appears the Army and Navy have been typically neutral or cooperative toward disclosure. Now I know that is 100% anecdotal, but I don't know much about the history of this UAP disclosure stuff. It appears that the last 20 years have been quite the battlefield. Please feel free to educate or correct in the comments.

Are there any ties to the seemingly slow-rolling disclosure process we've seen over the last decade and military branch headbutting? I don't mean the traditional AF vs. Navy rivalry-type stuff. I mean something that would lead toward a coordinated effort across multiple branches of military and government to cut the head off the snake of the "secret that everybody knows about but doesn't talk about". I don't want this to sound conspiratorial, but I pose it as a question as it popped into my head. I believe Ross Coulthart said that Obama and Trump were read in and some other pretty exciting things. Again, to acknowledge it all could be fake is healthy, but I believe the things he's saying as he appears to have held true to his word so far in this recent whistleblowing process.

Are there any motivations that would have led to this type of coordinated effort, or is this all truly just out of the blue as we are being told to believe? If I understood some of the posts I read earlier, it appears that the new NDAA language points toward Space Force becoming more active. Was it created to eventually absorb the Air Force and shed the bad name that the implications of the claims may bring to light? The global implications of this genuinely are horrendous. Removing some parties responsible and moving the AF into space force as a more unified vision with our new world lens sounds like a pretty good campaign point. I hope that doesn't sound conspiratorial or crazy.

IMPORTANT SHOUTOUT

Before I conclude, let me mention the two witnesses that I didn't include many clips of but deserve a ton of attention and praise: Retired Commander David Fravor and Ryan Graves/Americans for Safe Aerospace are incredible. I know pilots that have said UAP reporting is an immediate issue for your medical re-evaluation depending on pilot licensing requirements that some pilots are subject to. It's pretty widely accepted that reprisals will occur. Your lobbying here is critical for us to make our citizens, pilots, military, and skies safer. We must begin to approach this issue from a science and data perspective. You can't assess something that isn't measured so the reporting and your progress there is so important.

If everyone had your keen attention to detail and objective approach to the subject, disclosure would come much faster.

I also think a VERY important point was that Matt Gaetz corroborated the hearing by sharing not only that the DoD had tried to stifle their oversight but also that he had after much armwrestling been shown an image and a radar video + witness testimony that he could not attribute to anything man made. That is a US congressman. That is huge. He ain't going to let go of the frisbee.

My father flew helicopters in the military for 35 years. He then flew medevac. He mentioned a ufo he saw (he didn't call it that), when he was coming in for approach to a very rural airport IFR - heavy fog.

When a craft the size of a Cessna flew right in front of them...my dad wished he had his NVG's on I remember him saying at the time. The flight nurse sitting shotgun asked my dad if he saw that!?

No idea what it was.

The reason I bring it up is because I have noticed a vitriol towards these hearings from my dad. He is a life long skeptic. When I asked him about that recently he got almost hostile with me. He did not want to be asked what that was he saw.

He wouldn't even call it a ufo...

I said "well there's protocol right? That sounds so dangerous! You investigated and called radar right?"

Yes

And?

"There was nothing on radar..."

Wow so did anyone else see anything ?

He gets literally angry at me and yells "I don't know! I don't know what it was, I never heard anything else about it. I'm sure it was just a Cessna with electrical failures..."

It's just really weird to witness this behavior. My father is retired now but this ufo stuff is really impacting him for some reason.

I wanted to ask him more about UFOs what the protocol was for if he saw one because it sure seems like an absolutely taboo subject for most pilots.

He grew up Irish Catholic.

He also got Corbell and George Knapp's statements on the public record.

I have a lot of respect for Corbell and Knapp. I'm familiar with their work. However, they are just private citizens. So what exactly is their relevance here?

I'll say it again as I've said many times before: the Air Force brass needs to be brought to congress and given a good old fashioned dressing down in front of the whole world to see. If they use the same old tactics of denial then the reps should then bring out the evidence and make them sweat

Submission: This post relates more to the whistleblower hearings, political activity, and government-branch warfare that appears to be occurring. I've been doing my best to absorb so much info out there, but life is busy, so I have a few points I'd like to put out there and ask for expansion or rebuttals.

One thing i believe you missed is the rumours exchange between senior US Navy and Biden/his office at the start of the year where directly they were told that the AF we're neck deep in all of this. Pointing the finger very clearly.

Great post, but I keep seeing the "overseeing 1,000s" comment relating to a GS-15 mentioned a lot in this sub. I think it's worth noting that things are a bit different on the civilian side, especially depending on the organization; just because you get into the upper grades and are the civilian equivalent to an O5/O6 doesn't necessarily mean that you're in command of anywhere near that same amount as the equivalent officer would be.

Most "division chiefs" where I work are GS-14 and supervise 30-50 people but my parent organization has several non-supervisory personnel in the GS-14/GS-15 grades. Those types are usually the super-technical-know everything-uber SME types.

Based on what I've read about his background, I wouldn't be surprised if he was a non-supervisory GS-15 simply based on his past experience/skill set.

Hey thanks for taking the time to write this. I actually went and edited my post to make sure I clarified. I'm aware of your point and agree with your assessment. I meant to imply that his rank is the civilian equivalent to the rank of someone who may lead 1,000s. Not that he himself led 1,000s. Thanks for pointing this out as it is important that we don't overstate credibility as well.

I edited the post to say:

He came up through the IC and was groomed into a GS-15 rank that is the civilian equivalent to a military rank of colonel. Colonels oversee 1,000s (GS-15/Colonel). I don't believe Grusch was in a supervisory position for 1,000s of subordinates, but he reached a rank that carried a lot of responsibility.

Based on Pentagon reports, notably the first mandated UAP report (<https://www.dni.gov/files/ODNI/documents/assessments/Preliminary-Assessment-UAP-20210625.pdf>), along with what can reasonably be inferred about additional classified evidence, a significant number of UAP sightings are of real physical objects (aerial and underwater) exhibiting advanced, intelligent control. This has almost certainly been known for a long time to at least some in leadership positions. Why, then, not only conceal this from Congress -- not to mention the public -- but repress reporting, data collection, and analysis?

The recent acknowledgement that UAPs represent a flight safety and potential national security risk is not a new realization. This should have led -- probably decades ago -- to intensified investigation. Why didn't this occur?

Do we recognize how truly strange this is? Humanity's first meeting with non-human intelligence will surely be among the most epochal moments in our history. Must we think that defense agencies have sought to block contact or prevent word of it from reaching others? I find it hard to credit that this would be done -- or even could be done -- for the sake of secret reverse engineering or similar, especially for over fifty years. But if there's a better explanation, what is it? Was it simply from an ambition to monopolize possible benefits?

And why has this recently changed? As far as I know, no high-ranking individual, including Mellon, Elizondo, and Gallaudet, nor the late Senator Reid, have offered an account of changes within the national security state that would account for this.

At this point, the best we can do is push for systematic data collection and reporting, congressional accountability, and greater openness with the public.

My 0.02

George Knapp and Jeremy Corbell said the day before the hearings, that they were never for the UFO/UAP Public. They were for the general public, to raise a genuine interest and start opening that box.

After watching the hearings, I believe it was also to quantify and verify the behind closed doors hearings which had happened already. IMO it aimed to provide a level of transparency not before seen in the subject.

Some members of Congress did not have clearance for the secure hearings, this got them involved. It put testimony into the record. It drew a line in the sand. It also served to show it is a TRUE bi-partisan effort on behalf of Congress.

In the last few days , I've concluded to myself, it was the laying of a foundation for Congress to chase the issue.

They needed to find a route. AOC now has a path to start sniffing out misappropriated funds. She has already been part of a successful endeavour on that with another defense contractor.

Declassifying and disclosing UAP documents will be a means to and end to find the money.

Congress don't like being lied to, but they hate being robbed!

Especially when their constituency has been complaining about getting robbed for years. Now that they have leads to pin it on, I have no doubt that this is the beginning of the end for the current structure of things. Thanks for your added words. Rewatching the hearings makes it abundantly clear it was theater, very effective theater.

As of 9pm Irish time, today, Sunday 30th June, 4 days after the hearing, the official GOP Stream has 1.1 Million Views. The IRS Biden GOP hearing, streamed 6 days prior, has 250k views. The next nearest to that struggles to break 20~25k views. With most less than 10k.

Never mind the other YouTube channels streaming it, reposting it and podcasts streaming it. It's massive. It's bigger than we could have hoped for.

Pentagon's Disclosure of Advanced Aviation Threat Identification Program (AATIP)

- Mainstream News Sources MEGATHREAD

(Updated 12/22/17)

The Facts:

The Pentagon is publicly admitting to spending $22 million in "black money" from 2007-2012 on a UFO research program called Advanced Aviation Threat Identification Program (AATIP).

The Department of Defense's AATIP program, via AATIP's former head Luis Elizondo, has supplied the New York Times with a video of an unidentified flying object that he and his colleagues have concluded appears to outperform any known man-made aircraft in terms of both speed and maneuverability. (For more about the evidence of sightings, see Popular Mechanics)

Longtime intelligence officer Elizondo left his position with the Department of Defense back in October, to protest the secrecy around the project. He then began working with To The Stars Academy, a project founded by Tom DeLonge and includes other former CIA, NSA, and Skunkworks figures.

One of the videos, the 2004 Nimitz video, is supported by the eyewitness testimonies of two Navy airmen who have come forward and are giving interviews with the press.

Much of the research in the program was carried out via Bigelow Aerospace, a contractor that builds inflatable ISS modules. Founder Robert Bigelow has claimed to have built a special warehouse in Las Vegas where he stores materials recovered from an alien craft -- materials he claims are comprised of a mysterious alloy. These claims have been repeated by Luis Elizondo, Tom DeLonge, and the journalists in the original New York Times report.

Why this is significant:

"Mr. Elizondo said he and his government colleagues had determined that the phenomena they had studied did not seem to originate from any country."

[1]

Under Mr. Bigelow's direction, the company modified buildings in Las Vegas for the storage of metal alloys and other materials that Mr. Elizondo and program contractors said had been recovered from unidentified aerial phenomena.

The "unidentified aerial phenomena" claimed to have been seen by pilots and other military personnel appeared vastly more advanced than those in American or foreign arsenals. In some cases they maneuvered so unusually and so fast that they seemed to defy the laws of physics, according to multiple sources directly involved in or briefed on the effort and a review of unclassified Defense Department and congressional documents.

Was just talking to my best friend, and officer pilot in the Navy about this last night for a solid hour. He said this is being talked about by a lot of Navy aviation and has been for years, especially among the F-18 community. He said this is getting to the point it's actually interfering with military operation and from what he knows, no one knows what it is. No one. This is HUGE. What I think is most fascinating, is how they're coming up from the ocean. Basically coming out of the water, horizontal, and going above the clouds, flying around, and then going into space. It's a reminder that we have no idea what's in most of our oceans.

Ok so here is the thing. I'm following this whole To the Stars thing for quite some time now and I'm as skeptical as one can be about this project. But one thing really got my mind buzzing when the NYTimes article was published.

One name that keeps popping up with the subject of UFO's is Robert Bigelow. This guy is as serious as it can get and his involvement shows me that there is some kind of credibility behind this phenomenon. I remember that I saw a Ted Talk of Ben Mezrich a couple of years ago and he makes a very very interesting connection that I haven't heard ever since.

Check out the Talk here: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=urKhVssiygA>

The whole Talk is worth the watch but the particular part about Bigelow starts around the 4:30 min mark.

And now we get the information about Bigelow that he even had facilities in the Las Vegas area where they stored some kind of debris/material related to the phenomenon. This is totally crazy and I really hope that the NYTimes and other news outlets continue to dig deeper here.

I debated on posting this link elsewhere, but this FighterSweep.com article was written OVER a year ago and documents in far more detail the story written in the NY Times about the pilot's experience.

For those who don't know, the pilot - Commander Fravor - was the Commanding Officer of a fighter squadron featured in the PBS docu-series "Carrier" filmed the following year.

The article also goes into extensive detail (something that gives this fighter guy chills) on the intercept and what happened.

The fact that the DOD is releasing full, unedited footage taken from the AN/ASQ-228 ATFLIR - the fact that the incident featured the use of advanced sensor systems from a guided missile cruiser, an E-2 Hawkeye, and from an F/A-18F Super Hornet - and that these witnesses are credible people with extensive experience in aviation, especially military aviation... is certainly not something you find every day.

I know the ready room on Monday is going to have some interesting conversation...

My former neighbor was a navy f18 pilot. It's been ten years since he and I discussed it.

He told me that he personally never saw anything.

But he said he had accounts from fellow pilots of things coming up out of the ocean.

And here we are ten years later talking about that exact thing.

Cool.

Good on ya OP. The underwhelming public response will hopefully push them to reveal more, faster.

This could also be part of a scheme to reveal suppressed manmade technology. They claim it's extra terrestrial, they might even stage a 'recent' discovery, so that none of the elites get blamed for hoarding technologies that would have revolutionized our energy, health, and transportation industries decades ago.

A Reddit post from 4 years ago describing exactly what the pilot in the 2004 UFO footage was describing. A "tic-tac" object floating above some churning of the sea then rapidly flying away when approached. To me this sounds like everything's being released now because at this point there can be no denying that what they saw was Extremely advanced technology alien or not, being silent about this would be the worst course of action so they're going to slowly release most of what they know.

Dave Fravor interview with ABC News. He is the pilot whose aircraft detected the UFO.

"I can tell you, I think it was not from this world," Fravor told ABC News. "I'm not crazy, haven't been drinking. It was – after 18 years of flying, I've seen pretty much about everything that I can see in that realm, and this was nothing close."

This whole thing hits home hard for me. I was in the navy attached to a super hornet squadron during this time frame. In 2004 I went on cruise aboard the Stennis. I never saw anything weird but I heard rumors. I worked the flight deck and knew a fair number of pilots pretty well. I remember asking a few of them if they ever saw UFO's and they said yes but never would elaborate so I always thought they were just messing with me. Us enlisted guys always chalked ufo stuff up to our own classified aircraft when we talked about it, but that was all speculation. I recall a story that went around the ship on that cruise about a bird landing like a helicopter on the deck at night time that made no sound and was covered up with tarps while it was on deck. I always thought this was BS as people would have seen it some one would have had to have seen it. Who put the tarps on it? Not saying that is a true story just something I heard on that cruise.

I was watching the news last night and it looked like they were trying to spin this story as an irresponsible spending story, they kept talking about the 22 million. I don't care if they spend 500 million, keep investigating!

I'm guessing this is the building Bigelow modified to store the material they recovered. It's not exactly a secret, he put a big ass alien head on the corner.

This is the first time I've visited this sub. I've always been interested in UFOs, but have been basically skeptical. I was brought here because...the Pentagon just admitted that we're being visited by UFOs.

My own feeling is that if these things are extraterrestrial in origin they're probably robots. For three reasons... 1 - Any sufficiently advanced civilisation would have probably transitioned from biological bodies at some point along the way. 2 - If you think about the stuff we ourselves have sent out to different planets - it's mostly robots. 3 - If there were squishy beings inside those UFOs, they'd get pretty messed up by the crazy maneuvers they pull off.

If they're robots, they could have been hanging out on Earth for...well...ages. Since we were monkeys. Just observing our planet.

If you do a ton of research on this subject, you'll find out that what you're saying is basically true...to some degree. Many of these UFOs (or UAPs) are probably small drones with no actual occupants. However, there are plenty of reports of sightings and encounters with actual biological "beings", but the evidence is not as good because there are no absolutely verified high res pictures or videos of them, no verified DNA samples, etc. All we have to go on are people's stories when it comes to the alleged aliens. I would add, though, that some of these UFO / UAP objects are so massive that it would be logical to assume they have occupants in them.

Lastly, these craft seem to operate by somehow producing powerful gravitational wave which allow them to warp and contour spacetime around them. If this is true, the occupants would not be bothered by g forces since they would be contained within their own inertial reference frame "bubble" despite them appearing to accelerate extremely fast. In this sense, they could in theory travel many times faster than the speed of light without breaking any physical laws. That's the theory at least.

My UFO Encounter/Exposure While on Board an Aircraft Carrier in the Military (No Pics, Only Story)

I decided to create an account to tell this story of an experience I had while on board an aircraft carrier far from the coast of California in the Pacific.

*FIRST OFF, I am relaying information and supporting circumstances, I did not see a UFO personally. However, it is an interesting story.

I am intentionally going to be vague about certain specifics just to protect my identity, although this information was never told to be kept secret and was wide spread.

During a one or two month "work-up" on an aircraft in the Pacific Ocean, we encountered a UFO. For those that are unfamiliar, "work-ups" are training exercises in preparation for deployment. So, the ship will deploy for anywhere from 2-8 weeks and let the pilots get aircraft carrier experience.

So, we are on a routine "work-up" in the Pacific Ocean. However, this work-up involved multiple carriers and battleships in a rather large exercise. I have zero recollection of the time in the work up that the encounter occurred, but I believe it was a few weeks in.

I was attached to an F18 squadron and worked in a technical capacity, as opposed to working on the flight deck. For 3 days in a row, an Operations Officer noticed an aircraft breaching our restricted airspace. The aircraft was traveling at a low speed at around 20,000 feet. The first 2 days the aircraft was observed, it disappeared from radar after a few minutes before being able to investigate. In preparation for this aircraft, the carriers had f18s ready to scramble.

On the 3rd sighting, a formation of around 10 (very rough guess, but it was a large group) F18c&d's scrambled to the location to investigate including my Commanding Officer.

This is where the story becomes hard to believe and almost silly to tell.

According to the pilots and confirmed by a friend in intel, when they encountered the aircraft it had disappeared from sight. However, there was a large disruption in the ocean below and it was assumed that the aircraft crashed. So, the strike group circled the area and inspected the scene. OK, crazy part now, an object that was described by multiple pilots and a friend in intel as resembled a very large "tic-tac".

Sounds like the ultimate troll job, I know. So, the "tic-tac" oval object lifted from the water. Out of fear or impulse (I have no idea) our pilots decided to engage the object. After lifting from the water and sitting briefly, the object flew at a speed that none of the pilots had ever encountered. It was just gone.

The incident was not cloaked in secrecy. The entire carrier was buzzing with rumors. I was not able to see the COM/NAV actual flight recording, so I was very skeptical. Things get dull in the middle of the ocean and it is not uncommon for troll jobs. So I wasn't exactly sold.

That night in the berthing I asked a very close friend in intel if he could confirm the legitimacy of the film. Without speaking, he gestured that it was correct. So, my skepticism began to fade and that next day a group of individuals were "cod'ed" onto the carrier and they retrieved all the tapes. I can confirm they cod'ed onto the ship, but the seizure of tapes came from people that work in those shops.

Years later I had practically forgotten this experience and I was watching tv at a friend's house. The show was about UFO's and some Russian pilots were describing an experience they had and they actually released the flight footage. The object that captured on film was shaped just like a "tic-tac" and moved faster than anything in existence. If someone can find a video or pic of that doc, much love! It was on History Channel years ago.

Anyways, I hope you guys enjoyed the read. I will try to answer any questions if anyone has any! I don't want to go into details about dates, ship name, my job, etc.... although I don't think it matters, we weren't told to be quiet and it was pretty wide-spread (minus certain details I acquired through discussions)

The fact that we can't seem to get clear pictures of repeated drone incursions, leads credence to the fact that any genuine NHI UFOs encounters would them almost be impossible to photograph, and thus debunking the entire premise that cameras everywhere should equal clear photos of the phenomenon.

My UFO Encounter/Exposure While on Board an Aircraft Carrier in the Military (No Pics, Only Story)

I decided to create an account to tell this story of an experience I had while on board an aircraft carrier far from the coast of California in the Pacific.

*FIRST OFF, I am relaying information and supporting circumstances, I did not see a UFO personally. However, it is an interesting story.

I am intentionally going to be vague about certain specifics just to protect my identity, although this information was never told to be kept secret and was wide spread.

During a one or two month "work-up" on an aircraft in the Pacific Ocean, we encountered a UFO. For those that are unfamiliar, "work-ups" are training exercises in preparation for deployment. So, the ship will deploy for anywhere from 2-8 weeks and let the pilots get aircraft carrier experience.

So, we are on a routine "work-up" in the Pacific Ocean. However, this work-up involved multiple carriers and battleships in a rather large exercise. I have zero recollection of the time in the work up that the encounter occurred, but I believe it was a few weeks in.

I was attached to an F18 squadron and worked in a technical capacity, as opposed to working on the flight deck. For 3 days in a row, an Operations Officer noticed an aircraft breaching our restricted airspace. The aircraft was traveling at a low speed at around 20,000 feet. The first 2 days the aircraft was observed, it disappeared from radar after a few minutes before being able to investigate. In preparation for this aircraft, the carriers had f18s ready to scramble.

On the 3rd sighting, a formation of around 10 (very rough guess, but it was a large group) F18c&d's scrambled to the location to investigate including my Commanding Officer.

This is where the story becomes hard to believe and almost silly to tell.

According to the pilots and confirmed by a friend in intel, when they encountered the aircraft it had disappeared from sight. However, there was a large disruption in the ocean below and it was assumed that the aircraft crashed. So, the strike group circled the area and inspected the scene. OK, crazy part now, an object that was described by multiple pilots and a friend in intel as resembled a very large "tic-tac".

Sounds like the ultimate troll job, I know. So, the "tic-tac" oval object lifted from the water. Out of fear or impulse (I have no idea) our pilots decided to engage the object. After lifting from the water and sitting briefly, the object flew at a speed that none of the pilots had ever encountered. It was just gone.

The incident was not cloaked in secrecy. The entire carrier was buzzing with rumors. I was not able to see the COM/NAV actual flight recording, so I was very skeptical. Things get dull in the middle of the ocean and it is not uncommon for troll jobs. So I wasn't exactly sold.

That night in the berthing I asked a very close friend in intel if he could confirm the legitimacy of the film. Without speaking, he gestured that it was correct. So, my skepticism began to fade and that next day a group of individuals were "cod'ed" onto the carrier and they retrieved all the tapes. I can confirm they cod'ed onto the ship, but the seizure of tapes came from people that work in those shops.

Years later I had practically forgotten this experience and I was watching tv at a friend's house. The show was about UFO's and some Russian pilots were describing an experience they had and they actually released the flight footage. The object that captured on film was shaped just like a "tic-tac" and moved faster than anything in existence. If someone can find a video or pic of that doc, much love! It was on History Channel years ago.

Anyways, I hope you guys enjoyed the read. I will try to answer any questions if anyone has any! I don't want to go into details about dates, ship name, my job, etc.... although I don't think it matters, we weren't told to be quiet and it was pretty wide-spread (minus certain details I acquired through discussions)

Just to clarify a few things. You said the F18s engaged the object. Did they just vector towards it, or actually fire on it? Also when you are talking about the COM/NAV, are you saying there was video footage as well as ground/air radar systems trained on this thing?

Also, what does 'cod'ed' mean, and who do you suspect collected the data?

u/anon402 avatar

anon402

12y ago

No problem! When I say "engage," my understanding is that the planes that were equipped with ordnance went "hot" and all the planes assumed a tactical formation. However, I know for a fact no ordnance was fired from any jet.

Com/Nav is in charge of the inflight real time footage and they did have the real-time video of the event. The confirmation that I mention I received from my friend, was confirmation that the video exists and that it showed the events as we had been described.

Cod'ed is a term that refers to a small size passenger plane that the military uses to bring personnel on and off of aircraft carriers. The term that is commonly used is"People were cod'ed onto the ship today..."

The individuals that took our data were American and not in military uniform. They were also very well dressed. My shop personally had pertinent data that was collected. They did not personally collect it from me, but it was given to my supervisor and after he brought the required data, he was pretty vocal upon his return about how unusual this is/was.

The general consensus aboard the ship is that the individuals were from the government in some capacity and were there to obviously remove any evidence. Imagine if a Pfc. Bradley leaked that video hahaha? My personal belief is that it was a military project. I believe they were attempted to test its stealth/evasive capabilities by testing the strike group. We had 3 aircraft carriers in an unusually large exercise which would have provided a pretty good testing ground for such technology. That is just my opinion!

Thank you guys for the interest and taking the time to read! I'll keep trying to answer whatever I can!

A few questions: Did you talk to any of the radar analysts to get a better idea of the speed, flight pattern, signature, etc? Did any other comparable stories come out after this? Was there an effort by the command to stamp down on the chatter about the incident?

This page just makes me realize I want a higher clearance :)

AdNew5216

2y ago

Did you end up getting that higher clearance? 😊

3 u/anon402 avatar

anon402

I didn't talk to any radar analysts. I believe (not positive at all) that we only had 1 radar analyst position in my squadron. Obviously, the ship has tons of radar analysts but my squadron only has 1. He is our Ops 0 or Operations Officer.

He did describe the speed being .8 mach which he compared to a Cessna. It was traveling at 20,000 ft every time it was spotting and disappeared from the radar within minutes of appearing twice prior to the scrambling of jets. I may have remembered the speed incorrectly, I am no expert on aircraft physics and those specifics. I do believe he said ".8 mach"

This was the only incident I ever witnessed/heard of in over 2 years of aircraft carrier deployments and work-ups. There was an effort by my command to stamp down the chatter and amazingly, they did not try to conceal the incident. My Commanding Officer put our squadron into a formation and our OPS 0 and CO explained that the rumors were accurate. The description of "tic tac" was directly from my Commanding Officer's mouth.

It would seem that there would be an effort to conceal or quiet the incident, but shockingly they didn't. However, the tapes (although they lasted 24 hours) were absolutely limited to individuals with highest clearance. (Hence, my friend in intel).

The fact that we can't seem to get clear pictures of repeated drone incursions, leads credence to the fact that any genuine NHI UFOs encounters would them almost be impossible to photograph, and thus debunking the entire premise that cameras everywhere should equal clear photos of the phenomenon.

Former nuclear security officer remembers how everything got quieter as a UFO flew above: "As it approached and came over us, it actually deadened sound wherever it moved... Almost like when you stick your head underwater... As soon as it was clear of us, that's when sound returned..."

Apparently most people here haven't read the scientific papers regarding the infamous Nimitz incident. Here they are. Please educate yourselves.

One paper is peer reviewed and authored by at least one PHD scientist. The other paper was authored by a very large group of scientists and professionals from the Scientific Coalition of UAP Studies.

<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC7514271/>

<https://drive.google.com/file/d/1uY47ijzGETwYJocR1uhqxp0KTPWChl0G/view>

It's a lot to read so I'll give the smooth brained apes among you the TLDR:

These objects were measured to be moving at speeds that would require the energy of multiple nuclear reactors and should've melted the material due to frictional forces alone. There should've been a sonic boom. Any known devices let alone biological material would not be able to survive the G forces. Control F "conclusions" to see for yourself.

Basically, we have established that the Nimitz event was real AND broke the known laws of physics. That's a big deal. Our best speculative understanding at the moment (and this is coming from physicists) is these things may be warping space time. I know it sounds like sci-fi.

This data was captured on some of the most sophisticated devices by some of the most highly trained people in the world. The data was then analyzed by credible scientists and their analyses was peer reviewed by other experts in their field and published in a journal.

This is a predatory journal on the Beall's list of predatory publishers and should be ignored. Kevin Knuth (the author of this paper) is also editor in chief of the journal. Entropy pays the editor in chief a percentage of their profits which the vast majority of scientific journals do not do in order to maintain objectivity. Kevin Knuth also blatantly advertises the journal on his lab website to encourage people to submit there. He's actively trying to get people to publish with him so he can turn a profit. He even profits from publishing in the journal himself.

This in my opinion removes any semblance of objectivity and credibility

From the journal Entropy, which I hadn't heard of. Here's more info <https://www.mdpi.com/journal/entropy> Upshot is they at least claim to be peer-reviewed; one of the authors of this is from SUNY.

Thanks for posting, though I could do without the insults. The atmosphere in this sub is aggressive and condescending enough already.

I've actually been to a lecture from the SUNY Albany professor in undergrad, contributed to continued interest in UAP.

Furthermore, some academics don't like MDPI much but I have published with them 3 times now and while it isn't nature or proceedings of the national academy or whatever I still think it holds up to reasonable standards that allows for easier and cheaper publishing that's not behind a pay wall.

Unfortunately the publishing group that Entropy belongs to is considered predatory and of lower scientific accuracy and validity. Not saying that this wasn't peer reviewed or seems fine given a quick read over but it's important to keep that in mind.

Source: I'm a career scientist at a major pharmaceutical company and have worked with Garry Nolan in the past on matters unrelated to UAP

Edit: Just found on the Entropy website that as editor in chief of Entropy, Kevin Knuth receives compensation for each article published in the journal. This is not common practice as most reputable journals do not pay their editorial board to maintain objectivity. Kevin Knuth also blatantly advertises the journal on his lab website which is extremely odd and I see now is to help him turn a profit. This has tanked my opinion of him and the journal

Don't know if you noticed that the author of the paper being shared (Kevin Knuth) is the editor of the journal it was published in (Entropy). Maybe the content's still fine, but it's not exactly the same as getting your paper peer-reviewed https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Entropy_\(journal\)) :

This is absolutely tone deaf towards this sub, and also fundamentally off point.

The self-deprecating language of those subs is an overt ridicule of the overly-masculine impulsive ape-like culture of finance/wall-street/stock-trading, and the references to smooth brains and general intellectual self-deprecation has to do with the mistakes and poor judgement experienced and demonstrated by, statistically, the majority of said cohort.

None of those terms are meant as some kind of transferrable glossary, and they are not meant to "update" modern language, internet language, or even reddit language in particular.

You don't bring your language from the betting parlor to ... -insert analogy for UFO/alien awareness community here-.

The reason everybody glosses over terms spanning from "ape" to "autistic" "retarded" etc. in those subs, is because they have been reduced to inner circle calling cards, they have the rich yet highly contextual meaning I have just explained, and everybody there does not just instinctively understand those things, but has at some point been directly informed of their meaning.

The fact that you have to enthusiastically present a short history of those subs and their culture to justify your use of the terms here, is the best sign you can get that they have no place here.

Indeed, both subs include people from all walks of life. Indeed, both subs pertain to topics of the most consequential nature to our civilization. Indeed, both center around working together to find the truth of the matter at hand and both especially have in common the political-economic string-pullers as the key oppressor, and both topics have science at their root.... but that's about all they have in common, and they have a giant difference that outweighs all similarities:

one is a chaotic gym-locker for mostly amateurs who are into stocks, with some pretty well organized hive projects at the moment...

while the other, this place, is a mostly safe space for discussing the most taboo topic not just in the current global society, but the most taboo/occulted (the word means "to hide from view" in latin) for all of human history.

It is a place the one thing that unites all members, is the knowledge that outside of this group they would be shunned for discussing it. Everyone here knows that they don't have much for an alternative to this place for discussing UFOs/Aliens, especially in the real sense and without prejudice. That means that whatever the tone of this place, even if toxic, there is little to none to replace it. So there is a big incentive to be as considerate as possible on the other members.

Also, unlike stock traders, who have been glorified again and again for the last 50 years... people who dared take this subject seriously have been ridiculed discredited and oppressed over the same period. They've been made to look like loony-bins, and conspiracy low-lives. There is no intrinsic cockiness to back the egos of people here when using the kind of language you are trying to bring in, as there is within the financial-markets-speculation space. This is a community with a root in humility. Humility in the face of what is pretty much obviously the greatest discovery in human history. The discovery of humanity's own history, the discovery that humanity is not alone in the universe and it's neighbours are visiting it, and the discovery that the system it's been relying on for governance, globally, has unanimously failed it by working against the greater good on the most important issue of all.

And here you come, utterly tone-deaf, like a drunk who just rolled in from an after-work session at the local stock-trading bucket shot, using terms which can and do only get one of 3 reactions:

distaste and indignation from those who are not aware where you came from and that you still think you're there and gleeful cheering from others who came from the same place and recognize a fellow member of their species, triggering an incontrollable instinct to perform the native greeting and recognition rituals.

This is what "going full retard" means. When you playfull address each other as such, then adjust one's behaviour in said community to play into the comedic relief... then bring all that with you to a completely unrelated place, and instead of realizing what is wrong with it when pointed out it's out of place... rather choosing to try and educate them in your "rd" ways. r/wsb would be proud of this meta demonstration of such "smooth-brained" behaviour.

This community doesn't need to be seen as connected to wsb and SS to get it's voice heard. It has it's own voice, and it speaks in a very different tone.

i think you have seriously misinterpreted both Knuth's paper and the SCU report.

agreed: UFO are real. agreed: the evidence is largely incontrovertible -- provided you stick to the evidence.

"moving at speeds" implies nothing about energy for propulsion. objects in motion will continue in motion, etc. and energy is just the potential to effect a change in matter, while power is the transformation of energy into the actual change, or work.

the emphasis instead is on the acceleration, for example the acceleration necessary to drop from a hover at 28,000 to a hover at 50 in 0.78 second. that's both positive acceleration for the giddyup in your getalong, and the negative acceleration for the whoa, nelly.

to calculate the power (specifically, thrust) required, Knuth makes assumptions. for example, he assumes the UFO has a mass of one metric ton. another of his tests is the initial evasion, which was nearly instantaneous. it's unclear whether that was displacement or visual cloaking (both options are suggested in the AATIP report summary, a third source you should be aware of). so, in one of Knuth's calculations, he takes Fravor's estimate of 50 mile visibility and assumes the UFO traveled that far in one second. (Fravor discusses this explicitly in his Joe Rogan interview.) Knuth also makes different assumptions about the acceleration curve, and aggregating all possible curves produces a probability distribution of the estimates of the power required.

if you are not a smoothed brained ape, you will have noticed the word "assumption" appears more than once. this places you at a very interesting juncture. you can either declare that UFO "defy the laws of physics" because your assumptions are valid (even though you have no evidence about the mass or anything else relevant) or you can suspect there is something wrong with your assumptions.

"multiple nuclear reactors" is a good place to start, since i think the mass estimate for even a single nuclear reactor is gonna be pretty hefty. and you don't merely need an energy reserve (battery, fuel, fissionable material), you also need the mechanism to transform the energy reserve into power (a motor, an engine, a reactor/generator), then a third mechanism to transfer that power into propulsion (a propellor, a drive shaft, a particle jet or warp bubble generator).

and, speaking of fringe science, until you can explain how "warping spacetime" actually or even hypothetically works, using real math, real data or valid physical theory, then you are not approaching this as a scientist but as a poet or a pseudoscientist, and simply using words to paint a picture that matches your visual impression. (you are also conceding that physical laws still apply.) speculation that doesn't lead to a specific testable hypothesis is not really

you get further into the weeds with the astonishing and profusely verified observation of no sonic boom and no ablation or exhaust or audible machine noise of some kind. that really gets me going, because it implies strongly that UFO are not a physical object in the normal sense -- not even in the weird normal sense of a "buoyant plasma".

it also strongly implies we're not talking about a machine in any normal sense of the word. now i truly am interested in this thing.

are they remarkable? you betcha. how do they work? you and i don't know, and i doubt anyone else does, either. why don't we know? because we all sit around talking without meaningful data or testable theory. the only people actually sitting on a data stream are in the military or in civilian agencies, like the FAA, NOIA or NASA, who don't need to talk to you or me about it. what their theories are i can't say, but they all seem pointed toward weapons development.

levelheaded response and I share your sentiments, however:

you can either declare that UFO "defy the laws of physics" because your assumptions are valid (even though you have no evidence about the mass or anything else relevant) or you can suspect there is something wrong with your assumptions.

alternatively, our understanding of the laws of physics are incomplete strongly implies we're not talking about a machine

There is a fundamental assumption at the heart of the first linked study (which cites incidents as early as the 1950s):

"Assuming that any one of the cases we examine is based on accurate reports"

That's key. Your conclusions are only as reliable as your data.

What this topic needs is more data.

Basically, we have established that the Nimitz event was real AND broke the known laws of physics.

This data was captured on some of the most sophisticated devices by some of the most highly trained people in the world. The data was then analyzed by credible scientists and their analyses was peer reviewed by other experts in their field and published in a journal.

Sadly you are wrong about all of this. I won't bother dealing with the second report you link to as it doesn't even meet the (relatively low bar) of being peer-reviewed. But the first article, publishing in MDPIs Entropy journal, is worth discussing in some detail.

MDPI journals are peer-reviewed and do publish many good papers, but they do have a reputation for a low bar for acceptance. It should be noted this article is published as part of a Special Issue for "the 39th International Workshop on Bayesian Inference and Maximum Entropy Methods in Science and Engineering". This is relevant for two reasons; 1. papers submitted as part of a conference of workshop are usually a bit less stringently vetted than those normally submitted to the journal, as they are intended to be a record of what occurred at the conference 2. the focus of this special issue is the methods used. The article should be seen as having been accepted on the basis of it being a demonstration of the methods, and NOT as an article specifically aiming to prove or disprove the nature of the phenomenon itself.

The real issue though is the content itself. The authors are very clearly not approaching this as scientists evaluating the evidence, but rather as UFO-believers with an agenda, taking the assumption of the existence of UFOs as advanced, technological craft as pre-established fact and then trying to describe their attributes. I will explain why this is clear in more detail, but even in the Abstract they are particularly credulous, using the word "craft" and giving short shrift to the possibility they events are not actually spaceships.

They simply don't display the level of caution you'd expect honest, critical-thinking scientists to apply.

The authors claim to focus on a "subset of cases for which there were multiple professional witnesses observing the UAV in multiple modalities (including sight, radar, infrared imaging, etc.)." But the first incident, the 1951 "Bethune encounter", doesn't seem to meet the criteria they describe - literally all the evidence is testimony from Bethune. There is no physical evidence. The authors extrapolate speeds from his verbal description of what occurred. That's not "data" at all. This is... less than convincing, and not a great start. They have applied a lot of math to calculate speeds, but on top of an extremely flimsy basis.

They next move on to Japan Air Lines Flight 1628 from 1986. Again, this doesn't really meet the criteria for different modes of observation; there was some initial FAA data that reported two objects but they later reversed that, saying it was an artifact of the data processing, and explaining exactly how this occurred. It is this data - which the FAA has stated is erroneous - that the authors analyze. Worth noting also that the authors make NO REFERENCE TO THE FAA's OFFICIAL EXPLANATION. Even if they were choosing to discount it and continue with the analysis, the fact they don't even mention this critical fact about the source of the data shows how they are really only interested in applying their mathematical efforts to a very specific, preformed interpretation of the facts. They must have known about it, as it's described here, on the site the authors themselves are using as a source!

Finally, they deal with the Nimitz encounters. But again, the "data" they have is largely nothing more than verbal descriptions. The radar "data" they analyze is literally the personal written communications from Senior Chief Operations Specialist Kevin Day. The pilot "data", as we all know, is also nothing more than the testimony of Commander Fravor, without any associated data from instruments. And finally, there is the ATFLIR Video "gofast". This is still a single, isolated piece of evidence of an encounter, but we can be generous and take it as a real example of data from more than one modality, as the video itself is data, and contains secondary data such as the speed of the observing aircraft. I won't speak to the accuracy of the analysis of speed itself, as it's way out of my wheelhouse.

All-in-all this is not the slam-dunk you think it is. If you want to read this paper as a demonstration of the methods they are using to calculate speeds, fine. But if you want to take it as evidence of the credibility of the events themselves, or their nature as technological craft, then this is a poor source.

Some other comments; Many of the references the authors use are youtube videos or "UFO-believer" sites, all referenced without any commentary on possible issues with those as sources. This itself is highly unusual in academic literature and shows how little effort the authors put into questioning their own assumptions.

Isn't that what they got called out for before. A bunch of these guys were BS and fake. They just work as a for profit company stealing money.

The internet is full of fake BS. Especially when we have real shit like Nimitz. They use those events to make something people pay for.

Good thread but I do have one small objection (more of a niggle) to the OP description...

The movement and maneuverability of these craft do not necessarily 'break the laws of physics'. I hear this statement quite a bit, especially from the media, but it isn't really accurate. There's no question they have more advanced technology than we do. But the laws of physics remain intact... they just have a more advanced understanding of the laws and how to harness them to engineer these craft. We can't do what they do with OUR current understanding of physics. THEIR understanding is obviously far ahead of ours so, to us, much of what they can do is perplexing to us. It's like showing a smart phone to a Roman soldier... He would swear it was magic (and then I would promptly be crucified for being a witch or something).

Apart from that, great thread!

For the "peer review" to be meaningful, the papers have to be published in respected academic journals. Anything less is only slightly better than a detailed post here on Reddit. Worth noting that the "Scientific Coalition of UAP Studies" is not very prestigious or highly credentialed.

<https://www.explorescu.org/team>

The executive board is composed of a chemist, an IT consultant / architect, and a guy with a degree in earth science. The rest of the team includes a geographer, an anthropologist / historian, an electrical engineer, a mathematician, and one single physicist. That's not exactly the A Team when you're talking about analyzing aeronautics. I would take their conclusions with a grain of salt.

I'd also point out that there is no conclusion from the PMC study that says these UAPs "break the laws of physics." It just says they display "technical capabilities far exceeding those of our fastest aircraft and spacecraft."

Read the conclusion for yourself:

It is difficult to draw any definitive conclusions at this point regarding the nature and origin of these UAVs other than the fact that we have shown that these objects cannot be of any known aircraft or missiles using current technology. We have characterized the accelerations of several UAVs and have demonstrated that if they are craft then they are indeed anomalous, displaying technical capabilities far exceeding those of our fastest aircraft and spacecraft. It is not clear that these objects are extraterrestrial in origin, but it is extremely difficult to imagine that anyone on Earth with such technology would not put it to use. Even though older sightings are less reliable, observations of seemingly similar UAPs go back to well before the era of flight [1]. Collectively, these observations strongly suggest that these UAVs should be carefully studied by scientists

No, it did NOT break the known laws of physics. What it did was break our understanding of how an object could overcome things such as friction in the air, and how biological entities could survive the acceleration/deceleration.

Anti-gravity allows for these things, and does not break the laws of physics as we know them. This shit has literally been theorized for the last 80+ years.

Go figure, I only just now saw this post ... 22 days after the fact.

Thank you for the 'shortened' version, which made me start to read everything else: I refuse to be called a smooth brained ape.

I have always figured that the moment all of our newer (at the time) tech started picking up on UAPs with what seemed to be the greatest of ease, analysis would instantly begin ... along with all of the debunking that people like Mick West can offer. Such is life.

I, for one, have every last bit of faith that the Nimitz group and its pilots saw exactly what they say they saw. I am not one who lives in denial of what is obviously and tangibly possible ... and happens to be flying through our skies.

Whatever tech the UAPs are using as barriers (shields) which allows the vehicles to slide through nearly "any" medium or environment that they happen to be traversing, will be a game-changer for whichever Earthly military develops it first.

I don't know if any of the info in the links makes mention of this, but I've got my fingers crossed that I might be right: If microwaves happen to be the 'magic key' that affects how the friction of/against matter can be eliminated, THAT is a big find.

Thanks for this informative post & links.

The big assumption is that the radar data is correct. Nobody in these studies had any access to the actual data and none of it is corroborated. The people that did have access to it concluded that any unusual movement is probably due to misinterpretation of data, sensor errors or spoofing.

Taking suspect data and then interpolating from it is going to yield wonky results. These scientific studies are using uncorroborated data that leads to extraordinary but unconfirmed results. You speak cavalierly that the Nimitz event was real AND broke the laws of physics but nobody actually knows that. These studies certainly don't prove it.

I think it's hard to disagree with what you say. I realize it's frustrating for people but as things stand nobody in the public has access to any data regarding the performance characteristics of the 'tic tac' object so it is not possible yet to determine anything with confidence.

This has actually been posted before, a few times. And here are a few things that get brought up each time... Things that everyone needs to take into consideration when reading this.

First, the person who wrote the article and peer reviewed it, was the same person that works as the editor for the journal that published it. Kevin Knuth and the journal name is Entropy. It's a major conflict of interest, at the very least.

Second, and most importantly, all data in the article is based only off of the eyewitness testimony. They did not have access to any technical data that proves any of the testimony is accurate. Mr Knuth simply took the eye witness testimony, calculated the math involved with their claims, made a few graphs to show it, and put it in this paper as "This is real and no way this could have been our tech". It's misleading, if not full on disingenuous to be presented like this. No well respected scientific journal would do such a thing.

Which brings me to the last point, Entropy published this and then paid for it to be made available over at NCBI. While they are a real peer-reviewed journal, they are relatively small and not well known at all. And judging by how poorly this paper was written, presented, and published, they are not ever going to be well respected.

All that said, I am not trying to prove or disprove anything about the encounter with these statements. Those pilots and operators obviously saw and filmed something. I am simply pointing out that this published paper is borderline bullshit and everyone should be aware that it does not meet the very basic scientific standards. It only got pushed through because the person who wrote it, works for Entropy and pushed it through himself. It is based purely off of word of mouth and there's no testable data or evidence used, or provided, and this is not made abundantly clear in the paper.

We have different directions ideally, there is nothing wrong with it, we cannot all be identical we can only work together. Philosophically, and in art, we do not care about the reality except of what we can abstract from it more often than what it really includes, yet hyper-realistic art most often speaks the closest to reality for viewers, the artist dwells where reality ends.

You have to expect a little bit of self deprecating humor in a place that brings together worker bees and brain bees. We can't all be Mensa scientists. There is such an ENORMOUS gap in the education level between "normal folk" and "scientists". It's getting smaller but its still huge. Most of the folks I interact with on the daily think the word "physics" has something to do with physical therapy. And "firmware" is a starched stiff pair of pants. They're still people. Most of whom really and truly KNOW something is off these days, but don't have the foundational knowledge to articulate it scientifically. I think in dealing with these issues, there does in fact need to be a large helping of humility on ones plate. Right next to an equal helping of patience.

The simplest explanation of these phenomenon is that we are mutual participants in an active simulation and these are individuals like us "hacking it" or the entities producing it participating. The lack of adherence to the physical laws we are bound by points to trans-time-space actors we are able to observe as manifestation in the plenum. Reality is likely very much inverted from what we intuit.

Or we could cheat and reverse engineer whatever these things are. I think the answer is obvious.

There's no such thing as a smooth-brained ape. Please educate yourself. And thanks for the post. The reason these craft dont generate frictional heat and create sonic booms is simply because they dont interact with the atmosphere; even a lightning strike, which is essentially a train of electrons moving through the atmosphere creates incredible heat and sound energy and is bound by convention. These craft simply must isolate themselves from their local physical environment, creating some kind of gravity bubble. Occam's razor..

The SCU does some good work based on the very limited info. released by the Navy - I have read it, and I agree that people should read it if they want more detail on how these objects manoeuvre.

I would suggest though that you don't be so condescending. People may not know it's there, or have time to read it.

If people want to find out more, it's always possible, but stuff is so scattered around it can be hard to find. A good sub to find a list of good documentation & links is r/UFOB

We don't know what "Space" is. May be space doesn't need to be wrapped, may be matter can travel without interference with other matter, like it is out of phase.

These objects were clearly not interfering with other matter except having their own radiation, which gave away their position in this space time..

This was fascinating.

At the g's they are pulling on earth they could reach our nearest star systems in days. This is assuming they are using the full capability of their crafts.

Articles like this formalize and legitimize the curiosity into UAP. It still will not deter the absolutely wackadoodles here though. UAP research gets legitimized, they will take a few more steps towards candy land and undermine the whole thing.

I think it's more accurate to say they operated at a level of physics we do not have an understanding of rather than say they broke the laws of physics. We don't know that is true. It is more likely they found a way around the methods we think of as necessary.

Journal homepage

Entropy is a monthly open access scientific journal covering research on all aspects of entropy and information theory. It was established in 1999 and is published by MDPI. The journal occasionally publishes special issues compiled by guest editors.[1] The editor-in-chief is Kevin H. Knuth (University at Albany, SUNY).

Sections

Entropy consists of eight sections:[2]

Thermodynamics Section
Statistical Mechanics
Information Theory
Quantum Information Complexity
Astrophysics and Cosmology
Entropy Reviews
Entropy and Biology

Abstracting and indexing

The journal is abstracted and indexed in:

Chemical Abstracts Service

Current Contents/Physical, Chemical & Earth Sciences

Inspec

MathSciNet

Science Citation Index Expanded

Scopus

Zentralblatt MATH

According to the Journal Citation Reports, the journal has a 2023 impact factor of 2.1.[3]

2013 Paper on glyphosate

In 2013, Entropy published a review paper saying glyphosate may be the most important factor in the development of obesity, depression, attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, autism, Alzheimer's disease, Parkinson's disease, multiple sclerosis, cancer, and infertility.[4] The paper does not contain any primary research results.[4] It was criticized as pseudo-science by the science magazine Discover[5] and Jeffrey Beall, founder of Beall's List of predatory open-access publishers, said "Will MDPI publish anything for money?".[6] Beall removed MDPI from his list of predatory publishers in October 2015.[7]

In response to the controversy, the editors of Entropy added an "Expression of Concern" to the article's frontmatter.[4] In 2017 researchers Robin Mesnage and Michael N. Antoniou,[8] both of whom are working to limit the use of glyphosate,[9] said that "although evidence exists that glyphosate-based herbicides are toxic below regulatory set safety limits, the arguments of [authors] Samsel and Seneff largely serve to distract rather than to give a rational direction."

Tic Tac UFO Mega Thread- 270 pg. scientific report, act of war, new information and analysis, and original 2007 video poster returns

The Tic Tac was moving from right to left the entire time in the video. I don't know why it seems like everyone, including TTSA and the History channel have either missed this or ignored this and claimed instantaneous acceleration from a stationary position.

A Reddit user posted a description of the Nimitz encounter back in 2013.

Above Top Secret user posted the Tic Tac video along with an incident report online back in 2007. He got criticized heavily and it was called a hoax initially and even got banned for puppet accounts.

He has recently returned with a new username and is currently being verified and questioned in an ongoing thread found at the bottom of the links section of this post.

Sonar contact was not confirmed in any official reports, and I believe sonar contact is very unlikely due to the distance between the sub and the USO, and also unlikely to be heard due to the method of propulsion likely used by the Tic Tac craft which causes it to be silent in the air even at hypersonic speeds

Keep in mind that TFT, TFTR, necroflesh, and necroticflesh are all likely the same person, or at least posting from the same IP. theseer might be Kevin Day. Cometa and Cometa2 are the same person and I suspect they might have a very close relationship with TFT. I thought that Trevor might be TFT but I doubt it because Trevor claims there is a full video that is longer than what we've seen with a differently shaped craft and more advanced maneuvers while TFT claims it is basically the same video just longer.

Witnesses-

Commander David Fravor- Witness to Tic Tac incident. Has given multiple interviews and his full account of the encounter.

Commander Jim Slaight- WSO in the backseat of the F-18 with a female pilot flying high cover. (Thanks u/ZincFishExplosion!)

Anonymous female pilot and her WSO were flying high-cover during the engagement.

The pilot and WSO who were in the flight right after Fravor that took the FLIR1 Tic Tac video.

Lt. Colonel Douglas "Cheeks" Kurth- Marine aviator who was in the Red Devils and arrived at the USO disturbance in the water before Fravor but left before seeing the Tic Tac

Kevin Day (Princeton)- was there in the radar room, and was the supervisor but not actually the one on the radio. He seems to embellish stuff like saying there were 100 tracks when it was likely only 10 objects multiple times.

Jason Turner (Princeton)- He claims to have seen a 10 minute video showing insane maneuvers but Fravor says the video we have is definitely the full video. Given that Fravor is the one who actually copied and possessed the tape, he would probably know.

Gary Voorhis (Princeton)- The sonar contact hearsay is unsubstantiated and not corroborated by anyone other than him, and it is highly unlikely. His quote that it came from "the other sub" is ambiguous and there is also no record of another sub being present. It was also determined that there were no sonar contacts in the official report. The story about men with suits landing in a helicopter and seizing the radar data and then wiping the system totally clean is hard to believe, but if that didn't happen then why are the ship's logs from that day missing when they should be easy to acquire with a FOIA request?

P.J. Hughes (Nimitz)- He was on the Nimitz in charge of the E-2 Hawkeye data. What happened to this classified CEC data and why was it taken? Was Fravor the "skipper" who signed them out with two air force officers?

Roger (E2 Hawkeye)- Roger is a friend of PJ who wishes to remain anonymous. Why does this guy not want to share his name or be on camera? If everyone in the E2 saw the tic tac out the window of the plane, then where is their testimony? They landed on the Nimitz where Fravor said that nobody was given an NDA or told that they couldn't talk about it.

Omar Lara (Nimitz)- Says he saw large lights at night going very fast making impossible maneuvers, possibly going underwater.

Trevor (Nimitz)- Won't give out his last name. Says he saw a 10 minute video while on board the Nimitz, similar to what Jason Turner described.

Let me know if you guys have any questions or comments about this event or if you have any additional information that we should consider. Also definitely let me know if there were any mistakes in my analysis so that I can address them or fix it. I'm neither a believer nor a skeptic, and just someone who is trying to figure out what actually happened.

Edit: thanks for the gold! I've edited this post to show that Commander Jim Slaight was the Weapons System Operator WSO of the other pilot's F-18 that was flying high cover. Commander Fravor's WSO is not currently talking about the event.

EDIT: comment from Dave Beaty (pasted here for greater visibility)

"Expatriatefreedom, Re Witnesses - I have answers to some of your questions about Gary, Jason's and PJ.'s testimony as you mentioned the above details from my film. (since they are not anywhere else) All of these men and myself are easy to contact . Kevin as well who came forward on his own. I even have a contact link on my website.

•Kevin has indeed said 100 tracks.... over an entire week. He never said 100 and left off the other part. He saw groups of 5+. at a time. •I revealed the female pilot in the other jet in Feb 2018 as documented on Twitter with my exchanges with Paco Cherici and reported incorrectly in MSM and Wikipedia as Lt Cmd Jim Slaight being the other "wingman pilot" at that time. •My FOIA request for USS Princeton's deck log came back as missing for the entire YEAR 2004. Not just that day. •Fravor was CO of the Black Aces as you note, not bangers. Two different world's. VAW-117 was dealing with CEC, not VFA-41. PJ said the strike fighter guys had nothing to do with their ship, ever. Also how would Fravor know about officials coming aboard another ship entirely - the USS Princeton, to retrieve the AEGIS tapes? Calling these shipmates liars and their statement's bullshit is just pretentious. •It's my understanding that the FLIR video was possibly fed to the ships and a "realtime" link was seen at the time of the intercept. Lt Cmd Jim Slaight has also stated the WSO's begin recording as soon as they launch and set up the ANQ-228. They don't hit record AFTER they begin an engagement. So regardless of the section of the encounter copied by Fravor, a longer version of the recording did exist at one time. I don't think only the squadron CO has a copy of the FLIR after a flight? Jason's story of seeing a longer version in SSES rings true. •Roger is a pilot with a defense contractor now, has a clearance and does not want to come forward. He stands by his statement, I have verified his service in VAW-117 so take it or leave it. It's anecdotal. •Omar Lara never said he saw any objects that went underwater.

I have no knowledge of Trevor.

These guys are all answering the questions the best they can. I am releasing all my interviews with them for free on my youtube channel this week. Thanks for seeking the truth.

Another correction: Jim Slaight was the WSO in the other F-18, the one flying cover and piloted by the female aviator.

Also: this page is out of date, but it does an excellent job of breaking down the eyewitness testimony (as of July 2018). It's definitely a skeptical point of view and arrives at conclusions that might irk some, but it's a helpful resource nonetheless as it links directly to a number of sources.

Thanks for this writeup. I've been fascinated with this particular incident for a while now. A question occurred to me last night, while I was watching Unidentified ep 2:

Elizondo claims that he ran the AATIP from 2009-2017, right? So the AATIP never investigated the Nimitz incident? The show makes it seem like he's interviewing the witnesses and learning details of the event for the first time. I actually found that so unsettling that I turned the show off. I've never taken this subject seriously enough to do much research on my own, and I know there's a lot of bullshit out there...I'm not sure who to believe.

So the AATIP never investigated the Nimitz incident?

That's.... unclear.

And another oddity that doesn't get mentioned often.

According to the Fighter Sweep article:

However last month when I called Dave to refresh my memory before sitting down to write this bizarre encounter, he informed me that the video had been removed from YouTube. He told me that a government agency with a three letter identifier had recently conducted an investigation into the AAVs and had exhaustively interviewed all parties involved.

The article was written in 2015, three years after AATIP was shut down. If accurate, it raises all kinds of questions.

Was AATIP actually shut down in 2012?

Regardless, what agency conducted the investigation?

If AATIP was charged with investigating UFOs and ran from 2009-2012, why didn't they interview witnesses to the Nimitz incident during that time frame?

Whoever investigated, why did it take TEN YEARS to do so?

Considering the recent NY Times article about the sightings in 2014-2015, it makes me wonder if those events created some renewed interest in the Nimitz encounter. But that's just a guess.

As I keep saying, this whole thing is a confusing, confusing jumble.

My take on that is that it was a decision by the makers of the show to make things seem more exciting by making it look like Elizondo was conducting an investigation.

theseer might be Kevin Day.

They claimed that they confirmed it was. From the first page of the TFT returns thread (before the TFT returns drama begins), a post by elevenaugust:

After some search, (special thanks to Curt Collins) "theseer" was identified to be the Navy veteran "Kevin M. Day".

I get that. Later in the ATS thread, it's mentioned that a user was in contact with Day, but nowhere does it say, "he said he was theseer".

When it comes to doxing and the like, it's better safe than sorry. I've edited my post to say that users on ATS "claimed that they confirmed" it was Day. A small change, but more factually correct.

All that said, I believe ATS has rather strict rules about exposing people's identities without permission. I assume that if there wasn't real confirmation, that post would have been deleted right away.

Lastly, I know Day is active on FB and supposedly pretty responsive. Maybe ask him?

The video referred to, where an object flies from right to left the entire time, was the first video in the Dec. 2017 NYT article.

Nowhere in that article is that first video associated with the Nimitz Encounter. That video was included in the story for spurious reasons.

People trying to discredit the testimony of the Nimitz Encounter witnesses attribute that video to the Nimitz Encounter. This is done in ignorance or as disinformation, as a deception.

The many witnesses to the Nimitz Encounter describe many different maneuvers. Anyone who was not there who makes claims about these maneuvers is not a witness and is clearly either ignorant or is involved in disinformation or deception.

Examining public witness testimony is valid. To use or allude to disinformation in doing so is deceptive.

No sane person would ever participate in disinformation or deceptions in relation to any US military exercise if they understood that was what they were doing. The exception would be people working for the US military.

People treat this as an academic debate about an event that happened years in the past. This is not wise. Encounters of this nature are ongoing. This directly concerns the US military. They are actively recording encounters, and we can assume they will be investigating.

The fact that people push deceptions about this event raises questions. The first and most important questions are obvious: Who is doing this? Who does this serve?

Something that would be nice to see would be a reconstruction of where these things were distributed in space based on witness testimony.

For example, as I understand it, the radar people saw a few things on their radar screen and Fravor et al. were asked to go towards the nearest one. What happened to the others? Was it the one Fravor et al. saw that then later emerged at their 'CAP' location? - where did that one go subsequently?

Above Top Secret user posted the Tic Tac video along with an incident report online back in 2007.

What I find most interesting is that TFT's early recounting of the Nimitz encounter is SO close to the version that we see now, yet it includes a few rather glaring discrepancies. For example, TFT originally said it occurred in 2004 rather than 2005.

Also, the supposed report on ATS says the tic-tac was:

5NM WEST FROM POSITION OF UNID OBJECT IN WATER

That being the object causing the churning witnessed by Fravor.

Yet in all of Fravor's later accounts, the tic-tac is directly above the churning water.

From the Fighter Sweep article (3/16/2015):

[Fravor] was startled by the sight of a white object that was moving about just over the frothing water

From the New York Times article "2 Navy Airmen and an Object That 'Accelerated Like Nothing I've Ever Seen" (12/16/17):

Hovering 50 feet above the churn was an aircraft of some kind – whitish – that was around 40 feet long and oval in shape.

There's other little differences too. In the FighterSweep version, FASTEAGLE is finishing up a training exercise when they get vectored to investigate the radar contact. In the ATS report, they were vectored there "UPON TAKE OFF".

I'm not saying this proves or disproves anything one way or the other. There's plenty of logical explanations for why such discrepancies could exist - fog of war, faded memories, honest mistakes. But it definitely doesn't help things. It just muddies the water (as do the contradictions in the stories told by others who served on the Nimitz).

It's all just.... weird. I don't have a better word for it. The very fact that some unknown individual leaked the video with a version of the story on ONE conspiracy message board back in 2007 only to disappear completely (maybe to return 12 years later) and for that story to be all but forgotten for nearly a decade only to be revived with plenty of witnesses who are now more than willing to talk about it.... It's just.... weird? confusing? suspicious? hard to process? all of the above?

It is also very possible for someone to have PTSD from an event they experienced but did not witness. PTSD is when the brain cannot process a traumatic experience and gets locked in. If this event had a major impact on Day, there is no reason to disbelieve his claim of being traumatized.

This is a great question and it's actually what got me so interested in this event. I am currently trying to determine who is telling the truth and who might be incorrect or have ulterior motives but so far I've been unable to do so conclusively. I think it's very interesting that two witnesses say they have seen a longer video with more interesting movements and a differently shaped craft, and the original poster of the video says that he was in possession of a longer video that was an unreadable file. I don't know why these three people would all claim to have seen a longer video when Commander Fravor has stated numerous times that what has been released is the full video.

It's also interesting that TTSA claims that their copy is the original video when the original video seems to be slightly better quality and was posted back in 2007, and the metadata analysis shows slight differences in terms of things like FPS and each version has a few different missing frames.

Personally, I don't care about the gender discrepancy of the radio operator talking to the F-18's and I think we should focus on the more important conflicting statements such as the existence of the alleged longer video. Sonar contact is also an interesting rumor to me because it would help explain the relationship of the larger USO or show the Tic-Tac's capabilities in greater detail that might also give us a clue what kind of propulsion it might be using. The Air Force officers and men in suits or plain clothes are also interesting because I think we need to figure out where the data was taken and why. Then we can either make assumptions and/or demand the release of the radar and sonar data for further scientific investigation.

Kniucht

I am 100% sure there is longer video. Perhaps not from the ATFLIR, but HUD tapes are recorded on every flight. Fravor didn't record any FLIR data, but he did engage the TicTac which he said zipped by him when he rolling in. This would likely be captured on HUD tapes with associated radio comms.

Do you think that it's only possible to accelerate from a "stationary position"? There is no such thing as a "stationary position" because anything that isn't accelerating is stationary in its own frame of reference. The UFO was traveling at a constant speed and suddenly accelerated to a much higher speed. And I could have sworn the sonar data was from another submarine and not from the hangar

u/expatfreedom avatar

I understand acceleration can be from speed 1 to speed 2. In my video analysis I said that looking at the top of the display you can see how the degrees change more rapidly. This is likely a product of the plane getting closer to the object, and the object speeding up or accelerating.

My point is that most articles and videos I have seen unfortunately make NO mention of the craft being in constant movement from 4 degrees right to 8 degrees left, so I just wanted to point that out because the History channel either intentionally ignored it or failed to mention it.

What is a hangar ship? Gary Voorhis has said that he heard directly from a friend on the submarine that they made sonar contact, but he has also said that it came from "the other sub" which there is no record of, and this statement is ambiguous and can be interpreted in a few different ways.

Nobody has officially claimed instantaneous acceleration in the video. That claim was made by Cmdr. Favor, who had rolled in on the TicTac. He stated when he rolled in the TicTac rotated towards him and blew by him at incredible speed, vanishing from sight.

Seems people are conflating reports.

But during every video analysis I've seen including the one done on the History channel they only talk about the rapid acceleration seen at the end of the video, but somehow fail to mention or realize that it has been moving the same direction during the entire video.

TTSA seriously released video that's been out over 10 years? Is there any working copy of the video that TFT posted? His video link is dead. This whole situation gets more and more rotten every day. Things aren't adding up.

Yes, you can use the wayback machine link or this link to directly view or download the f4.mpg video. My theory is that TTSA could have gotten the video off of YouTube, or the government might have decided to "release" the footage because it was already online.

Geez Im spamming, but thinking of new points as I submit others.

"Check the SA, there's a whole fleet of them".

The F18's SA page is populated from 4 LINK-16 sources: Personal radar, radar from other aircraft in flight, RWR data, and AWACS or other host like a fleet. The AWACS in this case was the E-3. It is incomprehensible to believe there are not records of this data.

This information really gets at the core of the debate behind the nature of the current push for disclosure including the possible motivations of both TTSA and the government. How did they not point out that the object in the video was moving during the analysis on the show Unidentified? Is it possible that the Pentagon decided to "officially release" the Tic Tac video because the original video was already online for over a decade? Who is TFT and why is he not doing public interviews yet about what he saw? (Maybe he is worried about legal issues but it seems like the government could track him down if they wanted to)

Why have the longer versions of the video that supposedly exist not yet been released to the public, and why is David Fravor apparently unaware of their existence? We also need access to the radar data in order to re-construct the event and accurately study the encounter.
